Berlin Crisis Aired At Top Level

Dewey Foreign Advisor Called To White House

Causes Speculation Next Counter-Move Has Been Decided On

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Thomas E. Dewey's foreign affairs advisor and the British ambassador were called in by the administration today in a round of high-level conferences on the Russian blockade of Berlin.

There was some speculation that the move might mean the next counter-measure has been decided on.

The German crisis, with its underlying threat toward peace, was "high on the list" of discussions between President Truman and top diplomatic and military officials at the White House.

Later John Foster Dulles, advisor to Gov. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, and Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador, were consulted at the State Department.

Dulles had his first face-to-face meeting in weeks with Secretary of State Marshall. They conferred about 45 minutes.

Franks talked for an hour later in the day with Undersecretary Lovett. He told reporters that the Berlin situation was discussed.

Draper Reports To Truman

Asked whether the President's midday meeting with Marshall and military leaders meant a decision had been reached on the Western Powers' next move to counter the Russian blockade in the German capital, Franks said:

"I can't speculate about that."

Mr. Truman got a fresh report in person from Undersecretary of the Army William H. Draper.

Draper has just returned from the Berlin area, where a Russian clampdown on food and fuel shipments from the west has brought about the possibility of a clash between Russian and western arms.

Grimly, Draper refused to tell reporters what went on behind the White House doors. Others, including Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Defense Forrestal, and Secretary of the Army Royall, were equally silent.

But Press Officer Lincoln White, speaking for the State Department, said: "You can be sure Berlin was high on the list of subjects discussed."

Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary for the White House, said the military leaders "gave the President a fill-in on the Berlin situation. The President is being kept constantly informed of developments."

Forceful Action May Be Taken

These developments are expected to shape up rapidly this week. The United States, Britain and France may agree within a matter of days on a course of forceful action plan-

Yaks Fly Over British Airport

BERLIN, July 19. (AP)—A flight of Russian Yak fighter planes arrived in Berlin from the Soviet zone of Germany today and did a bit of acrobatics as they passed over the British field in the German capital.

A British official said Russian authorities had notified the four-power air control center sometime earlier that the Yaks would be flying into the Berlin area. He said they did not interfere with today's Allied airlift operation into the Soviet-blockaded city.

American officers reported that a formation of 12 Yaks appeared and that two of them swept down to "buzz" the field. They also said those two fighters then zoomed upward and made a "belly pass" at an American C-54 transport plane which was passing the field at that moment.

The United States officers expressed the opinion that the Russians had mistaken the British field for their own which is only about six miles away. They said they thought the pilots were "out-of-town boys" coming into Berlin from the Russian zone.

Truman To Dump Price Issue Into Lap Of Congress

President Working On Anti-Inflation Measure

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—President Truman will dump the whole issue of soaring prices in Congress' lap Monday at the opening of the extra session, in a ready-made bill.

One obvious purpose is to get in the first punch of a White House-Capitol battle that gives every promise of raging as long as the lawmakers stay here.

The certain bitterness of the impending fight was pointed up, meanwhile, by a move among angry southern Democrats to second Republicans in criticism during the special meeting. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) let reporters know that the Dixie group has no intention of submitting tamely to party discipline and swallowing the Truman program, specially on civil rights.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, told newsmen that Mr. Truman is at work on a bill taking in most if not all of the 10-point anti-inflation program he urged on Congress last November.

"Concrete" Price Bill Planned

"There will be a concrete bill on high prices," Ross said, but added that details have not yet been settled.

"The 10-point program is still good," he said, "although it is being examined in the light of developments since it was first submitted."

Ross had nothing to say about the chance for a specific recommendation on tighter bank lending as an inflation curb. Neither would he say whether the President will propose direct reimposition of wartime price controls.

Authority to restore price, wage and rationing controls if necessary was part of last fall's proposal.

In announcing, at the Philadelphia Democratic convention, his intention to call the lawmakers back, Mr. Truman talked of civil rights measures, housing and education aids, along with price curbs.

"The President's position on housing," Ross said, "is that if passage of the bill is delayed until the January session the start of the housing program will be delayed perhaps a year or more."

Truman Confers With Barkley

Ross said Mr. Truman conferred yesterday with Sen. Barkley (D-Ky) his vice presidential running mate, on plans for the special session and for the campaign. After the meeting Barkley left for his home in Paducah, Ky.

A White House caller today was Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) who brought the President a proposal to require a 30-day "cooling off pe-

Men Of 25 May Be First Called In Draft

Maj. Gen. Hershey Is Sworn In As Director Of Selective Service

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Men of 25 may be the first ones called in the peacetime draft.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey disclosed that idea was under consideration as he was sworn in today as director of selective service under the law passed by the last Congress.

Hershey gave no details in his brief comment but the purpose of taking 25-year-olds first would be obvious—they will soon be past the law's age limit. If they are not taken quickly they cannot be taken at all.

Registration for the draft runs from age 18 through 25. The law says men from 19 through 25 may be inducted.

Actual Decision Not Made

The actual decision on who will be called first has not been made yet, Hershey said at a news conference after the ceremony. But he volunteered:

"There has been quite a little discussion of starting with the older ones first."

The General said he has no information yet as to when registration will start. Neither does he know, he said, when the first draft calls will come, nor how many men the first draft will require.

Under the law, actual drafting cannot start until September 22.

Hershey said the first job so far as he is concerned is to get some local draft boards and state selective service directors. The directors are nominated by governors and appointed by the President.

Hershey said 13,000,000 cards and registration certificates have been prepared.

9,600,000 To Register

The initial registration is expected to total 9,600,000, increasing thereafter by several thousand a month.

Registration places will total only 4,000 compared with 120,000 rushed into use before World War Two. Hershey commented that in case of an emergency it would be simple to expand the system to the total of 6,500 draft boards which functioned during the war.

He told reporters he personally believes the nation can not maintain a force of the size required through voluntary enlistment.

The General is taking his second assignment as draft chief. He directed the system during the war. In the interim he was in charge of the Office of Selective Service Records which maintained a small nucleus of trained draft men within the Army.

Tired Boy Erects Tent On Railroad, Wakens With Cut

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 19 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old George McKenna, Tyler, Tex., was tired and sleepy when he pitched his tent last night.

George, here on a summer tour, fell asleep as soon as he hit the sack. He was still asleep at 6:50 a. m., Pacific Daylight Time.

That was the moment a Pacific electric train came whizzing down the track en route to Newport Beach. When George awoke he had a gash in his head. But otherwise he was all right.

It was then he discovered that, in the darkness, he had tied one end of the tent on the electric's right of way.

U. S., Yugoslavia Settle Dispute

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia settled amicably a long dispute with the United States today in the wake of his split with the Cominform.

The Yugoslav Deputy Finance Minister came from Belgrade to sign with Secretary Marshall at the State Department an agreement to pay the United States more than $17,000,000 in settlement of American wartime and postwar claims.

The United States in return will surrender to Tito some $47,000,000 of Yugoslav gold reserves held in this country since 1942. It also will unfreeze Yugoslav private assets amounting to $10,000,000.

Included in the sums Tito's Communist regime agreed to pay within the next 45 days is compensation for two United States Army transport planes which Yugoslav fighters shot down two years ago. This wrote a final chapter to an incident which cost the lives of five American fliers and strained relations with Belgrade almost to the breaking point.

The settlement, resulting largely from Yugoslav concessions, stirred speculation that Tito is turning to the West for friendship since the Soviet-dominated Cominform denounced him as being "hateful" and out of step with Moscow. Responsible officials asserted, however, there was no direct and obvious link. They noted Yugoslavia first took the initiative last February to revive negotiations which started 14 months ago and had been suspended for months.

Republic Steel Grants 13-Cent Hourly Increase

PITTSBURGH, July 19 (AP) — President Philip Murray, of the CIO-United Steelworkers, today announced agreement had been reached with the Republic Steel Corporation of Cleveland granting 13-cent hourly wage increases to 55,000 production workers.

Murray said the agreement was negotiated "on the same terms and conditions as the wage pact reached Friday with the United States Steel Corporation."

German Plans For New State Will Be Heard

Allies And Political Leaders To Discuss Counterproposals

BERLIN, July 19 (AP)—The American, British and French military governors agreed tonight to talk over with political leaders from their Zones German counterproposals for a separate Western German government.

They will meet the German ministers-president for the three western zones in Frankfurt tomorrow in an effort to obtain clarification of the German proposals, American officials said.

Reliable sources said that in the background was a growing hesitancy of the French to push through the Western Powers' plan for a separate government.

The reluctance coincided with the Berlin crisis and increasing tension between the Western Powers and Russia.

Economic Paralysis Spreads

Economic paralysis spread in Western Berlin. The number of industries closed since the Soviet blockade choked off coal from the Ruhr reached 1,000. Military government experts said by the end of the week as high as 200,000 persons may be looking for jobs.

An official statement on the meeting of the military governors said no other subjects such as the blockade of Berlin was discussed. The statement denied reports that the United States had asked Britain and France to join a forcible breaking of the blockade.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, and Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, the French ambassador, met with Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the British military governor, at Robertson's Berlin headquarters. They were flanked by their closest advisors.

France Is Reluctant

Reliable Allied sources said one aim of the meeting was to overcome French reluctance to establish the envisaged West German state. This would exist in fact if not in name even under the German counter-proposals.

The commanders presented Allied plans for a West German state to the German zonal heads about a month ago. The Allied plans had been drawn previously in London. German counterproposals followed on July 8.

The Germans said their counter-proposals stemmed from fears they would be accused of splitting Germany by carrying through plans for a separate government in the west.

Caution In Crisis Advised

Body Of Missing Youth Found In Old Quarry

TOWSON, Md., July 19 (AP)—Police today found the body of 13-year-old Leroy Kilby in 90 feet of water at an abandoned marble quarry.

His 16-year-old sister reported him missing there just a week ago and told such a hair-raising story that police became convinced the boy merely had taken French leave.

The brother and sister, two of nine children whose father had left home, started out for the movies a week ago Sunday evening.

Florence Kilby reported they didn't like two Baltimore shows they visited so took a walk through the North Avenue business section.

Two youths in a car picked them up, she said. The boys had some beer and then drove north of Baltimore to the old quarry.

Cairo Mob Stones American To Death

Philadelphian, Wife, Companions Attacked In Egyptian Capital

STONED—Mrs. Stephen Haas (above), prominent Philadelphian, was stoned by a mob in Cairo, Egypt. She escaped serious injury but her husband was killed.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Stephen Haas, an American citizen, was killed by an Egyptian mob in Cairo Sunday, the State Department announced late today.

Haas, Philadelphia real estate man, was stoned to death in disorders near the Cairo Citadel, the department added.

His wife and members of a British family were injured, the department said it was informed by the Cairo embassy.

Haas, 53, came to America from Hungary at the age of three. He and his wife were in Cairo as tourists.

No Word From Cairo

There was no direct word from the Egyptian government about the attack which was attributed in part by officials to tense nerves among the population as a result of fighting between Jews and Arabs in Palestine. Israeli bombers raided Cairo last Thursday.

Reports to the State Department have told of some anti-American sentiment. Whatever the reason for the attack on Haas and his wife, Jefferson Patterson, American charge d'affaires at Cairo, has made sharp representations to the Egyptian government.

Haas settled in Philadelphia soon after his arrival in America. He owned several large department store buildings. Associates said Mr. and Mrs. Haas, who had no children, left Philadelphia several months ago. They went first to South Africa and then to Egypt. They had planned to go later to Italy, then Paris and London before returning home in September.

Prominent In Jewish Circles

Prominent in Jewish Circles in Pennsylvania, Haas was a member of the Philadelphia lodge of B'nai B'rith and other organizations. Mrs. Haas is a leader in women's activities. She served as chairman of the women's division of the War Finance Committee of the Treasury Department during the last war. She is a former president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

Business associates were mystified by the incident. They said Haas had not taken part in the Zionist movement and was not associated generally with religious activities.

Cairo Is Bombed As Jews Charge Truce Violations

Israel Vows It Will Continue Fighting

CAIRO, Tuesday, July 20 (AP) — A plane raided Cairo late last night, dropping one bomb which blasted Fouad Street in the heart of Cairo.

There was no immediate report of the damage or whether there were any casualties.

The Cairo air raid alarm system immediately went into action and by the throwing of a central switch the city was completely blacked out. A barrage of anti-aircraft guns followed.

Munitions experts told Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha that the missile was "an aerial mine."

Nokrashy Pasha told newsmen that "if this plane proves to have been a Zionist plane and such an action is repeated by the Zionists, we will reply immediately."

Earlier, Israel charged Syria with widespread violation of the Palestine truce and an Israeli spokesman said "the Israeli army will consider itself at liberty to attack the Syrian army wherever they are."

"The Haganah command has decided not to cease fighting until the Syrians are repulsed," the spokesman added.

The truce, ordered for Sunday night by United Nations Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte, was reported generally effective on the southern and central fronts.

The Jews said the Syrians launched a post-truce attack on a hill near the Syrian border in Upper Galilee. The hill, taken a few days ago by the Jews, was the subject of an alleged Syrian truce violation during the previously Holy Land cease-fire.

Israeli reports also said Iraqi troops on the Jenin front were firing artillery at Jewish-held Zir 'In, north of Jenin, and on Jewish positions at Lajjun.

The Jews said they were battling fiercely against both Syrians and Iraqis. A counterattack against a Syrian subsidiary action near the Mismar Hay Yarden bridgehead was reported by Jewish sources in Haifa.

U. N. Goes Ahead

LAKE SUCCESS, July 19 (AP) — Despite continued fighting in Palestine, the United Nations went ahead today with elaborate plans to supervise a long-term truce.

It was generally assumed here that Count Folke Bernadotte would be able to stop the fighting as soon as he got his staff of observers on the scene to supervise the cease-fire.

Most United Nations officials as well as Security Council members felt that the big test had been won when both Jews and Arabs agreed to accept the cease-fire. Because of the short time limit fixed in the council's resolution, it had been expected there would be some clashes after the truce deadline.

Disillusioned Red Tries To Kill Jap Communist

TOKYO, Tuesday, July 20 (AP)—A disillusioned Communist and former war prisoner of the Russians said today he tried to kill one of Japan's top Reds, because Communism was "preventing Japan's rehabilitation."

Ichiro Koga, 28-year old miner on Kyushu, tossed a dynamite-filled pop bottle last night at Secretary-General Kyuichi Tokuda, of the Japan Communist Party, inflicting 38 minor cuts and scratches. Tokuda finished his speech, at a political rally, before going to a hospital for treatment.

Ford Co. And UAW To Resume Talks

DETROIT, July 19. (AP)—Walter P. Reuther appealed directly to Henry Ford II today to help avert a strike of 116,000 Ford Motor Company production employes.

As a result, Ford agreed to resume negotiations with the CIO United Auto Workers. They were broken off July 14.

Time of the next meeting was to be announced later.

The union leader spoke of the "seriousness" of the situation.

"If the Ford Motor Company views this situation in the same light and advises the union of willingness to meet," Reuther wired Ford, "we are prepared to arrange the time and place for such a meeting."

Ford replied tersely by wire that "the Ford Motor Company remains willing to meet with your negotiating committee."

Ford has offered the UAW-CIO a 13-cent-an-hour wage boost and other concessions. The current average production wage is estimated at about $1.52 an hour.

"Eye" Dims Headlights

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 19 (AP)—An electric eye that automatically dims headlights of an approaching automobile was reported here today.

Earle T. Edwards, 65 - year - old shoeworker, said his gadget attached to a car's headlights was comparatively simple—based on the same principle used on doors operated by an electric eye.

Preparedness Dispute Leads To Resignation

Five Socialists Quit Cabinet; Auriol Will Appoint New Leader

PARIS, July 19 (AP) — Premier Robert Schuman's coalition government collapsed tonight. It had been in existence since last November.

The collapse was caused by the National Assembly's action in amending a government-sponsored army budget and the announced resignation of the five Socialist ministers from Schuman's 15-man Cabinet.

There was no immediate indication who Schuman's successor and the successors of his Cabinet ministers will be. It is customary for the President to ask the government to carry on their work until the new government can take charge.

Schuman

Although the Assembly voted against Schuman on the army budget, he technically retains "the confidence of the Assembly" since there was no formal vote on confidence in the government.

The Popular Republican (MRP) Premier and the Cabinet members signed their resignations in the National Assembly and then went to talk with President Vincent Auriol in Elysee Palace.

Schuman Refuses Comment

As he left the palace after talking with Auriol, Schuman refused to comment on the political crisis. He said only:

"It's when you arrive that you make a statement. Not when you go."

The issue was chiefly a proposed budget for national defense, although there were other conflicts in the background. Schuman and his MRP tried to spend the equivalent of $1,017,000,000. The Socialists and Radical Socialists wanted to cut this by $40,000,000.

Schuman was willing to allow a cut of $23,000,000 but refused to go along on the remaining $17,000,000.

The Assembly voted, however, to adopt the Socialist - sponsored amendment calling for the full $40,000,000 cut. The vote was 297 to 214, with 76 abstentions.

Schuman told the house before the vote that "if this amendment is voted, I shall be compelled to give my resignation to the President of the republic."

Less than two hours later he went to Auroil to resign.

Immediately after Schuman's statement in the Assembly, the Socialist ministers rose from their front-row ministerial benches and joined their Socialist colleagues in the rear seats. This gesture sealed their determination to quit which they had announced to newsmen earlier.

Auriol To Name Successor

Auriol now has the job of appointing a new Premier.

The Radical Socialists supported the Socialist Party stand in demanding the budget cut. The MRP supported Schuman's stand that the billion dollar army budget was an absolute minimum.

The resignations without a formal vote of no confidence by the National Assembly may put off the need of holding new elections. Followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle long have been demanding new elections.

Under the Constitution of the Fourth Republic, a new National Assembly must be chosen after two governments have been overthrown. Schuman formed his government last November after the fall of the regime of Premier Paul Ramadier.

B-17 Held In Azores Is Loaded With Bombs

SANTA MARIA, Azores, July 19 (AP)—The mysterious B-17 bomber which flew from Halifax to the Azores without permission is loaded with bombs, it was disclosed tonight. Also, one of its 18 passengers has admitted he is on his way to Palestine.

The big four-motor plane which made an unauthorized 1,500-mile transAtlantic flight in 11 hours without a radio and with one engine cowling missing, is being held by Portuguese authorities with the full agreement of the American consul in the Azores.

Pershing Is Laid To Rest After Impressive Funeral

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Gen. John J. Pershing was laid to rest today on the summit of a tree-shrouded slope, surrounded by the graves of men he commanded from the jungles of the Philippines to the borders of imperial Germany.

A reverent hush fell over the generals, the cadets and the buck privates standing at attention in Arlington National Cemetery as the Army's chief of chaplains, Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, intoned the last words:

"The march of another soldier is ended, his battles are all fought and all won, and he lies down to rest while awaiting the bugle's call."

It was the end of the trail for "Black Jack" Pershing, who died last Thursday at the age of 87, heavy with honors and already something of a gray legend to a younger generation which does not thrill to the names of Belleau Wood and Chateau-Thierry.

And President Truman joined with heads of the armed forces in a vast and impressive tribute to the old general, who led the first American Expeditionary Force to victory in the First World War.

Somewhere near half a million

Mother Locates Daughter In 'Fairy Tale Come True'

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 19 (AP) — Sixteen years ago a childless couple took two-and-a-half year old Joyce Arthur with them on a trip to New York.

At the end of two weeks the couple wrote the mother, Mrs. Nellie Arthur, Lynchburg, that the trip would be extended. Then they stopped writing. . .

"I dreamt about her and prayed for her constantly," Mrs. Arthur, a factory worker and mother of two children said.

She repeatedly tried to locate her daughter but was unsuccessful until . . .

Last spring Joyce—now Mrs. William Elldridge, Pocatello, Idaho, wrote the Juvenile Court here. She thought she had been adopted by the couple and she wanted the legal papers. The authorities got in touch with Mrs. Arthur and the mother went to Pocatello to visit her daughter.

What happened to the couple who took Joyce to New York 16 years ago?

They died leaving two children, Joe, aged 1, and Dee-Ann, aged 5. And Joyce is going to adopt them.

As Mrs. Arthur summed it up here today—"a fairy tale come true."

Preparedness Dispute Leads To Resignation

Five Socialists Quit Cabinet; Auriol Will Appoint New Leader

PARIS, July 19 (AP) — Premier Robert Schuman's coalition government collapsed tonight. It had been in existence since last November.

The collapse was caused by the National Assembly's action in amending a government-sponsored army budget and the announced resignation of the five Socialist ministers from Schuman's 15-man Cabinet.

There was no immediate indication who Schuman's successor and the successors of his Cabinet ministers will be. It is customary for the President to ask the government to carry on their work until the new government can take charge.

Schuman

Although the Assembly voted against Schuman on the army budget, he technically retains "the confidence of the Assembly" since there was no formal vote on confidence in the government.

The Popular Republican (MRP) Premier and the Cabinet members signed their resignations in the National Assembly and then went to talk with President Vincent Auriol in Elysee Palace.

Schuman Refuses Comment

As he left the palace after talking with Auriol, Schuman refused to comment on the political crisis. He said only:

"It's when you arrive that you make a statement. Not when you go."

The issue was chiefly a proposed budget for national defense, although there were other conflicts in the background. Schuman and his MRP tried to spend the equivalent of $1,017,000,000. The Socialists and Radical Socialists wanted to cut this by $40,000,000.

Schuman was willing to allow a cut of $23,000,000 but refused to go along on the remaining $17,000,000.

The Assembly voted, however, to adopt the Socialist - sponsored amendment calling for the full $40,000,000 cut. The vote was 297 to 214, with 76 abstentions.

Schuman told the house before the vote that "if this amendment is voted, I shall be compelled to give my resignation to the President of the republic."

Less than two hours later he went to Auroil to resign.

Immediately after Schuman's statement in the Assembly, the Socialist ministers rose from their front-row ministerial benches and joined their Socialist colleagues in the rear seats. This gesture sealed their determination to quit which they had announced to newsmen earlier.

Auriol To Name Successor

Auriol now has the job of appointing a new Premier.

The Radical Socialists supported the Socialist Party stand in demanding the budget cut. The MRP supported Schuman's stand that the billion dollar army budget was an absolute minimum.

The resignations without a formal vote of no confidence by the National Assembly may put off the need of holding new elections. Followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle long have been demanding new elections.

Under the Constitution of the Fourth Republic, a new National Assembly must be chosen after two governments have been overthrown. Schuman formed his government last November after the fall of the regime of Premier Paul Ramadier.

Truman To Dump Price Issue Into Lap Of Congress

President Working On Anti-Inflation Measure

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—President Truman will dump the whole issue of soaring prices in Congress' lap Monday at the opening of the extra session, in a ready-made bill.

One obvious purpose is to get in the first punch of a White House-Capitol battle that gives every promise of raging as long as the lawmakers stay here.

The certain bitterness of the impending fight was pointed up, meanwhile, by a move among angry southern Democrats to second Republicans in criticism during the special meeting. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) let reporters know that the Dixie group has no intention of submitting tamely to party discipline and swallowing the Truman program, specially on civil rights.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, told newsmen that Mr. Truman is at work on a bill taking in most if not all of the 10-point anti-inflation program he urged on Congress last November.

"Concrete" Price Bill Planned

"There will be a concrete bill on high prices," Ross said, but added that details have not yet been settled.

"The 10-point program is still good," he said, "although it is being examined in the light of developments since it was first submitted."

Ross had nothing to say about the chance for a specific recommendation on tighter bank lending as an inflation curb. Neither would he say whether the President will propose direct reimposition of wartime price controls.

Authority to restore price, wage and rationing controls if necessary was part of last fall's proposal.

In announcing, at the Philadelphia Democratic convention, his intention to call the lawmakers back, Mr. Truman talked of civil rights measures, housing and education aids, along with price curbs.

"The President's position on housing," Ross said, "is that if passage of the bill is delayed until the January session the start of the housing program will be delayed perhaps a year or more."

Truman Confers With Barkley

The main fight over the bill is on a provision for federally-subsidized low rent housing.

Ross said Mr. Truman conferred yesterday with Sen. Barkley (D-Ky) his vice presidential running mate, on plans for the special session and for the campaign. After the meeting Barkley left for his home in Paducah, Ky.

A White House caller today was Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) who brought the President a proposal to require a 30-day "cooling off pe-

Men Of 25 May Be First Called In Draft

Maj. Gen. Hershey Is Sworn In As Director Of Selective Service

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Men of 25 may be the first ones called in the peacetime draft.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey disclosed that idea was under consideration as he was sworn in today as director of selective service under the law passed by the last Congress.

Hershey gave no details in his brief comment but the purpose of taking 25-year-olds first would be obvious—they will soon be past the law's age limit. If they are not taken quickly they cannot be taken at all.

Registration for the draft runs from age 18 through 25. The law says men from 19 through 25 may be inducted.

Actual Decision Not Made

The actual decision on who will be called first has not been made yet, Hershey said at a news conference after the ceremony. But he volunteered:

"There has been quite a little discussion of starting with the older ones first."

The General said he has no information yet as to when registration will start. Neither does he know, he said, when the first draft calls will come, nor how many men the first draft will require.

Under the law, actual drafting cannot start until September 22.

Hershey said the first job so far as he is concerned is to get some local draft boards and state selective service directors. The directors are nominated by governors and appointed by the President.

Hershey said 13,000,000 cards and registration certificates have been prepared.

9,600,000 To Register

The initial registration is expected to total 9,600,000, increasing thereafter by several thousand a month.

Registration places will total only 4,000 compared with 120,000 rushed into use before World War Two. Hershey commented that in case of an emergency it would be simple to expand the system to the total of 6,500 draft boards which functioned during the war.

He told reporters he personally believes the nation can not maintain a force of the size required through voluntary enlistment.

The General is taking his second assignment as draft chief. He directed the system during the war. In the interim he was in charge of the Office of Selective Service Records which maintained a small nucleus of trained draft men within the Army.

Tired Boy Erects Tent On Railroad, Wakens With Cut

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 19 (AP) — Thirteen-year-old George McKenna, Tyler, Tex., was tired and sleepy when he pitched his tent last night.

George, here on a summer tour, fell asleep as soon as he hit the sack. He was still asleep at 6:50 a. m., Pacific Daylight Time.

That was the moment a Pacific electric train came whizzing down the track en route to Newport Beach. When George awoke he had a gash in his head. But otherwise he was all right.

It was then he discovered that, in the darkness, he had tied one end of the tent on the electric's right of way.

U. S., Yugoslavia Settle Dispute

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia settled amicably a long dispute with the United States today in the wake of his split with the Cominform.

The Yugoslav Deputy Finance Minister came from Belgrade to sign with Secretary Marshall at the State Department an agreement to pay the United States more than $17,000,000 in settlement of American wartime and postwar claims.

The United States in return will surrender to Tito some $47,000,000 of Yugoslav gold reserves held in this country since 1942. It also will unfreeze Yugoslav private assets amounting to $10,000,000.

Included in the sums Tito's Communist regime agreed to pay within the next 45 days is compensation for two United States Army transport planes which Yugoslav fighters shot down two years ago. This wrote a final chapter to an incident which cost the lives of five American fliers and strained relations with Belgrade almost to the breaking point.

The settlement, resulting largely from Yugoslav concessions, stirred speculation that Tito is turning to the West for friendship since the Soviet-dominated Cominform denounced him as being "hateful" and out of step with Moscow. Responsible officials asserted, however, there was no direct and obvious link. They noted Yugoslavia first took the initiative last February to revive negotiations which started 14 months ago and had been suspended for months.

Republic Steel Grants 13-Cent Hourly Increase

PITTSBURGH, July 19 (AP) — President Philip Murray, of the CIO-United Steelworkers, today announced agreement had been reached with the Republic Steel Corporation of Cleveland granting 13-cent hourly wage increases to 55,000 production workers.

Murray said the agreement was negotiated "on the same terms and conditions as the wage pact reached Friday with the United States Steel Corporation."

Body Of Missing Youth Found In Old Quarry

TOWSON, Md., July 19 (AP)—Police today found the body of 13-year-old Leroy Kilby in 90 feet of water at an abandoned marble quarry.

His 16-year-old sister reported him missing there just a week ago and told such a hair-raising story that police became convinced the boy merely had taken French leave.

The brother and sister, two of nine children whose father had left home, started out for the movies a week ago Sunday evening.

Two youths in a car picked them up, she said. The boys had some beer and then drove north of Baltimore to the old quarry.

Cairo Is Bombed As Jews Charge Truce Violations

Israel Vows It Will Continue Fighting

CAIRO, Tuesday, July 20 (AP) — A plane raided Cairo late last night, dropping one bomb which blasted Fouad Street in the heart of Cairo.

There was no immediate report of the damage or whether there were any casualties.

The Cairo air raid alarm system immediately went into action and by the throwing of a central switch the city was completely blacked out. A barrage of anti-aircraft guns followed.

Munitions experts told Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha that the missile was "an aerial mine."

Nokrashy Pasha told newsmen that "if this plane proves to have been a Zionist plane and such an action is repeated by the Zionists, we will reply immediately."

Earlier, Israel charged Syria with widespread violation of the Palestine truce and an Israeli spokesman said "the Israeli army will consider itself at liberty to attack the Syrian army wherever they are."

"The Haganah command has decided not to cease fighting until the Syrians are repulsed," the spokesman added.

The truce, ordered for Sunday night by United Nations Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte, was reported generally effective on the southern and central fronts.

The Jews said the Syrians launched a post-truce attack on a hill near the Syrian border in Upper Galilee. The hill, taken a few days ago by the Jews, was the subject of an alleged Syrian truce violation during the previously Holy Land cease-fire.

Israeli reports also said Iraqi troops on the Jenin front were firing artillery at Jewish-held Zir 'In, north of Jenin, and on Jewish positions at Lajjun.

The Jews said they were battling fiercely against both Syrians and Iraqis. A counterattack against a Syrian subsidiary action near the Mismar Hay Yarden bridgehead was reported by Jewish sources in Haifa.

U. N. Goes Ahead

LAKE SUCCESS, July 19 (AP) — Despite continued fighting in Palestine, the United Nations went ahead today with elaborate plans to supervise a long-term truce.

It was generally assumed here that Count Folke Bernadotte would be able to stop the fighting as soon as he got his staff of observers on the scene to supervise the cease-fire.

Most United Nations officials as well as Security Council members felt that the big test had been won when both Jews and Arabs agreed to accept the cease-fire. Because of the short time limit fixed in the council's resolution, it had been expected there would be some clashes after the truce deadline.

Ford Co. And UAW To Resume Talks

DETROIT, July 19. (AP)—Walter P. Reuther appealed directly to Henry Ford II today to help avert a strike of 116,000 Ford Motor Company production employes.

As a result, Ford agreed to resume negotiations with the CIO United Auto Workers. They were broken off July 14.

Time of the next meeting was to be announced later.

The union leader spoke of the "seriousness" of the situation.

"If the Ford Motor Company views this situation in the same light and advises the union of willingness to meet," Reuther wired Ford, "we are prepared to arrange the time and place for such a meeting."

Ford replied tersely by wire that "the Ford Motor Company remains willing to meet with your negotiating committee."

Ford has offered the UAW-CIO a 13-cent-an-hour wage boost and other concessions. The current average production wage is estimated at about $1.52 an hour.

"Eye" Dims Headlights

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 19 (AP)—An electric eye that automatically dims headlights of an approaching automobile was reported here today.

B-17 Held In Azores Is Loaded With Bombs

SANTA MARIA, Azores, July 19 (AP)—The mysterious B-17 bomber which flew from Halifax to the Azores without permission is loaded with bombs, it was disclosed tonight. Also, one of its 18 passengers has admitted he is on his way to Palestine.

The big four-motor plane which made an unauthorized 1,500-mile transAtlantic flight in 11 hours without a radio and with one engine cowling missing, is being held by Portuguese authorities with the full agreement of the American consul in the Azores.

Disillusioned Red Tries To Kill Jap Communist

TOKYO, Tuesday, July 20 (AP)—A disillusioned Communist and former war prisoner of the Russians said today he tried to kill one of Japan's top Reds, because Communism was "preventing Japan's rehabilitation."

Ichiro Koga, 28-year old miner on Kyushu, tossed a dynamite-filled pop bottle last night at Secretary-General Kyuichi Tokuda, of the Japan Communist Party, inflicting 38 minor cuts and scratches. Tokuda finished his speech, at a political rally, before going to a hospital for treatment.

Pershing Is Laid To Rest After Impressive Funeral

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — Gen. John J. Pershing was laid to rest today on the summit of a tree-shrouded slope, surrounded by the graves of men he commanded from the jungles of the Philippines to the borders of imperial Germany.

A reverent hush fell over the generals, the cadets and the buck privates standing at attention in Arlington National Cemetery as the Army's chief of chaplains, Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, intoned the last words:

"The march of another soldier is ended, his battles are all fought and all won, and he lies down to rest while awaiting the bugle's call."

It was the end of the trail for "Black Jack" Pershing, who died last Thursday at the age of 87, heavy with honors and already something of a gray legend to a younger generation which does not thrill to the names of Belleau Wood and Chateau-Thierry.

And President Truman joined with heads of the armed forces in a vast and impressive tribute to the old general, who led the first American Expeditionary Force to victory in the First World War.

Mother Locates Daughter In 'Fairy Tale Come True'

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 19 (AP) — Sixteen years ago a childless couple took two-and-a-half year old Joyce Arthur with them on a trip to New York.

At the end of two weeks the couple wrote the mother, Mrs. Nellie Arthur, Lynchburg, that the trip would be extended. Then they stopped writing. . .

"I dreamt about her and prayed for her constantly," Mrs. Arthur, a factory worker and mother of two children said.

She repeatedly tried to locate her daughter but was unsuccessful until . . .

Last spring Joyce—now Mrs. William Elldridge, Pocatello, Idaho, wrote the Juvenile Court here. She thought she had been adopted by the couple and she wanted the legal papers. The authorities got in touch with Mrs. Arthur and the mother went to Pocatello to visit her daughter.

What happened to the couple who took Joyce to New York 16 years ago?

They died leaving two children, Joe, aged 1, and Dee-Ann, aged 5. And Joyce is going to adopt them.

Navy Denies Atom Bomb Vessel Lost

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The Navy denied today a statement by Rear Adm. Ellis Zacharias, retired, that a Navy ship carrying a third atom bomb disappeared on its way to the Pacific theater near the close of the war.

"No Navy ship carrying an atomic bomb ever disappeared," an official statement said.

Zacharias, former Navy intelligence officer, said last night in New York on a Mutual network program that the vessel was en route to Tinian, an island in the Marianas used as an air base but that it never reached there.

A Mutual spokesman said Zacharias told him the vessel was a destroyer. He quoted the Admiral as saying that news of the third bomb previously was given out by the Navy but that it was buried by the outpouring of stories about the bomb blasts at Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

It was suggested by one Navy officer here that Zacharias may have been referring to the cruiser Indianapolis which was sunk by a Japanese submarine en route to the Philippines.

The Indianapolis had carried one unassembled atomic bomb and is believed to have carried the second out to Tinian where both were put together before being dropped on Japan.

When the Indianapolis was sunk, an official said, a report sprang up that she was carrying an atom bomb, but the Navy emphatically denied it at the time.

Also, on-the-spot developments could come swiftly. The Russians have announced plans for aerial training in the air corridors to Berlin. It is along these lanes that United States and British planes are carrying the food and fuel to supply some 2,00,000 people in the western sector of Berlin, from which the Russians want to oust the Western Powers.

A high United States authority, who would not be quoted by name, said:

"If we were to back down at Berlin, we would not be safe in our rights in Vienna, Trieste, Western Germany or anywhere else where our interests are in direct contact with those of the Russians. We have no choice except to stand absolutely firm here."

More vigorous actions suggested in one quarter or another include:

Closing of the Panama and Suez Canals to Russian ships. A ban on trade between Western Powers and Russia. "Freezing" of Russian ships in western harbors.

This was disclosed by an authoritative source at a meeting of the Western European Union to forge a common defense linked with the armed might of America.

Santa Won't Carry Chemical Sets Containing Uranium Ore To Russia

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 19 (AP)—Even toy manufacturing has its international complications.

Santa Claus got into the act today with a toy chemical set containing uranium ore. That's the stuff which produces atomic energy—and "THE" bomb.

But the Hagerstown manufacturer of the new toy hastily assured jittery Americans that the Russians won't find a new stockpile in their Christmas stockings.

"You can't send them to Russia," said Vice President M. M. Hanson, of the Porter Chemical Company.

Hanson isn't sure the Russians are interested in his toy. But he's suspicious. Recently the firm got an order from Finland.

Turned it down, said the vice president. The order looked fishy to him.

Nervous fathers and mothers also got soothing words from Hanson.

"There's no way whatever a child can hurt himself," insisted Hanson. "Why, he can even swallow these pieces of uranium with no more effect than if he swallowed coal dust."

(Editor's note: What's good or bad about coal dust Hanson wouldn't say.)

Market Break Erases $2,100,000,000 In Value

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP) — A plunging stock market wiped out an estimated $2,100,000,000 in value today in continuation of last week's headlong downward drive. The break was the biggest since November 6, 1946.

More issues were traded than anytime in the exchanges history, 1,163 of a total of 1,410 stocks listed. The total volume of 2,560,000 shares was the highest since the current phase of the bull market started in May.

The break, which found leaders selling from $1 to $12 lower at times, posed a big Wall Street question — is the bull market over?

Traders sought the answer in the war danger signals over Berlin, the special session of Congress which President Truman called to consider price fixing to bring down the cost of living, and the widening spiral of wage and price advances.

Child's Accused Slayer Indicted At Washington

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — A district grand jury today indicted Eugene N. James, 31, Baltimore janitor, for murder in the Rock Creek Park rape-slaying of 11-year-old Carol Bardwell.

Her throat slashed, the girl was found dead June 27 in an isolated area of the park where she had gone a short time before to ride her bicycle. She had been raped, the coroner said.

James, a negro, is held in Baltimore on a murder charge in the knife killing of Marsha Brill, 11, in a park near the Pimlico race track.

Circumstances of the two slayings were similar. Marsha was killed July 6.

Pershing Is Laid

people lined the streets of Washington to see Pershing's coffin drawn by six perfectly matched gray horses through a downpour of rain from the Nation's Capitol to the peaceful cemetery across the Potomac.

The funeral cortege was a mile long. To the throb of muffled drums and the strains of haunting marches, it marched the whole four and one-third miles while a flight of eight F-80 jet fighters roared overhead—a sight undreamed of when John J. Pershing was born in 1860.

No such tribute has been given to an American military leader since the body of the Unknown Soldier was laid to rest in the same cemetery more than a quarter of a century ago.

A salute of 19 guns boomed out as the procession slowly ascended the last steep hill at Arlington.

And just then the sun burst through the heavy clouds, bathing the white marble ampitheater in a brilliant glow.

The services were brief and simple.

The President will fly from Washington to New York for a 30-minute ceremony with the New York Governor and other notables taking part. This will precede a review of the United States Air Force.

Announcing this, the White House said that the President and his Republican rival for the presidency will speak from a stand erected on the air field.

WHAT "Stepping Down" MEANS TO YOU

How the New Hudson, America's most streamlined car with the low silhouette, brings you roominess and comfort never before obtainable in an automobile.

You've seen them flashing by in all their sparkling color — those trim, gorgeous New Hudsons with the low, streamlined silhouette.

But have you really examined one of these amazing cars? They are the big news in the automobile world today!

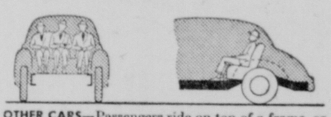
Hudson, always known for great forward steps in the development of the automobile, and for efficient use of motive power, is again 'way out ahead with a motor car that hits a new high in efficient use of space—that makes a greater percentage of its total space actually available for your use and comfort.

When you take a close look, you'll find that Hudson, through the use of a new, exclusive "step-down" zone, reclaims so much usually wasted space that this sensationally efficient car gives you more useful interior room than you've ever before experienced in an automobile.

This new kind of motor car has a sturdy foundation structure surrounding the passenger compartment, which permits the floor to be recessed down within the base frame so that you step down when entering. This makes space between frame members, which is usually wasted, available for use inside the car.

Seats can thus be lowered to harmonize with the new, lower top, and by stepping down into Hudson, which is only five feet from ground to top, you get more head room than in any other mass-produced car built today!

And how about seating room? Hudson's new design reclaims space formerly taken up by wheel housings and protruding fenders. This is accomplished by placing rear seats ahead of the rear wheels, in a zone unrestricted by wheel housings. As a result, rear seats are 15 inches wider in this car that is only little more than four inches wider over-all. Both rear and front seats extend the full width of the body, giving Hudson the roomiest seats in any American-made car! Hudson's use of the "step-down" zone and unique seating arrangements are illustrated in the sketches that follow:



OTHER CARS—Passengers ride on top of a frame, as shown above, and (in the rear seat) between rear wheel housings, which occupy space that should be a part of seating room. Riding on top of a frame means that essential head room must be reduced if the roof is lowered for streamlining.

NEW HUDSON—You ride cradled down within Hudson's base frame, as shown above, and also ahead of the rear wheels. Seats can therefore extend full width of the car. Due to the use of the "step-down" zone, roof is lowered for streamlining, yet ample head room is provided.

The New Hudson even reclaims the unused space in doors by providing gorgeously tailored, recessed compartments where interior door handles, window cranks, ash receivers, and generous arm rests are placed out of the way to allow increased elbow room for passengers.

This development of Hudson's exclusive, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame* with its "step-down" zone required years of engineering work, the perfection of new production techniques and millions of dollars in highly specialized new plant investment. This may be why Hudson, and Hudson alone, offers this important advance today!

"Stepping down" is so important to motor-car beauty, riding qualities and safety—as well as roominess and comfort—that the nearest Hudson dealer has a booklet—yours without obligation—fully explaining this design principle. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14.

Navy Denies Atom Bomb Vessel Lost

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The Navy denied today a statement by Rear Adm. Ellis Zacharias, retired, that a Navy ship carrying a third atom bomb disappeared on its way to the Pacific theater near the close of the war.

"No Navy ship carrying an atomic bomb ever disappeared," an official statement said.

Zacharias, former Navy intelligence officer, said last night in New York on a Mutual network program that the vessel was en route to Tinian, an island in the Marianas used as an air base but that it never reached there.

A Mutual spokesman said Zacharias told him the vessel was a destroyer. He quoted the Admiral as saying that news of the third bomb previously was given out by the Navy but that it was buried by the outpouring of stories about the bomb blasts at Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

It was suggested by one Navy officer here that Zacharias may have been referring to the cruiser Indianapolis which was sunk by a Japanese submarine en route to the Philippines.

The Indianapolis had carried one unassembled atomic bomb and is believed to have carried the second cut to Tinian where both were put together before being dropped on Japan.

When the Indianapolis was sunk, an official said, a report sprang up that she was carrying an atom bomb, but the Navy emphatically denied it at the time.

O'Mahoney would not describe the President's reaction further than to say he "was interested." The Senator said he would introduce legislation next week to carry out the plan.

Smith Sues Newspaper

WICHITA, Kas., July 19 (AP)—Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith filed a $1,000,000 libel suit against the Wichita Beacon Publishing Company today. He charged the newspaper styled him a Communist.

An editorial criticised Smith for activities as national director of the Christian Nationalist Crusade.

ned to counter the Russian blockade.

Also, on-the-spot developments could come swiftly. The Russians have announced plans for aerial training in the air corridors to Berlin. It is along these lanes that United States and British planes are carrying the food and fuel to supply some 2,00,000 people in the western sector of Berlin, from which the Russians want to oust the Western Powers.

A high United States authority, who would not be quoted by name, said:

"If we were to back down at Berlin, we would not be safe in our rights in Vienna, Trieste, Western Germany or anywhere else where our interests are in direct contact with those of the Russians. We have no choice except to stand absolutely firm here."

More vigorous actions suggested in one quarter or another include:

caution in dealing with the Russians.

This was disclosed by an authoritative source at a meeting of the Western European Union to forge a common defense linked with the armed might of America.

Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg make up the union. The source, from one of the Benelux countries, said the representatives met for four hours tonight but reached no agreement on a course of action in the Berlin crisis.

Santa Won't Carry Chemical Sets Containing Uranium Ore To Russia

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 19 (AP)—Even toy manufacturing has its international complications.

Santa Claus got into the act today with a toy chemical set containing uranium ore. That's the stuff which produces atomic energy—and "THE" bomb.

But the Hagerstown manufacturer of the new toy hastily assured jittery Americans that the Russians won't find a new stockpile in their Christmas stockings.

"You can't send them to Russia," said Vice President M. M. Hanson, of the Porter Chemical Company.

Hanson isn't sure the Russians are interested in his toy. But he's suspicious. Recently the firm got an order from Finland.

Turned it down, said the vice president. The order looked fishy to him.

Nervous fathers and mothers also got soothing words from Hanson.

"There's no way whatever a child can hurt himself," insisted Hanson. "Why, he can even swallow these pieces of uranium with no more effect than if he swallowed coal dust."

(Editor's note: What's good or bad about coal dust Hanson wouldn't say.)

Market Break Erases $2,100,000,000 In Value

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP) — A plunging stock market wiped out an estimated $2,100,000,000 in value today in continuation of last week's headlong downward drive. The break was the biggest since November 6, 1946.

More issues were traded than anytime in the exchanges history, 1,163 of a total of 1,410 stocks listed. The total volume of 2,560,000 shares was the highest since the current phase of the bull market started in May.

The break, which found leaders selling from $1 to $12 lower at times, posed a big Wall Street question — is the bull market over?

Traders sought the answer in the war danger signals over Berlin, the special session of Congress which President Truman called to consider price fixing to bring down the cost of living, and the widening spiral of wage and price advances.

Most Decorated Soldier Of Last War To Marry

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Audie Murphy, most decorated soldier of World War II, said today he will marry Screen Actress Wanda Hendrix "as soon as I can afford it."

Murphy, a former Army lieutenant, returned today from a two-week visit to France as guest of the French government. He holds more than 20 war medals.

Child's Accused Slayer Indicted At Washington

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — A district grand jury today indicted Eugene N. James, 31, Baltimore janitor, for murder in the Rock Creek Park rape-slaying of 11-year-old Carol Bardwell.

Her throat slashed, the girl was found dead June 27 in an isolated area of the park where she had gone a short time before to ride her bicycle. She had been raped, the coroner said.

James, a negro, is held in Baltimore on a murder charge in the knife killing of Marsha Brill, 11, in a park near the Pimlico race track.

Circumstances of the two slayings were similar. Marsha was killed July 6.

Pershing Is Laid

people lined the streets of Washington to see Pershing's coffin drawn by six perfectly matched gray horses through a downpour of rain from the Nation's Capitol to the peaceful cemetery across the Potomac.

The funeral cortege was a mile long. To the throb of muffled drums and the strains of haunting marches, it marched the whole four and one-third miles while a flight of eight F-80 jet fighters roared overhead—a sight undreamed of when John J. Pershing was born in 1860.

No such tribute has been given to an American military leader since the body of the Unknown Soldier was laid to rest in the same cemetery more than a quarter of a century ago.

A salute of 19 guns boomed out as the procession slowly ascended the last steep hill at Arlington.

And just then the sun burst through the heavy clouds, bathing the white marble ampitheater in a brilliant glow.

The services were brief and simple.

Koreans Elect Rhee

SEOUL, Tuesday, July 19 (AP)—Syngman Rhee, who for nearly 40 years has been voicing Korea's demands for independence, today was elected president under the country's first democratic government.

The government is now being set up in American-occupied South Korea.

Truman And Dewey Will Speak On Same Platform

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will speak on the same platform at the dedication of New York's new Idlewild airport July 31.

The President will fly from Washington to New York for a 30-minute ceremony with the New York Governor and other notables taking part. This will precede a review of the United States Air Force.

Announcing this, the White House said that the President and his Republican rival for the presidency will speak from a stand erected on the air field.

Frederick Bank Cashier Beaten; Three Men Held

FORT MEADE, Md., July 19. (AP) W. Bartgis Storm, cashier of the Citizens' National Bank of Frederick, was severely beaten late last night just outside a Fort Meade gate.

Anne Arundel County police took into custody three truck drivers from nearby Odenton, Md., and charged two of them with assault. Arresting officers reported the men had been drinking and the fight developed after their pickup truck narrowly missed colliding with the car in which Storm was riding.

Charged with assault were Walter J. Robbins, 22, and Asbury Lowman, 32. Marvin Lowman, 35, was charged with tampering with an automobile.

WHAT "Stepping Down" MEANS TO YOU

How the New Hudson, America's most streamlined car with the low silhouette, brings you roominess and comfort never before obtainable in an automobile.

You've seen them flashing by in all their sparkling color—those trim, gorgeous New Hudsons with the low, streamlined silhouette.

But have you really examined one of these amazing cars? They are the big news in the automobile world today!

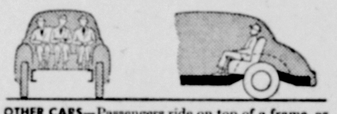
Hudson, always known for great forward steps in the development of the automobile, and for efficient use of motive power, is again 'way out ahead with a motor car that hits a new high in efficient use of space—that makes a greater percentage of its total space actually available for your use and comfort.

When you take a close look, you'll find that Hudson, through the use of a new, exclusive "step-down" zone, reclaims so much usually wasted space that this sensationally efficient car gives you more useful interior room than you've ever before experienced in an automobile.

This new kind of motor car has a sturdy foundation structure surrounding the passenger compartment, which permits the floor to be recessed down within the base frame so that you step down when entering. This makes space between frame members, which is usually wasted, available for use inside the car.

Seats can thus be lowered to harmonize with the new, lower top, and by stepping down into Hudson, which is only five feet from ground to top, you get more head room than in any other mass-produced car built today!

And how about seating room? Hudson's new design reclaims space formerly taken up by wheel housings and protruding fenders. This is accomplished by placing rear seats ahead of the rear wheels, in a zone unrestricted by wheel housings. As a result, rear seats are 15 inches wider in this car that is only little more than four inches wider over-all. Both rear and front seats extend the full width of the body, giving Hudson the roomiest seats in any American-made car! Hudson's use of the "step-down" zone and unique seating arrangements are illustrated in the sketches that follow:



OTHER CARS—Passengers ride on top of a frame, as shown above, and (in the rear seat) between rear wheel housings, which occupy space that should be a part of seating room. Riding on top of a frame means that essential head room must be reduced if the roof is lowered for streamlining.

NEW HUDSON—You ride cradled down within Hudson's base frame, as shown above, and also ahead of the rear wheels. Seats can therefore extend full width of the car. Due to the use of the "step-down" zone, roof is lowered for streamlining, yet ample head room is provided.

The New Hudson even reclaims the unused space in doors by providing gorgeously tailored, recessed compartments where interior door handles, window cranks, ash receivers, and generous arm rests are placed out of the way to allow increased elbow room for passengers.

This development of Hudson's exclusive, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame* with its "step-down" zone required years of engineering work, the perfection of new production techniques and millions of dollars in highly specialized new plant investment. This may be why Hudson, and Hudson alone, offers this important advance today!

"Stepping down" is so important to motor-car beauty, riding qualities and safety—as well as roominess and comfort—that the nearest Hudson dealer has a booklet—yours without obligation—fully explaining this design principle. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14.

Make Up Mind About Summer Datings; Have It Understood

By NANCY MOTTRAM

(Q) "Dear Nancy: My family and I are leavinf for the seashore very soon, and we'll be out of town for the whole summer. My problem is: what shall I do about the boy I've been dating? I've been considering breaking up, and then going out with him again next fall, for I don't want to go steady while I'm away. What do you think about this plan?"

Nancy Mottram

(A) it may not be so easy to cast him off now, and find him waiting when school starts in September. By that time, he may have met someone else, and refuse to come back when he's supposed to. But, on the other hand, you wouldn't enjoy your vacation as much if you knew that you couldn't date while you were away. Some sort of compromise should be worked out between you and the lad in question. He might not want to sit around all summer either, and you'd better get it straight before you leave. Why not agree to exchange letters, and talk over the plan of dating others while you're apart? Then, if you still want to continue going out together on your return, there won't be any complications such as a breakup or unaccounted dates on both sides, to stand between you.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: We don't know what to do about this, and we're hoping you can help us. A girl in our crowd cares for a certain fellow very much. She's under the impression that he feels the same way about her, although he'd never asked her out, and just jokes and talks a couple of minutes when they meet. The truth is, he wants to date one of the other girls in our group, but she's afraid to accept for fear our friend will be hurt. It's a difficult situation and we're all confused."

(A) It narrows down to the question of which is more important to her—her friendship with the girl or her wish to date the boy. It's more or less of a choice, for, feeling the way your friend does about him, if she discovers that a close pal of hers is seeing him, there's almost certain to be a coolness and strain between them. When you think it over, few dates are worth the ending of a long friendship. Even some time later, when the boy has been forgotten, a bit of hard feeling could still linger. It would be far better to give up the idea of dating him, realizing the consequences. She might keep him in mind until her friend is no longer interested, but at this point she should restrict her dates to the other boys in the crowd.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I'm 20 years old and the girl I go with is 17. She's still going to high school, and I have a job with a promising future. We're planning to marry, and I'd like to know if it would be fari to ask her to become engaged while she' still in school. Would you give me some advice?"

(A) The decision is up to you, the girl, and her parents, but considering her age, it might be wiser to wait until she's been out of school for some time before making any definite plans. In that time, neither of you may change your mind, but be very sure, for you can't afford to discover later that you've both made a mistake by marrying too young.

Nancy will answer as many questions as possible in her column. Write her care of this newspaper.

Baering Down On The News

That hasn't happened since William Chinnings Bryan made himself a seven-tailed Pasha in 1896. Bryan climbed on the political scaffold and laid down a classical beef that still hackles the memory of man.

It got Bryan the Democratic nomination for oblivion. It just happened to be a string of Republican administrations for 1896 to 1912. But it was a beautiful speech from a master gargler.

By the via, Barkley did not make the best speech in Philly. The Bricker nominator for Taft rang a million in my eustachian filters. And meant no more than a bee-line in the rain.

Baering Down On The News

That hasn't happened since William Chinnings Bryan made himself a seven-tailed Pasha in 1896. Bryan climbed on the political scaffold and laid down a classical beef that still hackles the memory of man.

It got Bryan the Democratic nomination for oblivion. It just happened to be a string of Republican administrations for 1896 to 1912. But it was a beautiful speech from a master gargler.

By the via, Barkley did not make the best speech in Philly. The Bricker nominator for Taft rang a million in my eustachian filters. And meant no more than a bee-line in the rain.

Critical Period Appears Near Climax In Germany

The next few days and weeks may well be extremely critical in the situation surrounding Berlin. They might also be extremely critical for the peace of the world.

Any hopes that Russia intends to relax her blockade of the land routes into Berlin have been dashed, apparently, by the Kremlin's reply to the three-power notes of protest. That reply was a flat rejection of the American-British-French petition. It reaffirmed Moscow's position that the whole German question must be reopened and discussed before anything is done about easing the blockade on the capital.

The Berlin situation represents a showdown between the western democracies and Russia. Russia is frankly aiming at control of all Germany and, eventually, western Europe. The driving of the Allies out of Berlin is the first step in that program. This the three western powers recognize. Their plan for unification of Western Germany and the currency reform for that area, adopted after the Russians sabotaged peace talks for the whole of Germany, is the answer to the Russian move. For the democracies to back down now would be to admit defeat. They have stated they have no intention of leaving Berlin.

The Russian excuse for the blockade is that the rail line to Berlin from western Germany, which passes through the Soviet zone, needed repairs. There is always the possibility that Russia, unwilling to risk a clash of force, and recognizing the temper of the democracies, may suddenly "repair" the line. She has hinted that "repairs" are being made.

But if the line should remain closed, the air lift would continue to be the only means of supplying the 2,000,000 Germans in that part of Berlin under western control. The air lift can furnish a breathing spell, but even its prodigious effort cannot be counted on as a permanent and dependable line of supply.

Unless the Russians back down, stronger measures will be necessary. An appeal to the United Nations to step in may be next. But that move is fraught with peril. It could wreck what little remains of co-operation between the Soviet and democratic spheres. An actual show of force, which is not an impossibility, could result in anything. That alternative is one which no one who still clings to a hope of even a fitful peace, cares to think about.

Inflation is when someone asks for small change for a twenty and is given two tens.

New System For Army Is Small Step Forward

The new system of Army justice announced by Army Secretary Royall which will permit enlisted men to sit as members of special and general courts-martial is a small step in the right direction. Enlisted men may now require that up to one-third of the members of the court also be enlisted men. The new ruling provides that the defendant be permitted representation by counsel at pretrial investigation and that the defendant's counsel be the equal of prosecutor in training and experience. A third important change makes it illegal to reprimand court after the verdict, thus eliminating any influence on the court through reprisal from tough CO's.

Thus the enlisted man receives a more sympathetic hearing before the courts. But still he does not receive the absolute equality of representation he should have for the furtherance of morale and realistically at this time, for incentive to re-enlistment. More, the GI has now no adequate means of redress against discrimination, not in the courts, but elsewhere along the line.

Not rank itself, but the abuse of rank irritates the enlisted man and shatters morale. Too many GI's recall the time the corporal got the guardhouse for taking a jeep out to the beach on company time while the lieutenant got by with a private reprimand from the CO for the identical offense.

What the Army needs by way of furthering the reforms in the officer-enlisted man status is a set of rules designed to bring abuse of rank without danger of retribution to the attention of higher authority. The Judge Advocate General Corps is established under the new law as a special corps with significantly, its own promotion list. Here is the safe repository for such claims and the logical agency for their investigation and settlement.

No conscientious officer will resent such an agency. To the less responsible it should prove a powerful deterrent to the abuse of rank.

It may be said for party platforms that they do not hold out more vain promises than do seed catalogs.

The Voice of America Should Stick to the News

The Voice of America seems to have an overdeveloped yen for getting into trouble. It has just emerged from well deserved criticism in Congress because of a series of broadcasts to South America drew a needlessly derogatory caricature of this country. Now it is inviting more criticism by departing from a course of sending out news reports.

For several days, the State Department has announced, the Voice has been broadcasting a radio editorial to all nations in Europe except Yugoslavia. Entitled, "The Pot and The Kettle" it deals with the charges made against Tito by the cominform. It says the Russians are attacking the Yugoslavs for modeling their state on the Soviet and this is a case of the pot calling the kettle black "blown up to staggering size."

Regardless of whether the point is sound, it is highly questionable whether the Voice should make it by editorializing on its own hook when it could accomplish it purpose by quoting American press comment on tni development. The opinion stated by the Voice will be regarded as an expression of the United States government. Consequently, the United States is now in the position of taking a hand in the internal affairs of other nations.

Thus the Voice has made observations about the Soviet that the State Department has refrained from making in any other way. What the Russians think isn't important but the method is devious and could be abused.

Anything the State Department has to say need not be routed through the Voice. And the Voice should attempt to stick to the news, objectively reported. There is no better propaganda than the facts.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Painful Feet

If foot disorders were treated early and properly there would be far less suffering in the world. Almost every day, physicians encounter patients who have ruined their feet by wasting time on a host of home remedies before seeking expert advice.

Dr. Van Dellen

Fallen arches is one of the greatest sources of trouble. Every one knows this but for some reason or other it is generally believed that the answer to the problem is the arch support. The indiscriminate use of this device has two major drawbacks. In the first place, it does not take the cause into consideration. In this respect, it is like a drug—pain is relieved—but cure does not follow. The second shortcoming centers about the foot itself. No two are alike and the support that fits one may not be suitable for another.

Arch weakness is always suggested when discomfort, aching, and burning develop in this area after being on the feet all day. It is most noticeable at the highest part of the arch and the inner aspect of the foot. Pain may extend upward to the calves of the legs; now and the nthe ankles swell and the shoes become tight. Cramps in the legs, especially at night, are often bothersome and calluses may appear over new pressure points.

If allowed to continue, the gait changes and eventually the individual shuffles along with the feet turned outward likes a duck. More and more weight is borne on the inner sides, which become flatter and flatter. The arch is gone and the springiness of the walk disappears. If correction can be achieved early in the game, symptoms are kept to a minimum and the normal foot contour maintained. But if the condition is neglected, the muscles and tendors lose their elasticity and the bony part of the arches become frozen in their displaced position.

All physicians have seen foot distress disappear magically after posture improvement. A few maneuvers like holding up the head or straightening the shoulders redistributes body weight, giving the balance that nature intended. In other instances, the arches are squealing because their owner is too fat; less excess baggage would lighten the load. Poorly fitting shoes are important causative factors and probably the easiest to remedy. Not only do they leave the feet unsupported but distort the toes. Over-exercise and injury also play a role. During the war this was a common experience among rookies whose feet were unaccustomed to the rigors of long walks and marches. Any one who has been confined to bed for a long period will suffer unbearable distress on first attempting to walk because the weakened muscles, are unable to hold the arches in place.

While the cause is being treated, the feet themselves are not neglected. Well fitted shoes are obtained, preferably with a straight last and toes wide enough to prevent constriction. If pain is acute the arches should be bolstered up through padding the shoes with felt. Many must learn to walk properly with the toes pointing directly ahead. If the arch is rigid, massage, manipulation, and warm baths help to loosen the parts.

No. They are composed of tiny cells, which are capable of manufacturing secretions. The sweat glands produce perspiration; the thyroid, thyroxin.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

A public health authority states that 125,000 Americans go crazy every year. That's a surprisingly small number. I thought more people than that made out their income tax returns.

However, I have taken those "screwball statistics," broken them down as to cause, and come up with the following earth-shaking data:

Nine thousand go crazy trying to dig out that piece of caramel candy that gets stuck in a tooth cavity.

Twenty-two thousand go crazy trying to suck water out of a drinking fountain with weak pressure.

And finally twenty-one thousand moviegoers go stark, raving mad trying to figure out how the hero is dragged out of the water and two minutes later is always wearing a dry, neatly pressed suit.

General MacArthur Knows How To Deal With The Russians; Displaced-Persons Act Will Be Revamped At Special Session; Labor Conciliator Runs Into Lewis

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 19—General MacArthur has his own special system of dealing with the Russians. One incident contrasts with the recent arrest of Marshal Sokolovsky in Berlin by American military police for speeding, and the subsequent official apology to him despite the fact that he was clearly guilty of violating the law.

Meanwhile in Tokyo the top Russian General, Colonel General Galensky, was arrested by American military police outside of Tokyo for failing to have a pass. After his arrest, Galensky came storming into the office of Joseph B. Keenan, chief war crimes prosecutor, demanded an apology. Keenan took the request to MacArthur.

"Did he have a pass?" asked MacArthur.

"No."

"Can you go outside Tokyo without a pass?" MacArthur asked Keenan. "Can I go outside Tokyo, can any American officer or enlisted man travel outside Tokyo without a pass?

"Tell the Colonel General," concluded MacArthur, "that he gets exactly the same treatment given to you and me. He gets no apology."

Keenan conveyed this message verbatim to Galensky at his home. The Russian Colonel General listened carefully to MacArthur's words as relayed by Keenan, finally said:

"What a man! Let's have tea."

Displaced Persons

Senate Democratic leaders say that one of the first moves at the special session of Congress will be to revamp the Displaced Persons Act. Many Republicans agree, are angry at the anti-Catholic, anti-Semitic restrictions.

The Senate accepted the bill in its present form, because it came up so late that to have fought for corrective amendments would have meant no displaced-persons legislation at all.

The bill is the handiwork of West Virginia's Republican Senator Chapman Revercomb, and the methods he used to foist it upon his fellow Senators are some of the most shameful in the history of the 80th Congress. Soon after he was assigned to head a judiciary subcommittee to study the problem, Revercomb bluntly told colleagues: "We could solve this DP problem all right if we could work out some bill that would keep out the Jews."

That is exactly what he did. By legalistic sleight-of-hand, he put through a bill admitting 200,000 of Hitler's victims to this country—but on Hitler's terms. Those who entered Germany after December 22, 1945, cannot be admitted. It so happens that most of the Jews, now in refugee camps, fled into Germany from the Polish pogroms—after the December 22, 1945, deadline.

Revercomb's bill also assigns 50 per cent of the displaced-persons quota to the Baltic states for no valid reason, except that these states are predominantly Protestant. What's more, the bill requires that 50 per cent of those who come to this country must be farmers—in spite of petitions from employers and labor groups, asking for trained garment workers to fill the shortage in that field. Few Jews are farmers, many are garment workers.

Two months ago Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett wrote Senator Revercomb asking him to move up the eligibility date from 1945 to 1947. Revercomb kept the letter secret from his own committee until his West Virginia colleague, Democratic Senator Harley Kilgore, found out about it several weeks later.

"The State Department recommendation," snorted Revercomb, in reply to Kilgore's protest, "was made by the Jews. The Department is full of them."

Later, while the Senate-House conferees were debating differences in the bill, U. S. Ambassador to Britain Lewis Douglas sent an urgent cable to the State Department, warning that Europe regarded Revercomb's bill as grossly anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic. He requested that his views be communicated to Congressional leaders.

The State Department promptly got in touch with Senator Alexander Smith, New Jersey Republican, who urged Revercomb to present Ambassador Douglas's views to the Senate-House conferees. Afterward, Smith asked Revercomb whether he had done it.

"I did not," growled the West Virginia Republican. "I didn't want to raise any racial or religious issues in the conference."

Cy Ching's New Strike

Cy Ching, former head of the U. S. Rubber Company, who patriotically retired from a top job to aid his country as Federal Labor Conciliator, has been taking a brief vacation.

To get farthest away from the labor strikes he tries so hard to settle, Ching went on a fishing trip to Nova Scotia. Even there, however, he could not escape the name of the man who causes him most trouble—John L. Lewis.

Writing to a friend in Washington, Ching said:

"My fishing guide is named 'Lewis'." Then, with a note of relief he added: "The only time he says 'strike,' however, is when there's a fish on the line."

Veterans Housing

Congressman Albert Thomas, Texas Democrat, who has a fine record on most matters, did his best before Congress closed to hamstring the Housing Expediter's authority to investigate veterans' housing.

First he tried to block an appropriations bill, granting extra funds to the Housing Expediter to expand his investigating staff. When that failed, Thomas suggested that all housing functions relating to veterans should be transferred to the Veterans' Administration.

What the Texas Congressman didn't mention in his battle against the Housing Expediter was that one of his own close friends, Frank Sharp of Houston, a home builder, is under investigation on charges of defrauding veterans. The investigation has been pressed, of course, by the Housing Expediter.

When a newsman called to get Thomas's side of the story, the Congressman growled: "You'd better be careful what you print about Sharp!"

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Battle Is Joined

WASHINGTON.

SINCE THE PRESIDENT'S decision to call the Republican Congress back to "hold their feet in the fire," there is only one really safe prediction of what Washington will be like during the coming months. Washington will be hot, and by no means only in the atmospheric sense of that word. The hot rage of the Republicans at Truman's special session call is giving a good many Democrats a deal of malicious pleasure. Even so, some of the wiser Democratic heads are already beginning to doubt that in three months or so the President will feel like congratulating himself on the decision he has just taken.

As one of them put it: "In a prize fight, unless it's a pushover one way or the other, both fighters are apt to get hurt." President Truman is no doubt capable of giving the Republicans in Congress a bloody nose, by loudly contrasting their promises in Philadelphia with their forthcoming performance on Capitol Hill. But it will be surprising if the Republican Congressional leaders, who are by no means stupid men, do not succeed in administering a number of telling blows somewhere near the President's political solar plexus. The fact is that in a battle between Congress and the President, the results are apt to be about equally unhappy for both, unless the President is a man of such stature as not the warmest of his admirers claim for Harry S. Truman.

Thus the real beneficiaries of the savage battle which is about to be fought in Washington's humid heat are likely to be those who are not directly involved in the fight. These include those Democratic politicians who are trying to beat the Republicans in local contests.

Such local leaders as New York's Mayor William O'Dwyer and Chicago's Colonel Jacob Arvey are delighted with the special session call. This is perfectly understandable. So is the towering rage of such men as Colonel Robert R. McMorcick's fair-haired boy, Illinois Republican Senator C. Wayland ("Curly") Brooks.

The case of Senator Brooks is illuminating. His Senate seat is being contested by an able liberal, Paul Douglas, with the backing of Arveys Democratic machine. Because Henry Wallace's third party, never averse to electing isolationist Republicans, is putting a nominee in the field, Douglas had not been given more than an outside fighting chance against the stodgy Brooks.

Now, however, Douglas' chances look considerably brighter. First, Brooks will be forced to take an uncomfortably public stand on a whole series of issues which are deeply felt in over-crowded, price-harried, race-conscious Chicago. It is extremely doubtful that Brooks' right-wing Republican mentors will permit him to take a popular stand on these issues.

Second, while the unfortunate Brooks is sweating in Washington, Douglas will be free to build his political fences in Illinois, with the help of Arvey's energetic cohorts. No wonder the Brooks blood-pressure has risen. And precisely the same sort of situation exists in a number of other cases, as for example between Minnesota's Hubert Humphrey and his Republican opponent, Senator Joseph Ball.

Thus the President's bold move should help Democratic candidates in a number of local contests in the North. But will it help the President?

Certainly it was designed to do so, and certainly it seems calculated to put Governors Dewey and Warren in an agonizingly embarrassing situation. On the stump, they will be offering the country modern, enlightened government. But on Capitol Hill, most members of their party will be balking at such measures as Senator Robert A. Taft's relatively mild housing bill, which most Congressional Republicans, like Taft's Ohio colleague, Senator John Bricker, regard as nasty Socialistic nonsesense.

Moreover, although neither Republican nominee is in Congress, they will not be able entirely to escape responsibility for what Congress does. This means in turn a running series of conferences between Dewey and such Republican Congressional leaders as Senate's Taft and Joe Martin of the House. Since Dewey and the Congressional leaders by no means see eye to eye on all matters, these occasions may well be distinctly painful.

Even so, Dewey will be able to remain to some degree above the battle. The President cannot. Moreover, the President has clearly decided to cast aside the statesman's toga which he has worn so uncomfortably, and to indulge in some really tough political infighting. The unedifying spectacle of a long, rather squalid Presidential squabble with the Congress will scarcely add to the President's stature in these times. For more is involved than the political fortunes of Harry S. Truman. And the savage bitterness of the fight which the President has now initiated can hardly contribute to the unity of the country, as the grim crisis aboard continues to grow more grim.

President Truman Appears To Be Foggy On Nation's Mandates

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 19 — The most important aspect of the President's call for an extra session of Congress has been generally overlooked. He is asking Congress to enact the program laid down in the Republican convention which, in turn, wrote a platform for the Congress that is supposed to be elected this autumn and to take office in January 1949.

The Republican convention laid down a program for the Eighty-First Congress—not the eightieth—and so did the Democratic convention. Until the American people by their votes next November say which platform they prefer the present Eightieth Congress has no new mandate.

Speaking of mandates, the American people passed in the November 1946 election on the program offered at that time by the Republicans. Both Houses were given to the Republicans to control on the basis of campaign promises.

In the 1946 campaign, the Republicans argued that government controls should be lifted. The country at that time resented controls. Also the people were aroused against labor-union bosses and strikes and wanted, therefore, some reform legislation and the Taft-Hartley law was enacted in response to that mandate.

Put Own Interpretation On It

It will be recalled that President Truman never accepted the mandate of the people in the 1946 election. He interpreted it as he pleased. He argued that not enough people had voted and hence it was a "minority" election. If the American people have approved one basic principle of present-day politics it is that losers must be good sportsmen and abide by the result. Mr. Truman at first promised to cooperate with the Republicans and then went back on his promise. Whatever bill he has signed, he has given only grudging approval. Even when it was apparent that two-thirds of both houses wanted certain laws enacted, Mr. Truman refused to go along. He insisted on an arbitrary position of minority leadership over the will of a two-thirds majority.

There will be no use of an extra session if the President continues his capricious course in refusing to approve legislation passed by a majority. It is the duty of the legislators nevertheless to pass whatever legislation will complete the program which the American people passed upon in the November 1946 election and to place upon Mr. Truman the responsibility of approving or disapproving whatever laws are passed.

As for the Republican platform of 1948 which was set forth by the convention as the course to guide the country beginning in January 1949, the Republicans can justifiably say that this program cannot be put into effect unless and until a Republican president is elected. For Mr. Truman's administration has been twice repudiated by two-thirds of both Houses of Congress—once on tax-reduction legislation and once on the Taft-Hartley law. In one of these instances a majority even of the Democratic Party also repudiated Mr. Truman's leadership.

Somewhat Foggy On Mandates

Under such circumstances it would seem logical for Congress to complete its program asked for in November 1946 and elicit from the President some expression as to whether he will cooperate if the 1949 program is begun now. The President himself is somewhat foggy on the mandates of the 1946 and 1948 elections. In fact, in his speech at the Philadelphia convention last week, he condemned the Eightieth Congress, which wasn't elected until November 1946, for having presented him with a "rotten" price-control bill in June 1946—six months before the Eightieth Congress actually came into power.

Maybe when the extra session of Congress is all over, the Republicans will secretly thank President Truman for having called it. Anyone who was familiar with the state of mind of the Republicans in the ten days just before the regular session ended knew that there was a definite desire to come back after the conventions and finish up on certain controversial pieces of legislation. It was the taunting comments of Democratic leaders that prompted the adjournment.

Lower It Sinks

JOHN RINGLING North should be elected permanent master of ceremonies of the Republican and Democratic conventions. That would, at any rate, assure a professional touch to the clowning; it would keep the bands playing in tune and time; it would synchronize the program so that it began and ended according to schedule and its numbers would finish on a split second.

Circuses should be run by circus men, and these national conventions have degenerated into circuses, designed not to transact important business in an orderly manner but to make noise, create furore, puff up the ego of trivial personalities and to give adults an opportunity to revert to the fun of their childhood.

Fun is fun and nobody can object to a goodly dose of it. But these two parties met at a serious moment in the history of their country, in the face of a crisis in Europe, to decide on their principles and to choose four men, two of whom must, by the course of events, be President and Vice President of the United States during the next four years. This is important business—so far as most Americans are concerned, probably the most important business that can be transacted in this country this year.

Except as the Jews fought for Israeli resolutions and the Southerners fought against the revolution in this society, neither convention, on the floor, produced a serious approach to any of the problems that face this country or the world today. The leading speeches were tawdry in both conventions and it would take considerable study to discover the worst one. The best, of course, was that delivered by Herbert Hoover, which was of the heart.

My own reaction — perhaps premature—to the worst was that of Sam Rayburn, although President Truman comes in for consideration, as his so-called "off-the-cuff" act lacked dignity, stature and a sense of fitness of the occasion.

This business of bringing in acts from the cellar of the convention hall to stir up demonstration is time-wasting and a bore. The first time one sees and hears it, the novelty has some appeal. As soon, however, as it is discovered that it is all pre-arranged, that the delegates are only a side-show, that many of the participants are hired mummers—then the whole business has to be compared with Mr. North's output at the Barnum and Bailey circus. And it must be admitted that Mr. North does a better job—and it costs less to see.

What is the value of the galleries? If they are spectators, why do they interfere with the proceedings? Why are they permitted to scream and shout and vote "Aye" and "Nay" as though they were delegates?

It was the galleries that shrieked so vociferously when Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis made one of the better speeches at the Democratic Convention. But what business was it of the spectators to control the climate of a Convention?

Even the prayers seemed jazzed up. I wonder why the clergy so often feel called upon on such occasions to instruct God on what He should do about it. It would seem to me that the very solemnity of the moment would invoke the best of tastes, which is brevity, particularly while bespeaking the mercy of God on the foolish mortals who love to play with power.

It seemed to me that Tom Dewey's prayer was superior to that of any clergyman at either convention, probably because he really was needful of prayer, as any man should be who enters upon such a task.

Why should not both parties spend the next four years studying these meetings and reaching an agreement on how to make the conventions dignified, decently conducted conclaves of their parties engaged in their most serious business? It would probably be necessary to cut the delegations and to reduce the number of spectators. Otherwise Paul Gallico's sage opinion that sooner or later, a convention will consist of reporters, columnists, radio commentators, photographers, television technicians and electricians, will be the fact. As it stands, these conventions are an insult to those who attend them and to the voter who hears and watches them on radio and television.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Peace At Weskawenaak

Many years ago, through the kindness of a friend, I made an investment in a small Nova Scotia island on Grand Lake, not far from Halifax. I have made a lot of investments that I hoped would turn out well and pay me in reasonable dividends, but few ever have. This one has—paid in compound dividends — of pure happiness, plus health and peace of mind.

I have my boats and books, and a few friends now and then who pay me brief visits. And I have my newspapers and radio, which keep me informed—but from Nature herself I learn most. These great green towering hemlocks and pines, with the colorful white birches, the mossy paths, made so fresh by so much rain, and the songs of happy birds, and my pet wild red squirrels, give men entertainment quite sufficient. For eighteen years now I have taken this "treat, which has not been a treatment," as a popular radio announcer so often expresses it about his product.

I have praised the Nova Scotia climate so many times that it has come to sound trite, I am sure, but it certainly is ideal—cool at night, and perfectly air-conditioned during the day by the great Conditioner of us all. No more genuine people on this earth live, breathe and work than these Canadians — especially in this branch of Nova Scotia where I know them best.

It is a joy to be here in this quiet, with the smell of Nature so pungent and uplifting, and wild flowers nodding to you as you walk about the paths of this island. How much I owe to an endless number of people for the privilege that I enjoy. I am indeed in debt to all who have ever touched my life, by word of mouth or pen. And written or spoken. I keep counting over my blessings instead of my mistakes, blunders and failures. How greatly the former are in the majority!

The only crowds here are the crowded trees, and though they are silent, I almost think they talk to me as I walk about them, and get the odor of their delicate perfume in my lungs, through my nostrils, and lock up their beauty in my heart. What a fashioner God is in his great realm! Why should there be those who would destroy it all, blow it into bits, and leave a few scattered fragments of mankind to wonder about it all? There is unity here at Weskawenaak. There is medicine here for the soul.

Critical Period Appears Near Climax In Germany

The next few days and weeks may well be extremely critical in the situation surrounding Berlin. They might also be extremely critical for the peace of the world.

Any hopes that Russia intends to relax her blockade of the land routes into Berlin have been dashed, apparently, by the Kremlin's reply to the three-power notes of protest. That reply was a flat rejection of the American-British-French petition. It reaffirmed Moscow's position that the whole German question must be reopened and discussed before anything is done about easing the blockade on the capital.

The Berlin situation represents a showdown between the western democracies and Russia. Russia is frankly aiming at control of all Germany and, eventually, western Europe. The driving of the Allies out of Berlin is the first step in that program. This the three western powers recognize. Their plan for unification of Western Germany and the currency reform for that area, adopted after the Russians sabotaged peace talks for the whole of Germany, is the answer to the Russian move. For the democracies to back down now would be to admit defeat. They have stated they have no intention of leaving Berlin.

The Russian excuse for the blockade is that the rail line to Berlin from western Germany, which passes through the Soviet zone, needed repairs. There is always the possibility that Russia, unwilling to risk a clash of force, and recognizing the temper of the democracies, may suddenly "repair" the line. She has hinted that "repairs" are being made.

But if the line should remain closed, the air lift would continue to be the only means of supplying the 2,000,000 Germans in that part of Berlin under western control. The air lift can furnish a breathing spell, but even its prodigious effort cannot be counted on as a permanent and dependable line of supply.

Unless the Russians back down, stronger measures will be necessary. An appeal to the United Nations to step in may be next. But that move is fraught with peril. It could wreck what little remains of co-operation between the Soviet and democratic spheres. An actual show of force, which is not an impossibility, could result in anything. That alternative is one which no one who still clings to a hope of even a fitful peace, cares to think about.

Inflation is when someone asks for small change for a twenty and is given two tens.

New System For Army Is Small Step Forward

The new system of Army justice announced by Army Secretary Royall which will permit enlisted men to sit as members of special and general courts-martial is a small step in the right direction. Enlisted men may now require that up to one-third of the members of the court also be enlisted men. The new ruling provides that the defendant be permitted representation by counsel at pretrial investigation and that the defendant's counsel be the equal of prosecutor in training and experience. A third important change makes it illegal to reprimand court after the verdict, thus eliminating any influence on the court through reprisal from tough CO's.

Thus the enlisted man receives a more sympathetic hearing before the courts. But still he does not receive the absolute equality of representation he should have for the furtherance of morale and realistically at this time, for incentive to re-enlistment. More, the GI has now no adequate means of redress against discrimination, not in the courts, but elsewhere along the line.

Not rank itself, but the abuse of rank irritates the enlisted man and shatters morale. Too many GI's recall the time the corporal got the guardhouse for taking a jeep out to the beach on company time while the lieutenant got by with a private reprimand from the CO for the identical offense.

What the Army needs by way of furthering the reforms in the officer-enlisted man status is a set of rules designed to bring abuse of rank without danger of retribution to the attention of higher authority. The Judge Advocate General Corps is established under the new law as a special corps with significantly, its own promotion list. Here is the safe repository for such claims and the logical agency for their investigation and settlement.

No conscientious officer will resent such an agency. To the less responsible it should prove a powerful deterrent to the abuse of rank.

It may be said for party platforms that they do not hold out more vain promises than do seed catalogs.

The Voice of America Should Stick to the News

The Voice of America seems to have an overdeveloped yen for getting into trouble. It has just emerged from well deserved criticism in Congress because of a series of broadcasts to South America drew a needlessly derogatory caricature of this country. Now it is inviting more criticism by departing from a course of sending out news reports.

For several days, the State Department has announced, the Voice has been broadcasting a radio editorial to all nations in Europe except Yugoslavia. Entitled, "The Pot and The Kettle" it deals with the charges made against Tito by the cominform. It says the Russians are attacking the Yugoslavs for modeling their state on the Soviet and this is a case of the pot calling the kettle black "blown up to staggering size."

Regardless of whether the point is sound, it is highly questionable whether the Voice should make it by editorializing on its own hook when it could accomplish its purpose by quoting American press comment on the development. The opinion stated by the Voice will be regarded as an expression of the United States government. Consequently, the United States is now in the position of taking a hand in the internal affairs of other nations.

Thus the Voice has made observations about the Soviet that the State Department has refrained from making in any other way. What the Russians think isn't important but the method is devious and could be abused.

Anything the State Department has to say need not be routed through the Voice. And the Voice should attempt to stick to the news, objectively reported. There is no better propaganda than the facts.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Painful Feet

If foot disorders were treated early and properly there would be far less suffering in the world. Almost every day, physicians encounter patients who have ruined their feet by wasting time on a host of home remedies before seeking expert advice.

Dr. Van Dellen

Fallen arches is one of the greatest sources of trouble. Every one knows this but for some reason or other it is generally believed that the answer to the problem is the arch support. The indiscriminate use of this device has two major drawbacks. In the first place, it does not take the cause into consideration. In this respect, it is like a drug—pain is relieved—but cure does not follow. The second shortcoming centers about the foot itself. No two are alike and the support that fits one may not be suitable for another.

Arch weakness is always suggested when discomfort, aching, and burning develop in this area after being on the feet all day. It is most noticeable at the highest part of the arch and the inner aspect of the foot. Pain may extend upward to the calves of the legs; now and the nthe ankles swell and the shoes become tight. Cramps in the legs, especially at night, are often bothersome and calluses may appear over new pressure points.

If allowed to continue, the gait changes and eventually the individual shuffles along with the feet turned outward likes a duck. More and more weight is borne on the inner sides, which become flatter and flatter. The arch is gone and the springiness of the walk disappears. If correction can be achieved early in the game, symptoms are kept to a minimum and the normal foot contour maintained. But if the condition is neglected, the muscles and tendors lose their elasticity and the bony part of the arches become frozen in their displaced position.

All physicians have seen foot distress disappear magically after posture improvement. A few maneuvers like holding up the head or straightening the shoulders redistributes body weight, giving the balance that nature intended. In other instances, the arches are squealing because their owner is too fat; less excess baggage would lighten the load. Poorly fitting shoes are important causative factors and probably the easiest to remedy. Not only do they leave the feet unsupported but distort the toes. Over-exercise and injury also play a role. During the war this was a common experience among rookies whose feet were unaccustomed to the rigors of long walks and marches. Any one who has been confined to bed for a long period will suffer unbearable distress on first attempting to walk because the weakened muscles, are unable to hold the arches in place.

While the cause is being treated, the feet themselves are not neglected. Well fitted shoes are obtained, preferably with a straight last and toes wide enough to prevent constriction. If pain is acute the arches should be bolstered up through padding the shoes with felt. Many must learn to walk properly with the toes pointing directly ahead. If the arch is rigid, massage, manipulation, and warm baths help to loosen the parts.

No. They are composed of tiny cells, which are capable of manufacturing secretions. The sweat glands produce perspiration; the thyroid, thyroxin.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

A public health authority states that 125,000 Americans go crazy every year. That's a surprisingly small number. I thought more people than that made out their income tax returns.

However, I have taken those "screwball statistics," broken them down as to cause, and come up with the following earth-shaking data:

Nine thousand go crazy trying to dig out that piece of caramel candy that gets stuck in a tooth cavity.

Twenty-two thousand go crazy trying to suck water out of a drinking fountain with weak pressure.

Ten thousand lose their minds trying to get salt out of a saltshaker in damp weather.

And finally twenty-one thousand moviegoers go stark, raving mad trying to figure out how the hero is dragged out of the water and two minutes later is always wearing a dry, neatly pressed suit.

General MacArthur Knows How To Deal With The Russians; Displaced-Persons Act Will Be Revamped At Special Session; Labor Conciliator Runs Into Lewis

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 19—General MacArthur has his own special system of dealing with the Russians. One incident contrasts with the recent arrest of Marshal Sokolovsky in Berlin by American military police for speeding, and the subsequent official apology to him despite the fact that he was clearly guilty of violating the law.

Meanwhile in Tokyo the top Russian General, Colonel General Galensky, was arrested by American military police outside of Tokyo for failing to have a pass. After his arrest, Galensky came storming into the office of Joseph B. Keenan, chief war crimes prosecutor, demanded an apology. Keenan took the request to MacArthur.

"Did he have a pass?" asked MacArthur.

"No."

"Can you go outside Tokyo without a pass?" MacArthur asked Keenan. "Can I go outside Tokyo, can any American officer or enlisted man travel outside Tokyo without a pass?

"Tell the Colonel General," concluded MacArthur, "that he gets exactly the same treatment given to you and me. He gets no apology."

Keenan conveyed this message verbatim to Galensky at his home. The Russian Colonel General listened carefully to MacArthur's words as relayed by Keenan, finally said:

"What a man! Let's have tea."

Displaced Persons

Senate Democratic leaders say that one of the first moves at the special session of Congress will be to revamp the Displaced Persons Act. Many Republicans agree, are angry at the anti-Catholic, anti-Semitic restrictions.

The Senate accepted the bill in its present form, because it came up so late that to have fought for corrective amendments would have meant no displaced-persons legislation at all.

The bill is the handiwork of West Virginia's Republican Senator Chapman Revercomb, and the methods he used to foist it upon his fellow Senators are some of the most shameful in the history of the 80th Congress. Soon after he was assigned to head a judiciary subcommittee to study the problem, Revercomb bluntly told colleagues: "We could solve this DP problem all right if we could work out some bill that would keep out the Jews."

That is exactly what he did. By legalistic sleight-of-hand, he put through a bill admitting 200,000 of Hitler's victims to this country—but on Hitler's terms. Those who entered Germany after December 22, 1945, cannot be admitted. It so happens that most of the Jews, now in refugee camps, fled into Germany from the Polish pogroms—after the December 22, 1945, deadline.

Revercomb's bill also assigns 50 per cent of the displaced-persons quota to the Baltic states for no valid reason, except that these states are predominantly Protestant. What's more, the bill requires that 50 per cent of those who come to this country must be farmers—in spite of petitions from employers and labor groups, asking for trained garment workers to fill the shortage in that field. Few Jews are farmers, many are garment workers.

Two months ago Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett wrote Senator Revercomb asking him to move up the eligibility date from 1945 to 1947. Revercomb kept the letter secret from his own committee until his West Virginia colleague, Democratic Senator Harley Kilgore, found out about it several weeks later.

"The State Department recommendation," snorted Revercomb, in reply to Kilgore's protest, "was made by the Jews. The Department is full of them."

Later, while the Senate-House conferees were debating differences in the bill, U. S. Ambassador to Britain Lewis Douglas sent an urgent cable to the State Department, warning that Europe regarded Revercomb's bill as grossly anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic. He requested that his views be communicated to Congressional leaders.

The State Department promptly got in touch with Senator Alexander Smith, New Jersey Republican, who urged Revercomb to present Ambassador Douglas's views to the Senate-House conferees. Afterward, Smith asked Revercomb whether he had done it.

"I did not," growled the West Virginia Republican. "I didn't want to raise any racial or religious issues in the conference."

Cy Ching's New Strike

Cy Ching, former head of the U. S. Rubber Company, who patriotically retired from a top job to aid his country as Federal Labor Conciliator, has been taking a brief vacation.

To get farthest away from the labor strikes he tries so hard to settle, Ching went on a fishing trip to Nova Scotia. Even there, however, he could not escape the name of the man who causes him most trouble—John L. Lewis.

Writing to a friend in Washington, Ching said:

"My fishing guide is named 'Lewis'." Then, with a note of relief he added: "The only time he says 'strike,' however, is when there's a fish on the line."

Veterans Housing

Congressman Albert Thomas, Texas Democrat, who has a fine record on most matters, did his best before Congress closed to hamstring the Housing Expediter's authority to investigate veterans' housing.

First he tried to block an appropriations bill, granting extra funds to the Housing Expediter to expand his investigating staff. When that failed, Thomas suggested that all housing functions relating to veterans should be transferred to the Veterans' Administration.

What the Texas Congressman didn't mention in his battle against the Housing Expediter was that one of his own close friends, Frank Sharp of Houston, a home builder, is under investigation on charges of defrauding veterans. The investigation has been pressed, of course, by the Housing Expediter.

When a newsman called to get Thomas's side of the story, the Congressman growled: "You'd better be careful what you print about Sharp!"

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Battle Is Joined

WASHINGTON.

SINCE THE PRESIDENT'S decision to call the Republican Congress back to "hold their feet in the fire," there is only one really safe prediction of what Washington will be like during the coming months. Washington will be hot, and by no means only in the atmospheric sense of that word. The hot rage of the Republicans at Truman's special session call is giving a good many Democrats a deal of malicious pleasure. Even so, some of the wiser Democratic heads are already beginning to doubt that in three months or so the President will feel like congratulating himself on the decision he has just taken.

As one of them put it: "In a prize fight, unless it's a pushover one way or the other, both fighters are apt to get hurt." President Truman is no doubt capable of giving the Republicans in Congress a bloody nose, by loudly contrasting their promises in Philadelphia with their forthcoming performance on Capitol Hill. But it will be surprising if the Republican Congressional leaders, who are by no means stupid men, do not succeed in administering a number of telling blows somewhere near the President's political solar plexus. The fact is that in a battle between Congress and the President, the results are apt to be about equally unhappy for both, unless the President is a man of such stature as not the warmest of his admirers claim for Harry S. Truman.

Thus the real beneficiaries of the savage battle which is about to be fought in Washington's humid heat are likely to be those who are not directly involved in the fight. These include those Democratic politicians who are trying to beat the Republicans in local contests.

Such local leaders as New York's Mayor William O'Dwyer and Chicago's Colonel Jacob Arvey are delighted with the special session call. This is perfectly understandable. So is the towering rage of such men as Colonel Robert R. McMorcick's fair-haired boy, Illinois Republican Senator C. Wayland ("Curly") Brooks.

The case of Senator Brooks is illuminating. His Senate seat is being contested by an able liberal, Paul Louglas, with the backing of Arveys Democratic machine. Because Henry Wallace's third party, never averse to electing isolationist Republicans, is putting a nominee in the field, Douglas had not been given more than an outside fighting chance against the stodgy Brooks.

Now, however, Douglas' chances look considerably brighter. First, Brooks will be forced to take an uncomfortably public stand on a whole series of issues which are deeply felt in over-crowded, price-harried, race-conscious Chicago. It is extremely doubtful that Brooks' right-wing Republican mentors will permit him to take a popular stand on these issues.

Second, while the unfortunate Brooks is sweating in Washington, Douglas will be free to build his political fences in Illinois, with the help of Arvey's energetic cohorts. No wonder the Brooks blood-pressure has risen. And precisely the same sort of situation exists in a number of other cases, as for example between Minnesota's Hubert Humphrey and his Republican opponent, Senator Joseph Ball.

Thus the President's bold move should help Democratic candidates in a number of local contests in the North. But will it help the President?

Certainly it was designed to do so, and certainly it seems calculated to put Governors Dewey and Warren in an agonizingly embarrassing situation. On the stump, they will be offering the country modern, enlightened government. But on Capitol Hill, most members of their party will be balking at such measures as Senator Robert A. Taft's relatively mild housing bill, which most Congressional Republicans, like Taft's Ohio colleague, Senator John Bricker, regard as nasty Socialistic nonsesense.

Moreover, although neither Republican nominee is in Congress, they will not be able entirely to escape responsibility for what Congress does. This means in turn a running series of conferences between Dewey and such Republican Congressional leaders as Senate's Taft and Joe Martin of the House. Since Dewey and the Congressional leaders by no means see eye to eye on all matters, these occasions may well be distinctly painful.

Even so, Dewey will be able to remain to some degree above the battle. The President cannot. Moreover, the President has clearly decided to cast aside the statesman's toga which he has worn so uncomfortably, and to indulge in some really tough political infighting. The unedifying spectacle of a long, rather squalid Presidential squabble with the Congress will scarcely add to the President's stature in these times. For more is involved than the political fortunes of Harry S. Truman. And the savage bitterness of the fight which the President has now initiated can hardly contribute to the unity of the country, as the grim crisis aboard continues to grow more grim.

President Truman Appears To Be Foggy On Nation's Mandates

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 19 — The most important aspect of the President's call for an extra session of Congress has been generally overlooked. He is asking Congress to enact the program laid down in the Republican convention which, in turn, wrote a platform for the Congress that is supposed to be elected this autumn and to take office in January 1949.

The Republican convention laid down a program for the Eighty-First Congress—not the eightieth—and so did the Democratic convention. Until the American people by their votes next November say which platform they prefer the present Eightieth Congress has no new mandate.

Speaking of mandates, the American people passed in the November 1946 election on the program offered at that time by the Republicans. Both Houses were given to the Republicans to control on the basis of campaign promises.

In the 1946 campaign, the Republicans argued that government controls should be lifted. The country at that time resented controls. Also the people were aroused against labor-union bosses and strikes and wanted, therefore, some reform legislation and the Taft-Hartley law was enacted in response to that mandate.

Put Own Interpretation On It

It will be recalled that President Truman never accepted the mandate of the people in the 1946 election. He interpreted it as he pleased. He argued that not enough people had voted and hence it was a "minority" election. If the American people have approved one basic principle of present-day politics it is that losers must be good sportsmen and abide by the result. Mr. Truman at first promised to cooperate with the Republicans and then went back on his promise. Whatever bill he has signed, he has given only grudging approval. Even when it was apparent that two-thirds of both houses wanted certain laws enacted, Mr. Truman refused to go along. He insisted on an arbitrary position of minority leadership over the will of a two-thirds majority.

There will be no use of an extra session if the President continues his capricious course in refusing to approve legislation passed by a majority. It is the duty of the legislators nevertheless to pass whatever legislation will complete the program which the American people passed upon in the November 1946 election and to place upon Mr. Truman the responsibility of approving or disapproving whatever laws are passed.

As for the Republican platform of 1948 which was set forth by the convention as the course to guide the country beginning in January 1949, the Republicans can justifiably say that this program cannot be put into effect unless and until a Republican president is elected. For Mr. Truman's administration has been twice repudiated by two-thirds of both Houses of Congress—once on tax-reduction legislation and once on the Taft-Hartley law. In one of these instances a majority even of the Democratic Party also repudiated Mr. Truman's leadership.

Somewhat Foggy On Mandates

Under such circumstances it would seem logical for Congress to complete its program asked for in November 1946 and elicit from the President some expression as to whether he will cooperate if the 1949 program is begun now. The President himself is somewhat foggy on the mandates of the 1946 and 1948 elections. In fact, in his speech at the Philadelphia convention last week, he condemned the Eightieth Congress, which wasn't elected until November 1946, for having presented him with a "rotten" price-control bill in June 1946—six months before the Eightieth Congress actually came into power.

Maybe when the extra session of Congress is all over, the Republicans will secretly thank President Truman for having called it. Anyone who was familiar with the state of mind of the Republicans in the ten days just before the regular session ended knew that there was a definite desire to come back after the conventions and finish up on certain controversial pieces of legislation. It was the taunting comments of Democratic leaders that prompted the adjournment.

Circuses should be run by circus men, and these national conventions have degenerated into circuses, designed not to transact important business in an orderly manner but to make noise, create furore, puff up the ego of trivial personalities and to give adults an opportunity to revert to the fun of their childhood.

Fun is fun and nobody can object to a goodly dose of it. But these two parties met at a serious moment in the history of their country, in the face of a crisis in Europe, to decide on their principles and to choose four men, two of whom must, by the course of events, be President and Vice President of the United States during the next four years. This is important business—so far as most Americans are concerned, probably the most important business that can be transacted in this country this year.

Except as the Jews fought for Israeli resolutions and the Southerners fought against the revolution in this society, neither convention, on the floor, produced a serious approach to any of the problems that face this country or the world today. The leading speeches were tawdry in both conventions and it would take considerable study to discover the worst one. The best, of course, was that delivered by Herbert Hoover, which was of the heart.

My own reaction — perhaps premature—to the worst was that of Sam Rayburn, although President Truman comes in for consideration, as his so-called "off-the-cuff" act lacked dignity, stature and a sense of fitness of the occasion.

This business of bringing in acts from the cellar of the convention hall to stir up demonstration is time-wasting and a bore. The first time one sees and hears it, the novelty has some appeal. As soon, however, as it is discovered that it is all pre-arranged, that the delegates are only a side-show, that many of the participants are hired mummers—then the whole business has to be compared with Mr. North's output at the Barnum and Bailey circus. And it must be admitted that Mr. North does a better job—and it costs less to see.

What is the value of the galleries? If they are spectators, why do they interfere with the proceedings? Why are they permitted to scream and shout and vote "Aye" and "Nay" as though they were delegates?

It was the galleries that shrieked so vociferously when Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis made one of the better speeches at the Democratic Convention. But what business was it of the spectators to control the climate of a Convention?

Even the prayers seemed jazzed up. I wonder why the clergy so often feel called upon on such occasions to instruct God on what He should do about it. It would seem to me that the very solemnity of the moment would invoke the best of tastes, which is brevity, particularly while bespeaking the mercy of God on the foolish mortals who love to play with power.

It seemed to me that Tom Dewey's prayer was superior to that of any clergyman at either convention, probably because he really was needful of prayer, as any man should be who enters upon such a task.

Why should not both parties spend the next four years studying these meetings and reaching an agreement on how to make the conventions dignified, decently conducted conclaves of their parties engaged in their most serious business? It would probably be necessary to cut the delegations and to reduce the number of spectators. Otherwise Paul Gallico's sage opinion that sooner or later, a convention will consist of reporters, columnists, radio commentators, photographers, television technicians and electricians, will be the fact. As it stands, these conventions are an insult to those who attend them and to the voter who hears and watches them on radio and television.

Today's Talk

Peace At Weskawenaak

Many years ago, through the kindness of a friend, I made an investment in a small Nova Scotia island on Grand Lake, not far from Halifax. I have made a lot of investments that I hoped would turn out well and pay me in reasonable dividends, but few ever have. This one has—paid in compound dividends — of pure happiness, plus health and peace of mind.

I have my boats and books, and a few friends now and then who pay me brief visits. And I have my newspapers and radio, which keep me informed—but from Nature herself I learn most. These great green towering hemlocks and pines, with the colorful white birches, the mossy paths, made so fresh by so much rain, and the songs of happy birds, and my pet wild red squirrels, give men entertainment quite sufficient. For eighteen years now I have taken this "treat, which has not been a treatment," as a popular radio announcer so often expresses it about his product.

I have praised the Nova Scotia climate so many times that it has come to sound trite, I am sure, but it certainly is ideal—cool at night, and perfectly air-conditioned during the day by the great Conditioner of us all. No more genuine people on this earth live, breathe and work than these Canadians — especially in this branch of Nova Scotia where I know them best.

It is a joy to be here in this quiet, with the smell of Nature so pungent and uplifting, and wild flowers nodding to you as you walk about the paths of this island. How much I owe to an endless number of people for the privilege that I enjoy. I am indeed in debt to all who have ever touched my life, by word of mouth or pen. And written or spoken. I keep counting over my blessings instead of my mistakes, blunders and failures. How greatly the former are in the majority!

The only crowds here are the crowded trees, and though they are silent, I almost think they talk to me as I walk about them, and get the odor of their delicate perfume in my lungs, through my nostrils, and lock up their beauty in my heart. What a fashioner God is in his great realm! Why should there be those who would destroy it all, blow it into bits, and leave a few scattered fragments of mankind to wonder about it all? There is unity here at Weskawenaak. There is medicine here for the soul.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Continuing its Tuesday night 9:30 hour of concert music, ABC for the next four weeks is to come from the Berkshire music festival at Lenox, Mass., nestling in the mountains of the Berkshire.

To start things off in a broadcast way, Dr. Erge Koussevitsky will conduct the Boston symphony's chamber ensemble in an all-Mozart program. Piano soloist is to be Lukas Foss.

Burgess Meredith has agreed to do the lead acting in the Studio One of CBS at 10. The particular production picked is "Spanish Bayonet," by Stephen Vincent Benet. The story is in the pre-Revolution year of 1774, with the scene laid on a plantation in Florida. Burgess will play the part of Andrew Beard, a rich young New Yorker of those days.

America's Town meeting will be stopped at Oakland, Calif., for ABC at 8:30. Argument is to center around the question "Does Military Preparedness Mean Security?"

In the panel will be Admiral R. K. Turner, retired; Vera M. Deane of the Foreign Policy association and Carey McWilliams, author.

The Mel Torme show, now going on instead of the Dinah Shore show on NBC at 8, includes also John Brown, Barbara Eller, Sidney Miller, Dean Elliiot's orchestra. The program is described as a "comedy musical."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Freedom Of Television

The profound impact of television on national conventions will not be fully calculated until 1952 when the next ones take place, when many, many more television sets will be in private homes and when, in all probability, there will be coast-to-coast network transmission. Even this year, when an estimated 10,000,000 persons saw some phase of the conventions by television, politicians took television very much into account.

John Crosby

Buried in the Democratic platform is a pledge to respect "freedom in the gathering and dissemination of news by press, radio and television." This is the first time television has elbowed its way into that familiar pledge. Motion pictures and newsreels were added too. Clark Clifford, close adviser to President Truman, made an illuminating statement in a television interview over N.B.C. Mr. Truman (who, by the way, is quite a television fan) was largely influenced by television in making his comparatively recent decision to talk extemporaneously from notes rather than from a prepared text. The President, said Clifford, felt that a speaker couldn't "project his personality" via television if his head was constantly bent over a script.

This sort of preoccupation with television carries with it some distressing implications. Politicians could easily become so wrapped up in producing pretty pictures for the home audience that they forget that a convention should concern itself with ideas and issues. This sort of videomania was best exemplified at the Democratic convention by the release in the wee hours of the morning of a swarm of doves from a huge floral Liberty Bell. Television cameras all over the hall immediately deserted President Truman, who had just appeared on the rostrum, and chased the birds, torpid from hours of confinement in the fetid air of the hall, as they wheeled drunkenly into electric fans, delegates, newspaper men and House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn.

Bird lovers throughout the hall departed, muttering that it was inhuman as well as ridiculous. I'm willing to lay plenty of eight to five that this sort of stunt staged for the benefit of the cameras will be repeated, amplified and played to death in '52.

On the other side of the ledger is the fact that speakers will probably edit their oratory sharply. Speeches which are long on radio are even longer—for some reason I don't fully understand—on television. Almost certainly, floor leaders will try to prevent a repitition of the fiasco at Philadelphia on the first day of the convention. On that day, television audiences were informed they were being taken to the Democratic National Convention. On the screen flashed a picture of Convention Hall — huge, silent, almost completely deserted. No amount of print, no amount of radio comment could portray with such devastating force the apathy of the Democratic delegates to their own convention.

The Democratic convention as a show lacked, of course, all the suspense of the Republican powwow. To some extent this was mitigated by the increased know-how of the television broadcasters. There were some striking shots. The "Life"-N.B.C. team broadcast the Presidential train in Washington, with the President and his family waving from the rear platform; two hours later the network showed the train pulling into Philadelphia in a driving rainstorm, the President getting off and driving through the rain to Convention Hall. There was a long wait before the President got off the train and during this period the cameras prowled the length of that train peering inquisitively into the windows like a Broadway columnist through a keyhole.

The difference between radio and television was best shown in the walkout of the Mississippi and part of the Alabama delegation after the adoption of the civil rights plank in the Democratic platform. A C.B.S. man with a walkie-talkie grabbed the chairman of the delegation, immediately put on the air an angry denunciation of the plank. Minutes later N.B.C.-"Life" grabbed parts of both delegations, hustled them up to its television studios. There each man gave his reasons for the walkout in one or two sentences, then threw his delegate's badge on a table. The camera switched from angry faces to the rapidly mounting pile of badges.

It was a very effective shot and also, like many things done by television, just a little phony. After the broadcast, each delegate searched carefully through the pile for his badge and pinned it right back on.

Late Rally Fails To Save Market From Worst Setback In Two Years

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—A last-minute rally failed to save the stock market from the most crushing setback in nearly two years today.

The decline was the climax of a three-day running retreat that lopped more than $2,000,000,000 from the market value of all shares listed on the exchange.

Individual stocks plunged $1 to $20 a share. Most were $4 or less lower. Volume reached 2,560,000 shares. The market was the broadest on record.

News concerning the Berlin blockade received almost universal credit for the market's break. Weekend dispatches were gloomy and the argument between Moscow and the Western Powers seemed to be already in the crisis stage.

The most noteworthy feature of the market, though, is that it is made up almost entirely of professional security traders. The public, the little fellow who had his pockets turned inside out in the 1929's, isn't playing.

The late revival in demand reduced extreme losses by one to four points.

Still lower by around two points or more were United States Steel 77⅜, Youngstown Sheet 80, General Motors 59½, Chrysler 60¼, Firestone Tire 47, Montgomery Ward 55, Kennecott Copper 55¼, Phelps Dodge Copper 53⅛, American Can 81⅝, General Electric 38⅛, Allied Chemical 188, American Woolen 51⅛, International Paper 57½, Santa Fe 108, Southern Pacific 55⅝, Union Pacific 89, Atlantic Coast Line 56, Standard Oil (NJ) 80⅛, Shelly Oil (off 12) 136.

Superior Oil of California broke 20 points to 199.

Curtiss - Wright staged a little rally of its own, as it did last week. The closing price was one-eighth higher at 11¼.

The bond market was battered down on a wide front in a selling move generated apparently by the severe break in stocks. Brokers had no other reason to assign to the setback, which brought numerous declines of one to around four points, mostly in rails.

The fact that only $5,755,000 of bonds changed hands led brokers to conclude it was the absence of supporting bids rather than urgency of selling that caused the drop.

Foxes Get On Power Circuit

BOULDER, Colo. — (AP) — The mamma foxes at Glenn Crosley's fur farm forced revision of a timetable for construction of a power line west of the city. Crosley asked the Public Service Company of Colorado to delay erection of the new line because his female foxes would be whelping puppies. He said the least commotion might excite the expectant foxes and if they became too excited they might kill the puppies. The utility officials agreed to delay work in the area until the foxes pass their emotional period.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Concert Music To Be Continued On American Network

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 19.—Continuing its Tuesday night 9:30 hour of concert music, ABC for the next four weeks is to come from the Berkshire music festival at Lenox, Mass., nestling in the mountains of the Berkshire.

To start things off in a broadcast way, Dr. Erge Koussevitsky will conduct the Boston symphony's chamber ensemble in an all-Mozart program. Piano soloist is to be Lukas Foss.

Burgess Meredith has agreed to do the lead acting in the Studio One of CBS at 10. The particular production picked is "Spanish Bayonet," by Stephen Vincent Benet. The story is in the pre-Revolution year of 1774, with the scene laid on a plantation in Florida. Burgess will play the part of Andrew Beard, a rich young New Yorker of those days.

America's Town meeting will be stopped at Oakland, Calif., for ABC at 8:30. Argument is to center around the question "Does Military Preparedness Mean Security?"

In the panel will be Admiral R. K. Turner, retired; Vera M. Deane of the Foreign Policy association and Carey McWilliams, author.

The Mel Torme show, now going on instead of the Dinah Shore show on NBC at 8, includes also John Brown, Barbara Eller, Sidney Miller, Dean Eilliot's orchestra. The program is described as a "comedy musical."

Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

Freedom Of Television

The profound impact of television on national conventions will not be fully calculated until 1952 when the next ones take place, when many, many more television sets will be in private homes and when, in all probability, there will be coast-to-coast network transmission. Even this year, when an estimated 10,000,000 persons saw some phase of the conventions by television, politicians took television very much into account.

John Crosby

Buried in the Democratic platform is a pledge to respect freedom in the gathering and dissemination of news by press, radio and television." This is the first time television has elbowed its way into that familiar pledge. (Motion pictures and newsreels were added too.) Clark Clifford, close adviser to President Truman, made an illuminating statement in a television interview over N.B.C. Mr. Truman (who, by the way, is quite a television fan) was largely influenced by television in making his comparatively recent decision to talk extemporaneously from notes rather than from a prepared text. The President, said Clifford, felt that a speaker couldn't "project his personality" via television if his head was constantly bent over a script.

This sort of preoccupation with television carries with it some distressing implications. Politicians could easily become so wrapped up in producing pretty pictures for the home audience that they forget that a convention should concern itself with ideas and issues. This sort of videomania was best exemplified at the Democratic convention by the release in the wee hours of the morning of a swarm of doves from a huge floral Liberty Bell. Television cameras all over the hall immediately deserted President Truman, who had just appeared on the rostrum, and chased the birds, torpid from hours of confinement in the fetid air of the hall, as they wheeled drunkenly into electric fans, delegates, newspaper men and House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn.

Bird lovers throughout the hall departed, muttering that it was inhuman as well as ridiculous. I'm willing to lay plenty of eight to five that this sort of stunt staged for the benefit of the cameras will be repeated, amplified and played to death in '52.

On the other side of the ledger is the fact that speakers will probably edit their oratory sharply. Speeches which are long on radio are even longer—for some reason I don't fully understand—on television. Almost certainly, floor leaders will try to prevent a repitition of the fiasco at Philadelphia on the first day of the convention. On that day, television audiences were informed they were being taken to the Democratic National Convention. On the screen flashed a picture of Convention Hall — huge, silent, almost completely deserted. No amount of print, no amount of radio comment could portray with such devastating force the apathy of the Democratic delegates to their own convention.

The Democratic convention as a show lacked, of course, all the suspense of the Republican powwow. To some extent this was mitigated by the increased know-how of the television broadcasters. There were some striking shots. The "Life"-N.B.C. team broadcast the Presidential train in Washington, with the President and his family waving from the rear platform; two hours later the network showed the train pulling into Philadelphia in a driving rainstorm, the President getting off and driving through the rain to Convention Hall. There was a long wait before the President got off the train and during this period the cameras prowled the length of that train peering inquisitively into the windows like a Broadway columnist through a keyhole.

The difference between radio and television was best shown in the walkout of the Mississippi and part of the Alabama delegation after the adoption of the civil rights plank in the Democratic platform. A C.B.S. man with a walkie-talkie grabbed the chairman of the delegation, immediately put on the air an angry denunciation of the plank. Minutes later N.B.C.-"Life" grabbed parts of both delegations, hustled them up to its television studios. There each man gave his reasons for the walkout in one or two sentences, then threw his delegate's badge on a table. The camera switched from angry faces to the rapidly mounting pile of badges.

It was a very effective shot and also, like many things done by television, just a little phony. After the broadcast, each delegate searched carefully through the pile for his badge and pinned it right back on.

Late Rally Fails To Save Market From Worst Setback In Two Years

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—A last-minute rally failed to save the stock market from the most crushing setback in nearly two years today.

The decline was the climax of a three-day running retreat that lopped more than $2,000,000,000 from the market value of all shares listed on the exchange.

Individual stocks plunged $1 to $20 a share. Most were $4 or less lower. Volume reached 2,560,000 shares. The market was the broadest on record.

News concerning the Berlin blockade received almost universal credit for the market's break. Weekend dispatches were gloomy and the argument between Moscow and the Western Powers seemed to be already in the crisis stage.

The most noteworthy feature of the market, though, is that it is made up almost entirely of professional security traders. The public, the little fellow who had his pockets turned inside out in the 1929's, isn't playing.

The late revival in demand reduced extreme losses by one to four points.

Still lower by around two points or more were United States Steel 77⅝, Youngstown Sheet 80, General Motors 59½, Chrysler 60¼, Firestone Tire 47, Montgomery Ward 55, Kennecott Copper 55¼, Phelps Dodge Copper 53⅛, American Can 81⅝, General Electric 38¼, Allied Chemical 188, American Woolen 51½, International Paper 57½, Santa Fe 108, Southern Pacific 55⅝, Union Pacific 89, Atlantic Coast Line 56, Standard Oil (NJ) 80¼, Shelly Oil (off 12) 136.

Superior Oil of California broke 20 points to 199.

Curtiss-Wright staged a little rally of its own, as it did last week. The closing price was one-eighth higher at 11¼.

The bond market was battered down on a wide front in a selling move generated apparently by the severe break in stocks. Brokers had no other reason to assign to the setback, which brought numerous declines of one to around four points, mostly in rails.

The fact that only $5,755,000 of bonds changed hands led brokers to conclude it was the absence of supporting bids rather than urgency of selling that caused the drop.

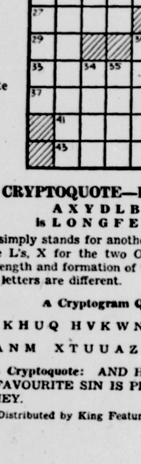
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Foxes Get On Power Circuit

BOULDER, Colo. — (AP) — The mamma foxes at Glenn Crosley's fur farm forced revision of a timetable for construction of a power line west of the city. Crosley asked the Public Service Company of Colorado to delay erection of the new line because his female foxes would be whelping puppies. He said the least commotion might excite the expectant foxes and if they became too excited they might kill the puppies. The utility officials agreed to delay work in the area until the foxes pass their emotional period.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 19—(INS)—They won't make the mistake of keeping Clifton Webb as a baby sitter forever in 20th pictures. Far off that idea is Clifton's next, "The Passing Of the Third Floor Back," the famous old story by Jerome K. Jerome, that has been twice filmed—originally by First National pictures, and later by British Gaumont with Conrad Veidt.

Lucky Luciano

It's the Veidt role that Clifton inherits. In spite of his laugh riot with "Sitting Pretty," this character has spiritual implications—a lonely boarder, living in a cubby-hole on the third floor of a boarding house, who solves the problems of the other roomers.

William Perlberg will produce, and Vera Caspary is writing the script.

As you know, Myrna is going to London to make "The Case of Lady Brook," which Gene adapted.

The opening of the Del Mar racetrack, July 27, is going to look like Hollywood transplanted.

The colorful little track, where "the turf meets the surf," once owned by Bing Crosby and his pals, is now back under Hollywood control since Joe Schenck bought it a few months ago.

Cheering their nags from the grandstand opening day will be Alan Ladd, Sue Carol, Mickey Rooney, Lou Costello and Betty Grable.

Johnny Weissmuller has a sense of humor. He signed a paper giving his permission for the emoting goldfish in "The Lucky Stiff" to be called "Johnny Weissmuller" in the picture.

The goldfish's real name is Willie, the goldfish—and can I help it that press agents give out stories that he actually emotes in his bowl? The gag is that he stole two scenes from Brian Donlevy the other day!

Hollywood in shorts: Sheila Ryan, recently unshackled from Eddie Norris, is being seen around with Steve Brodie, the ex-Lois Andrews Brodie, we mean.

Hedy Lamarr back in New York denying that she will make a picture for Bob and Eugene Frenke. She's heading straight for Hollywood to star in "Samson and Delilah" for Cecil B. DeMille.

Lucky Luciano, former lottery king and underworld character, has turned art collector and bought a rural courthouse scene, done by Mrs. Edward G. Robinson. Sidelight on this is that Edward G. Robinson's character in "Key Largo" is whispered to be based on Lucky Luciano.

Dennis Morgan seems to be the next up for suspension at Warner Brothers. He very definitely doesn't want to do any more of the "two guys" pictures.

I thought the Steve Cochrans had definitely separated, but anyway, they are appearing opposite each other in "Voice Of the Turtle" on one of the summer circuits.

Gary Cooper comes back to Hollywood ten pounds thinner after a hectic three days shooting scenes in a granite quarry in Fresno for "The Fountainhead." The thermometer kept at a steady 110 degrees all the time he was up three, and the quarry registered 126. Gary, who is already lean and gaunt, is considerably leaner and gaunter.

Speaking of that picture, Patricia Neal wears the sheerest nightgown ever worn on the screen, but the Johnson office needn't worry. She wears "tights" from her neck to her toes.

That's all today.

The "interphone" system aboard early steamboats was tapping a cane on the floor of the pilot house—one stroke for starting, two for backing.

Baked Sherry

Good cooks know that sherry is used in baking numerous food delicacies, but few cooks know that baking is a stage in making sherry, says one expert. This type of wine is matured in hot rooms or stored in casks subjected to the direct rays of the sun.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 19—(INS)—They won't make the mistake of keeping Clifton Webb as a baby sitter forever in 20th pictures. Far off that idea is Clifton's next, "The Passing Of the Third Floor Back," the famous old story by Jerome K. Jerome, that has been twice filmed—originally by First National pictures, and later by British Gaumont with Conrad Veidt.

Lucky Luciano

It's the Veidt role that Clifton inherits. In spite of his laugh riot with "Sitting Pretty," this character has spiritual implications—a lonely boarder, living in a cubby-hole on the third floor of a boarding house, who solves the problems of the other roomers.

William Perlberg will produce, and Vera Caspary is writing the script.

That Myrna Loy is a smart one! She has been taking French lessons for the past six months, because she wants to do her gossiping and shopping in Paris in the native tongue.

Myrna and Gene Markey leave today in such a hurry to get to Europe, that they'll stop in New York just long enough to change planes.

As you know, Myrna is going to London to make "The Case of Lady Brook," which Gene adapted.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward McMahon

J. Edward McMahon Weds Miss Rosemary Kesler

Ceremony Performed In St. Mary's Church

Miss Rosemary Kesler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Kesler, 911 Louisiana Avenue, became the bride of J. Edward McMahon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. McMahon, 521 Patterson Avenue, yesterday.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at a nuptial mass at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic Church, with Rev. George Hopkins officiating. Bouquets of assorted white flowers and candelabra of tall white tapers decorated the altar. The nuptial music was played by the church organist.

Mrs. Frances Miglio was her sister's matron of honor and James W. McMahon served as his brother's best man.

The bride wore a powder blue crepe, street length dress featuring a bustle and three-quarter length sleeves. With it she wore a matching blue picture hat and carried a white prayerbook with orchid marker and shower of satin ribbons.

Her matron of honor wore a beige costume with brown and white accessories and carried a nosegay of pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's High School and is employed as an operator by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The bridegroom is a graduate of LaSalle High School and a veteran of three years service in the Army, of which most time was spent in the European Theater of Operations. He now is employed as manager in the Children's department of the Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company.

Mrs. Glenn Irwin, sister of the bride, entertained the bridal party and members of the immediate families at a wedding breakfast at her home, 612 Elwood Street, immediately following the ceremony. She was assisted in serving by her cousin, Mrs. Margaret Barrow, Paw Paw, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Kesler were hosts at a wedding reception honoring their daughter and her bridal party at their home during the afternoon. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations with bouquets of white flowers and the tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Ella Twigg, Mrs. Juanita Loundy and Mrs. Barrow assisted in serving.

For traveling the bride chose an aqua marine colored suit, with brown and white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Lloyd O. Barnes, Star Route, Flintstone, arrested July 4 at Green Ridge by Trooper A. M. Spioch, forfeited $10 bond on a charge of reckless driving.

Lloyd L. Arnold, this city, arrested last Sunday by Trooper Spioch, forfeited $3.45 bond on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a muffler.

Pfister admitted that he failed to give a hand signal before making a left hand turn from the highway. McDuffie's wife was bruised in the crash and damage to the vehicle was considered minor. State Trooper Paul T. Long investigated.

Paul H. Shaffer, 163 Bedford Street, forfeited $6.45 bond for operating a motor vehicle with a spotlight when arrested Thursday on Route 36 at Corriganville. Bruce F. Sneathen, 35 Mullin Street, forfeited the same amount for driving without tags.

Two Are Fined As Result Of Blaze

Bessie Decker and John W. Hudson, both of 629 Henderson Avenue, were sentenced in Police Court yesterday on disorderly conduct charges preferred when the Decker woman reportedly set fire to a building behind her home.

The Decker woman received a suspended sentence and Hudson was fined $5. They were released after being questioned at the State's Attorney's office.

Central and East Side Fire companies were called to the blaze when Lt. James E. Van found the building afire after Philip Shrewbridge reported seeing smoke at the site.

Witnesses said the Decker woman returned home about 2 a. m. and engaged in an argument with Hudson, a boarder, who said she threatened him with a butcher knife. The woman broke several pieces of furniture, police said, and then started the fire, which did extensive damage.

Harry Rowe, 324 Reservoir Avenue, was found not guilty on a disorderly conduct charge preferred by Mrs. James Thompson, 320 Reservoir Avenue. Police said the complaint resulted from a neighborhood quarrel.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl Is Advised To Forget This Boy Friend And Stop Sitting At Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very much in love with a boy my own age, which is 23. We have seen each other every night since November until about three weeks ago, when he told me he would like to go out with the boys more often.

He says he still loves me as much as ever and doesn't want me to go out with anybody else. He calls me up nearly every day and tells me what he did the night before. He hasn't gone out with any other girl but he has only taken me out once a week.

I love him very much and sometimes it is very hard not to beg him to come back to me. Should I go out with other fellows even if I don't enjoy myself and perhaps stand a chance of losing him altogether? Or should I go on as I am?

"LONELY"

Dear "Lonely":

I can't see that you are going to get anywhere at all by sitting home alone every night while your boy friend is out enjoying himself. This seems to me very silly, no matter how much you think of him.

Of course, you both made a mistake in shutting out all other companionship for so long and staying by yourselves all the time. Unless that kind of concentrated companionship leads into marriage very soon, there is always a chance that one or the other may get fed up.

Your best plan now is to go out with other friends and try to enjoy yourself as much as your boy friend seems to be doing. It will do you no good whatever to "beg him to come back" because, unless he does so of his own accord, it is not going to help matters at all. It doesn't sound to me as though it'd be much loss if you did lose him, anyway.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl Is Advised To Forget This Boy Friend And Stop Sitting At Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very much in love with a boy my own age, which is 23. We have seen each other every night since November until about three weeks ago, when he told me he would like to go out with the boys more often.

He says he still loves me as much as ever and doesn't want me to go out with anybody else. He calls me up nearly every day and tells me what he did the night before. He hasn't gone out with any other girl but he has only taken me out once a week.

I love him very much and sometimes it is very hard not to beg him to come back to me. Should I go out with other fellows even if I don't enjoy myself and perhaps stand a chance of losing him altogether? Or should I go on as I am?

"LONELY"

Dear "Lonely":

I can't see that you are going to get anywhere at all by sitting home alone every night while your boy friend is out enjoying himself. This seems to me very silly, no matter how much you think of him.

Of course, you both made a mistake in shutting out all other companionship for so long and staying by yourselves all the time. Unless that kind of concentrated companionship leads into marriage very soon, there is always a chance that one or the other may get fed up.

Your best plan now is to go out with other friends and try to enjoy yourself as much as your boy friend seems to be doing. It will do you no good whatever to "beg him to come back" because, unless he does so of his own accord, it is not going to help matters at all. It doesn't sound to me as though it'd be much loss if you did lose him, anyway.

Get Corley From Bills For Marshall Shurnas

BALTIMORE, July 19. — (AP) — A last-minute trade before its training camp train left tonight for Sun Valley, Idaho, was announced today by the Baltimore Colts of the All-America Conference.

The Colts traded Marshall Shurnas, an end, for center Elbert Corley of the Buffalo Bills. Shurnas was assigned to the Colts by the Cleveland Browns.

Corley is the fourth center the Colts will take to their training camp. The six-foot, 220-pounder was regular snapper-back for Buffalo last season. He came up to the pros from Mississippi State.

The Baltimore training camp train left tonight with 13 players on board. It will pick up more as the train heads west and deposit 57 in Sun Valley.

Stymie Gets Topweight In Monmouth Handicap

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., July 20 (AP)—Racing's top money winner, Stymie, has been assigned topweight of 129 pounds for next Saturday's renewal of the $25,000 Monmouth Handicap. Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' prize bargain claim, hot on the trail of the turf's first million dollar bankroll, is asked to concede 46 rivals from 5 to 29 pounds, a formidable assignment over the mile and a quarter run.

Rated five pounds away is R. N. Ryan's Talon, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, but a very doubtful starter. At the 120 mark are W. L. Brann's Gallorette, queen of the thoroughbreds, and James V. Tigani's Double Jay.

Phillies Defeat Cubs In Rubber Game Of Series

Leonard Cops 9th, 5-4; Pafko Hits 16th Homer

CHICAGO, July 19. (AP)—Emil "Dutch" Leonard was raked for 11 hits by the Chicago Cubs here today. However, he managed to stagger through with the Philadelphia Phillies for a 5-4 victory that gave the invaders the rubber tilt of the three-game series.

Timely hitting paid off for the Phillies, who used all save one of their eight hits for run production. They routed Doyle Lade with four runs on six hits in the fifth and paired a couple more for their final tally in the eighth when Ralph Caballero singled and Johnny Blatnik doubled for the decisive marker.

Andy Pafko pounded out his 16th homer for the Cubs. It was Leonard's ninth win and the initial loss for Lade, who started for the first time since being recalled from Los Angeles a week ago. Box:

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—Madison Square Garden's new $150,000 floor is now completed, and Kid Gavilan and Roman Alvarez will battle Thursday night to see which 10-round main eventer will be the first to hit it.

Gavilan, Havana welter weight contender, and Alvarez, hard-charging Brooklynite, were to have fought last week, but their bout was postponed because the floor project was unfinished.

Get Corley From Bills For Marshall Shurnas

BALTIMORE, July 19. — (AP) — A last-minute trade before its training camp train left tonight for Sun Valley, Idaho, was announced today by the Baltimore Colts of the All-America Conference.

The Colts traded Marshall Shurnas, an end, for center Elbert Corley of the Buffalo Bills. Shurnas was assigned to the Colts by the Cleveland Browns.

Corley is the fourth center the Colts will take to their training camp. The six-foot, 220-pounder was regular snapper-back for Buffalo last season. He came up to the pros from Mississippi State.

The Baltimore training camp train left tonight with 13 players on board. It will pick up more as the train heads west and deposit 57 in Sun Valley.

Hendryk Hudson's ship was named the Half Moon.

Stymie Gets Topweight In Monmouth Handicap

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., July 20 (AP)—Racing's top money winner, Stymie, has been assigned topweight of 129 pounds for next Saturday's renewal of the $25,000 Monmouth Handicap. Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' prize bargain claim, hot on the trail of the turf's first million dollar bankroll, is asked to concede 46 rivals from 5 to 29 pounds, a formidable assignment over the mile and a quarter run.

Rated five pounds away is R. N. Ryan's Talon, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, but a very doubtful starter. At the 120 mark are W. L. Brann's Gallorette, queen of the thoroughbreds, and James V. Tigani's Double Jay.

Paul Dean To Scout

ST. LOUIS, July 19 (INS)—Paul Dean, of the famed "Me and Paul" unit with his brother Dizzy Dean, was signed today as a member of the St. Louis Browns scouting staff. Dean's territory will include Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma.

Phillies Defeat Cubs In Rubber Game Of Series

Leonard Cops 9th, 5-4; Pafko Hits 16th Homer

CHICAGO, July 19. (AP)—Emil "Dutch" Leonard was raked for 11 hits by the Chicago Cubs here today. However, he managed to stagger through with the Philadelphia Phillies for a 5-4 victory that gave the invaders the rubber tilt of the three-game series.

Timely hitting paid off for the Phillies, who used all save one of their eight hits for run production. They routed Doyle Lade with four runs on six hits in the fifth and paired a couple more for their final tally in the eighth when Ralph Caballero singled and Johnny Blatnik doubled for the decisive marker.

Andy Pafko pounded out his 16th homer for the Cubs. It was Leonard's ninth win and the initial loss for Lade, who started for the first time since being recalled from Los Angeles a week ago. Box:

Fight Is Rescheduled

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—Madison Square Garden's new $150,000 floor is now completed, and Kid Gavilan and Roman Alvarez will battle Thursday night to see which 10-round main eventer will be the first to hit it.

Gavilan, Havana welterweight contender, and Alvarez, hard-charging Brooklynite, were to have fought last week, but their bout was postponed because the floor project was unfinished.

Two Features Mark Opening Program At Fairgo Today

Farrady Post Wins, 5-3 To Take Eastern Title

Stevens' 2-Run Homer Tops Fort Cumberland

Darrell Stevens' three-run homer in the 6th inning enabled Farrady Post of Frostburg to come from behind and defeat Fort Cumberland Post by the score of 5-3 yesterday at Stitcher Field to give the Mountain City tossers the championship of the eastern division of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League.

By winning Frostburg gained the right to play James P. Love Post of Lonaconing, undefeated western division champions, for the league title.

Jenkins Tosses 4-Hitter

Jenkins pitched a four-hitter for Frostburg and struck out eight batsmen in twirling Manager Paul Stewart's aggregation into the finals. Frostburg will play 'Coney in a single game for league honors, probably Wednesday, and the champions will face Hagerstown in a best-of-three-games series for the Western Maryland title.

Cumberland scored all its runs in the third inning when Stevenson and Bruce walked, scored on Glen Burke's triple and the latter came home on Jim Eckard's base wallop.

Frostburg registered twice in the 5th when Jenkins singled, Brady walked, Dawson hit safely and two runners scored when Matese was safe on an error.

Pull Triple Play

The game had a thrilling finish when Cumberland filled the bases and "Gabby" Birmingham hit into a triple play executed by Brady, Duncan and Matese.

Duncan, Lancaster and Jenkins shared six of Frostburg's nine hits while Eckard obtained two of the four yielded by Jenkins. The fielding stars were Brady and Duncan of Frostburg and Bruce and Cage of the locals. Box:

Snead's 63 Leads In West Virginia

Sammy's 7-Under-Par For Opening Round

WHEELING, W. Va., July 19 (AP)—The golfing mastery of Sammy Snead brought the White Sulphur Springs belter a seven-under-par 63 today to send him far into the lead at the end of 18 holes of the 16th annual State Open Golf Tournament.

Five strokes back in the field of 92 was another professional, young Robert H. Hillis of Weirton, with a 68. Three other pros and amateur Henry E. McCoy of Sistersville were bracketed in a third-place deadlock with 70's.

Snead's blazing round equalled the Wheeling Country Club course record set several years ago by Tom Bloch, Wheeling tobacco manufacturer. So completely did Snead outclass the rest of the field that observers were wondering tonight just how far ahead he would be at the finish.

The sensational play of the long-hitting Sammy, who won $13 the last time he competed in a tournament over this course in 1936, just as he was starting his climb to fame, even overshadowed a hole-in-one scored by Clem Weichman, professional from Logan.

Weichman, the only four-time winner of the open, got his ace with a No. 4 iron on the 162-yard 14th hole. An erratic game over the rest of the course, however, left him with a 72.

Mrs. Ralph Higgins Retains Net Title

Beats Louise Wilson In Dingle Finals

Mrs. Ralph Higgins retains her Dingle tennis championship for this year by her victory yesterday evening on the Dingle courts over Louise Wilson in the finals, 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Wilson made a good showing against an outstanding player who won the three local tournaments last year; the Dingle, city and county tournaments.

The annual City tennis tournament this year starts the coming weekend, on local courts, with men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles. Entries should be made before Friday evening for this tournament to L. E. Van Sant, the Dingle courts; Gordon Bowie, the Country Club, or Joe Garlitz, Garlitz Recreation courts.

Barton Player Hurt In Semi-Pro Tourney

BARTON — Elwood "Woody" Symons, Barton's third baseman is improving at his home following an accident Sunday in the game between Lonaconing and Barton played at Westernport in the Maryland Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament.

Symons was going to second on a double play ball when Lonaconing's second baseman started to throw the ball to first base after making the first out, hitting Symons and knocking him unconscious.

He was taken to the office of Dr. James H. Wolverton where an X-ray was made.

He played the outfield last year but has been playing third during the current season.

Vic Raschi of the Yankees snapped a 10-game Philadelphia Athletic streak and then stopped the A's after eight straight this spring.

Westernport Is Host To All-Star Contest

Memorial Park, Westernport, will be the scene of the game between all-star teams of the Bi-State and Interstate baseball leagues on Wednesday, August 4, at 5:15 p. m., it was decided last night at a meeting of officials of both circuits at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Clarence Fisher of Moorefield will be the manager of the Interstate team with Bill Bracey of Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, as his assistant. Lawrence McKenzie, Bi-State manager, will select his own assistant.

The Interstate League managers will pick their all-star team at a meeting to be held Monday, July 26 at 7:30 p. m. at the Moose Home.

Narrows Park Trims Phone Workers, 12-3

Narrows Park trounced the Phone Workers in a County Softball League game yesterday at the Park by the score of 12-3. Mattingly limited C. & P. to five hits while his teammates racked up a total of 11. Ken Troutman with a homer, double and single and Bobby Mattingly with a three-bagger and two singles led the Park attack.

A league meeting will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Corriganville Legion Home to discuss several protests and make final arrangements for the league dance. Score:

NARROWS PARK ... 200 123 4—12 11 0
PHONE WORKERS .. 000 020 1— 3 5 2

Mattingly and Schoenadel. Evans, Diamond (5) and Crabtree.

Tommy Henrich's recent grand slam homer against the Athletics was his second with the bases loaded this season.

Score Seven In First, Ryan Hurls 5-Hitter

Westvaco scored its third straight victory in the Maryland Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament yesterday by defeating the Cumberland Amvets at Memorial Park, Westernport, by the score of 9-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Leo Ryan.

The Papermakers sewed up the game in the first inning when they drove Art "Lefty" Donata to cover and continued their attack on Bobby Blair to chalk up a total of seven runs. Blair pitched shutout ball for the next seven innings and yielded two more tallies in the 9th.

Blast Donata Out Quickly

Eleven Westvaco players stepped to the plate in the big first inning and Forrest High and Pete Deremer each had two turns at bat during the merry-go-round. High singled on both appearances.

High opened the game with a single and went to second on Deremer's hit. After Tysinger forced High at third, Joe Inskeep hit safely to fill the bases. Mosser was safe on a bad throw to first by Gerdeman and Deremer raced home. Robertson walked, forcing Tysinger over the plate. Inskeep and Mosser scored on Elmer Marsh's hit to center and Blair replaced Donata on the mound. McProuty greeted the new pitcher with a single which scored Robertson. After Ryan fanned High scored Marsh and McProuty with a timely bingle. Deremer grounded out to end the rally.

Drew Cut Down At Plate

In the 4th Lou Riehl obtained the first hit off Ryan. Drew was safe on an error by Deremer and when the latter committed another fielding bobble on Strauss' grounder Riehl scampered home. Scarpelli hit to center to load the bases with none out. Joe Geatz flied to Inskeep and the latter's throw cut down Drew at the plate to complete a double play. Summers grounded out to end the inning.

In the 7th Scarpelli got two bases on Mosser's muff, took third on Geatz's infield out and came home when Summers singled over third base.

Inskeep's triple after High had singled and Tysinger walked netted Westvaco two runs in the final stanza.

The defeat was the first in two tourney starts for the Amvets.

Today at 2:30 p. m., Westvaco (3-0) will play Fort Cumberland Post of Cumberland (0-1) while at 5 p. m. the Amvets (1-1) will cross bats with the Lonaconing Republican Club (2-1). Two defeats eliminate a team from the tourney. The box:

Pittsburgh Beats Sain, Boston Ace, In 1-0 Slab Duel

Murtaugh's Hit Gives Ostermueller Verdict

PITTSBURGH, July 19 (AP)—Danny Murtaugh's infield single off the glove of pitcher Johnny Sain in the seventh, scoring Ralph Kiner from third, broke a scoreless tie to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 1-0 victory over the Boston Braves tonight. Aged Fritz Ostermueller scattered seven hits in getting credit for the shutout, his sixth victory of the season.

The victory over the league-leading Braves and their mound ace Sain broke a four-game losing streak for the Pirates.

The Pirates got to Sain for 10 hits but could bunch them only in the seventh when three singles and a long fly drove Kiner across with the only tally of the game.

Kiner got on with a single, went to second on Dixie Walker's safety, to third on a deep fly by Eddie Stevens and home on Murtaugh's scratch hit.

Amvets, Little Trophies Offered To The Winners

24th Meeting Gets Under Way At 2:30

Cumberland's twenty-fourth annual race meeting opens today at 2:30 o'clock, E.D.T., at the Cumberland Fair Association's half mile oval at Fairgo.

Opening day has been designated as Amvets' Day and the Amvets' Trophy, donated by J. Louis Wolford Post of this city, will be presented to the owner of the horse winning the 4th race on the card.

The S. T. Little Jewelry Company trophy will go to the owner of the winner in the Duncan R. Sloan Memorial, 5th event on the program.

During the 10-day session which closes Saturday, July 31, a total of $82,000 in purses has been offered the horsemen in 80 races, representing an all-time high for the course which opened in 1925 with five days of racing and held its first meeting of ten days in 1935.

The top races this year—Harry A. Manley Memorial Handicap and the Clifton W. White Handicap—will carry $1,500 purses. The Manley is set for Saturday, July 24, while the White will be run on Cumberland Day, Wednesday, July 28. Five features will have a value of $1,200 while the remaining 73 races will carry $1,000 purses.

Races And Fair Separated

The 23 meets held here in the past were staged in conjunction with the fair but this year the two have been separated and the fair and agricultural and livestock exhibits, carnival, stage revue, horse show and harness races will not be held until September.

Matthias C. Shea, will fill the role of racing secretary, has close to 500 horses from which to select his daily cards and Broadway Eddie Morgan, custodian of the jockeys' room expects approximately 100 riders to be present, including Freddie Kratz, Sammy Palumbo, Patsy Grant and Johnny Tammaro, who were the top riders at Charles Town. Palumbo and Tammaro have headed the jockeys at local meetings of the past while Kratz, a former steeplechase star, who piloted 37 winners at the recent Charles Town meeting, will be making his bow at Fairgo.

Shea, incidentally, is Cumberland's third racing secretary. Eddie Brennan, now general manager of Monmouth Park, held the post here for 21 years—1925 through 1945. William M. Shewbridge was here in 1946 and John P. Turner, Jr., served in 1947. The latter is now secretary at Monmouth Park. "Ty" served under Brennan here until 1943 and returns to Fairgo after an absence of five years.

Langford Has Crew Of 100

Jimmy Langford, director of wagering, arrived yesterday. His parimutuel crew will comprise approximately 100 men—49 sellers and 50 cashiers.

Daily double wagering will be on the first and second races each day. Those desiring to bet on the "double" must get out to the track early as the windows will be closed at 2:15, or fifteen minutes before the opening race gets under way.

New Camera To Be Used

For the first time the Jack Thomas High Speed Electrical Camera will be used to photograph all finishes. It was used during the 43 days' sport at Charles Town and those who saw it agree that it is one of the quickest as well as the most accurate machines to come to racing in years. Eddie Fitzpatrick, formerly of the Baltimore Sunpapers staff, will operate the camera.

Another newcomer to the local track is Eddie Blind, the official starter, who serves in a similar capacity at six other tracks in Maryland. A native of Canada, Blind made his Maryland debut at Bel Air last year. He replaces Bill Schamerhorn who is now at Monmouth Park, Oceanport, N. J. The Puett electrical starting gate will again be used to dispatch all fields. The same gate will be in use at all Maryland tracks under a mile this year.

Trophies Are Offered

As in past years a trophy will go to the leading winner rider as well as the trainer saddling the most winners. Charles E. Wheeler of Hanover, Pa., top trainer here in 1947, is back with a string of six thoroughbreds and Eddie Carrillo, who paced the jockeys last August, will be trying to repeat.

A total of twelve trophies will be offered in as many feature events this week.

Other Officials Listed

Officials in addition to those already mentioned include: Joseph F. Flanagan, A. Charles Stewart and Herman P. Conklin, stewards; Roy C. "Happy" Gordon, Edward Dennison and James P. Ross, Jr., patrol judges; J. Fred Colwell, Henry Carroll and Eugene T. Gunning, placing judges; Henry Erickson, clerk of the scales with August Ababie as assistant, and William Jennings, paddock judge. The outriders will be Joseph Day and "Scotty" Prain.

New York Giants Trounce Redlegs

Thomson, Cooper Hit Homers In 14-2 Rout

CINCINNATI, July 19 (AP)—Leo Durocher's New York Giants hammered three Cincinnati pitchers for 18 hits today to smother the Reds, 14-2, behind Larry Jansen's steady seven-hit pitching.

Placing Willard Marshall between the slow-moving Johnny Mize and Walker Cooper to avoid the possibility of double plays, Durocher had the Giants taking chance on the bases. Four bases were stolen—one by Mize.

Home runs by Bobby Thomson, who drove in five runs with three hits, and Walker Cooper, each with two men on base, gave the Giants a substantial early lead.

Leo made only one appearance on the field—to argue that a pitched ball hit Thomson in the third. He was subsequently booed by the 3,841 spectators. Box:

Two Features Mark Opening Program At Fairgo Today

Farrady Post Wins, 5-3 To Take Eastern Title

Stevens' 2-Run Homer Tops Fort Cumberland

Darrell Stevens' three-run homer in the 6th inning enabled Farrady Post of Frostburg to come from behind and defeat Fort Cumberland Post by the score of 5-3 yesterday at Stitcher Field to give the Mountain City tossers the championship of the eastern division of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League.

By winning Frostburg gained the right to play James P. Love Post of Lonaconing, undefeated western division champions, for the league title.

Jenkins Tosses 4-Hitter

Jenkins pitched a four-hitter for Frostburg and struck out eight batsmen in twirling Manager Paul Stewart's aggregation into the finals. Frostburg will play Coney in a single game for league honors, probably Wednesday, and the champions will face Hagerstown in a best-of-three-games series for the Western Maryland title.

Cumberland scored all its runs in the third inning when Stevenson and Bruce walked, scored on Glen Burke's triple and the latter came home on Jim Eckard's base wallop.

Frostburg registered twice in the 5th when Jenkins singled, Brady walked, Dawson hit safely and two runners scored when Matese was safe on an error.

Pull Triple Play

The game had a thrilling finish when Cumberland filled the bases and "Gabby" Birmingham hit into a triple play executed by Brady, Duncan and Matese.

Duncan, Lancaster and Jenkins shared six of Frostburg's nine hits while Eckard obtained two of the four yielded by Jenkins. The fielding stars were Brady and Duncan of Frostburg and Bruce and Cage of the locals. Box:

Snead's 63 Leads In West Virginia

Sammy's 7-Under-Par For Opening Round

WHEELING, W. Va., July 19 (AP)—The golfing mastery of Sammy Snead brought the White Sulphur Springs belter a seven-under-par 63 today to send him far into the lead at the end of 18 holes of the 16th annual State Open Golf Tournament.

Five strokes back in the field of 92 was another professional, young Robert H. Hillis of Weirton, with a 68. Three other pros and amateur Henry E. McCoy of Sistersville were bracketed in a third-place deadlock with 70's.

Snead's blazing round equalled the Wheeling Country Club course record set several years ago by Tom Bloch, Wheeling tobacco manufacturer. So completely did Snead outclass the rest of the field that observers were wondering tonight just how far ahead he would be at the finish.

The sensational play of the long-hitting Sammy, who won $13 the last time he competed in a tournament over this course in 1936, just as he was starting his climb to fame, even overshadowed a hole-in-one scored by Clem Weichman, professional from Logan.

Weichman, the only four-time winner of the open, got his ace with a No. 4 iron on the 162-yard 14th hole. An erratic game over the rest of the course, however, left him with a 72.

Beats Louise Wilson In Dingle Finals

Mrs. Ralph Higgins retains her Dingle tennis championship for this year by her victory yesterday evening on the Dingle courts over Louise Wilson in the finals, 6-4, 6-1.

Entries should be made before Friday evening for this tournament to L. E. Van Sant, the Dingle courts; Gordon Bowie, the Country Club, or Joe Garlitz, Garlitz Recreation courts.

Barton Player Hurt In Semi-Pro Tourney

BARTON — Elwood "Woody" Symons, Barton's third baseman is improving at his home following an accident Sunday in the game between Lonaconing and Barton played at Westernport in the Maryland Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament.

Symons was going to second on a double play ball when Lonaconing's second baseman started to throw the ball to first base after making the first out, hitting Symons and knocking him unconscious.

He was taken to the office of Dr. James H. Wolverton where an X-ray was made.

He played the outfield last year but has been playing third during the current season.

Vic Raschi of the Yankees snapped a 10-game Philadelphia Athletic streak and then stopped the A's after eight straight this spring.

Score Seven In First, Ryan Hurls 5-Hitter

Westvaco scored its third straight victory in the Maryland Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament yesterday by defeating the Cumberland Amvets at Memorial Park, Westernport, by the score of 9-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Leo Ryan.

The Papermakers sewed up the game in the first inning when they drove Art "Lefty" Donata to cover and continued their attack on Bobby Blair to chalk up a total of seven runs. Blair pitched shutout ball for the next seven innings and yielded two more tallies in the 9th.

Blast Donata Out Quickly

Eleven Westvaco players stepped to the plate in the big first inning and Forrest High and Pete Deremer each had two turns at bat during the merry-go-round. High singled on both appearances.

High opened the game with a single and went to second on Deremer's hit. After Tysinger forced High at third, Joe Inskeep hit safely to fill the bases. Mosser was safe on a bad throw to first by Gerdeman and Deremer raced home. Robertson walked, forcing Tysinger over the plate. Inskeep and Mosser scored on Elmer Marsh's hit to center and Blair replaced Donata on the mound. McProuty greeted the new pitcher with a single which scored Robertson. After Ryan fanned High scored Marsh and McProuty with a timely bingle. Deremer grounded out to end the rally.

Drew Cut Down At Plate

In the 4th Lou Riehl obtained the first hit off Ryan. Drew was safe on an error by Deremer and when the latter committed another fielding bobble on Strauss' grounder Riehl scampered home. Scarpelli hit to center to load the bases with none out. Joe Geatz flied to Inskeep and the latter's throw cut down Drew at the plate to complete a double play. Summers grounded out to end the inning.

In the 7th Scarpelli got two bases on Mosser's muff, took third on Geatz's infield out and came home when Summers singled over third base.

Inskeep's triple after High had singled and Tysinger walked netted Westvaco two runs in the final stanza.

Two Games Carded Today

Today at 2:30 p. m., Westvaco (3-0) will play Fort Cumberland Post of Cumberland (0-1) while at 5 p. m. the Amvets (1-1) will cross bats with the Lonaconing Republican Club (2-1). Two defeats eliminate a team from the tourney. The box:

Pittsburgh Beats Sain, Boston Ace, In 1-0 Slab Duel

Murtaugh's Hit Gives Ostermueller Verdict

PITTSBURGH, July 19 (AP)—Danny Murtaugh's infield single off the glove of pitcher Johnny Sain in the seventh, scoring Ralph Kiner from third, broke a scoreless tie to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 1-0 victory over the Boston Braves tonight. Aged Fritz Ostermueller scattered seven hits in getting credit for the shutout, his sixth victory of the season.

The victory over the league-leading Braves and their mound ace Sain broke a four-game losing streak for the Pirates.

The Pirates got to Sain for 10 hits but could bunch them only in the seventh when three singles and a long fly drove Kiner across with the only tally of the game.

Kiner got on with a single, went to second on Dixie Walker's safety, to third on a deep fly by Eddie Stevens and home on Murtaugh's scratch hit.

Amvets, Little Trophies Offered To The Winners

24th Meeting Gets Under Way At 2:30

Cumberland's twenty-fourth annual race meeting opens today at 2:30 o'clock, E.D.T., at the Cumberland Fair Association's half mile oval at Fairgo.

Opening day has been designated as Amvets' Day and the Amvets' Trophy, donated by J. Louis Wolford Post of this city, will be presented to the owner of the horse winning the 4th race on the card.

The S. T. Little Jewelry Company trophy will go to the owner of the winner in the Duncan R. Sloan Memorial, 5th event on the program.

During the 10-day session which closes Saturday, July 31, a total of $82,000 in purses has been offered the horsemen in 80 races, representing an all-time high for the course which opened in 1925 with five days of racing and held its first meeting of ten days in 1935.

The top races this year—Harry A. Manley Memorial Handicap and the Clifton W. White Handicap—will carry $1,500 purses. The Manley is set for Saturday, July 24, while the White will be run on Cumberland Day, Wednesday, July 28. Five features will have a value of $1,200 while the remaining 73 races will carry $1,000 purses.

Races And Fair Separated

The 23 meets held here in the past were staged in conjunction with the fair but this year the two have been separated and the fair and agricultural and livestock exhibits, carnival, stage revue, horse show and harness races will not be held until September.

Matthias C. Shea, will fill the role of racing secretary, has close to 500 horses from which to select his daily cards and Broadway Eddie Morgan, custodian of the jockeys' room expects approximately 100 riders to be present, including Freddie Kratz, Sammy Palumbo, Patsy Grant and Johnny Tammaro, who were the top riders at Charles Town. Palumbo and Tammaro have headed the jockeys at local meetings of the past while Kratz, a former steeplechase star, who piloted 37 winners at the recent Charles Town meeting, will be making his bow at Fairgo.

Shea, incidentally, is Cumberland's third racing secretary. Eddie Brennan, now general manager of Monmouth Park, held the post here for 21 years—1925 through 1945. William M. Shewbridge was here in 1946 and John P. Turner, Jr., served in 1947. The latter is now secretary at Monmouth Park. "Ty" served under Brennan here until 1943 and returns to Fairgo after an absence of five years.

Langford Has Crew Of 100

Jimmy Langford, director of wagering, arrived yesterday. His parimutuel crew will comprise approximately 100 men—49 sellers and 50 cashiers.

Daily double wagering will be on the first and second races each day. Those desiring to bet on the "double" must get out to the track early as the windows will be closed at 2:15, or fifteen minutes before the opening race gets under way.

New Camera To Be Used

For the first time the Jack Thomas High Speed Electrical Camera will be used to photograph all finishes. It was used during the 43 days' sport at Charles Town and those who saw it agree that it is one of the quickest as well as the most accurate machines to come to racing in years. Eddie Fitzpatrick, formerly of the Baltimore Sunpapers staff, will operate the camera.

Another newcomer to the local track is Eddie Blind, the official starter, who serves in a similar capacity at six other tracks in Maryland. A native of Canada, Blind made his Maryland debut at Bel Air last year. He replaces Bill Schamerhorn who is now at Monmouth Park, Oceanport, N. J. The Puett electrical starting gate will again be used to dispatch all fields. The same gate will be in use at all Maryland tracks under a mile this year.

Trophies Are Offered

As in past years a trophy will go to the leading winner rider as well as the trainer saddling the most winners. Charles E. Wheeler of Hanover, Pa., top trainer here in 1947, is back with a string of six thoroughbreds and Eddie Carrillo, who paced the jockeys last August, will be trying to repeat.

A total of twelve trophies will be offered in as many feature events this week.

Other Officials Listed

Officials in addition to those already mentioned include: Joseph F. Flanagan, A. Charles Stewart and Herman P. Conklin, stewards; Roy C. "Happy" Gordon, Edward Dennison and James P. Ross, Jr., patrol judges; J. Fred Colwell, Henry Carroll and Eugene T. Gunning, placing judges; Henry Erickson, clerk of the scales with August Ababie as assistant, and William Jennings, paddock judge. The outriders will be Joseph Day and "Scotty" Prain.

New York Giants Trounce Redlegs

Thomson, Cooper Hit Homers In 14-2 Rout

CINCINNATI, July 19 (AP)—Leo Durocher's New York Giants hammered three Cincinnati pitchers for 18 hits today to smother the Reds, 14-2, behind Larry Jansen's steady seven-hit pitching.

Placing Willard Marshall between the slow-moving Johnny Mize and Walker Cooper to avoid the possibility of double plays, Durocher had the Giants taking chance on the bases. Four bases were stolen—one by Mize.

Home runs by Bobby Thomson, who drove in five runs with three hits, and Walker Cooper, each with two men on base, gave the Giants a substantial early lead.

Leo made only one appearance on the field—to argue that a pitched ball hit Thomson in the third. He was soundly booed by the 3,841 spectators. Box:

Fair At Bedford Next Month Will Mark Diamond Jubilee Celebration

BEDFORD, Pa.—A new milestone in Pennsylvania fair history will be marked beginning Monday, August 9, when the annual six-day exposition sponsored by the Bedford Fair Association gets under way in observance of its 75th anniversary.

Plans for the Diamond Jubilee celebration call for the most comprehensive program ever arranged in connection with this attraction, it was announced today by A. C. (Bud) Brice, secretary-treasurer of the association.

Brice said the record number of entries and exhibits received up to this time, and the many top-flight attractions which already have been scheduled, completely assure that the 1948 fair will outdistance all previous attractions in every department—livestock and agricultural exhibits, home and dairy products, arts and crafts, harness racing, entertainment and amusements, and thrill shows.

Opening highlight of the six days and six nights of colorful activity will come Monday night at 8 o'clock with the presentation of Joie Chitwood and his famous Hell Drivers before the grandstand. The closing daylight feature on Saturday, August 14, will bring AAA-sanctioned auto races under the direction of Sam Nunis Speedways, with nationally-famous drivers, including Indianapolis stars, in competition.

In between, the fair will course through a lavish schedule which will be notable for three days of Pennsylvania Central Circuit racing; the presentation of Jack Kochman and his celebrated world's champion Dare Devils; nightly performances of the Grandstand Follies, large-scale musical revue featuring the famous Roxyettes, and more than half a dozen spectacular circus and vaudeville acts.

Veneer Workers Renew Contract At Moorefield

Thompson Mahogany Agreement Reached

MOOREFIELD — The wage contract was renewed for one year between the Thompson Mahogany Company, local veneer cutting and manufacturing plant, and the United Furniture Workers Union, CIO. No wage increase given but group insurance benefits were increased and several minor improvements in working conditions were stipulated in the new contract.

The new agreement will be effective until next July but a wage renegotiation clause may permit discussions on wages next January. The minimum wage under the contract is 85 cents per hour.

The meeting was held at the Hotel McNeill Thursday evening and all day Friday. Sam Fox and Max Weinstock, Baltimore, represented the Furniture Workers and the management was represented by George Arnhold, counsel for the Thompson Mahogany Company, Philadelphia, Robert P. Thompson, Philadelphia, and Martin P. Kelley, superintendent of the local plant. The workers committee was made up of Price Riggleman, president of the local, Ray Poling, Lantz Evans, Albert Delawder, Hugh Barr and Mrs. Fannie Neff.

Both the union officials and representatives of the management expressed satisfaction with the new contract.

Thompson pointed out that wage rates at the Moorefield plant are higher than the average paid in the industry although freight rate differentials made production costs higher in Moorefield. George Arnhold, company counsel, stated that the Union representatives were fair in their requests at the negotiations this meeting, and that he felt the company was being fair with the workers.

Opening highlight of the six days and six nights of colorful activity will come Monday night at 8 o'clock with the presentation of Joie Chitwood and his famous Hell Drivers before the grandstand. The closing daylight feature on Saturday, August 14, will bring AAA-sanctioned auto races under the direction of Sam Nunis Speedways, with nationally-famous drivers, including Indianapolis stars, in competition.

In between, the fair will course through a lavish schedule which will be notable for three days of Pennsylvania Central Circuit racing; the presentation of Jack Kochman and his celebrated world's champion Dare Devils; nightly performances of the Grandstand Follies, large-scale musical revue featuring the famous Roxyettes, and more than half a dozen spectacular circus and vaudeville acts.

Veneer Workers Renew Contract At Moorefield

Thompson Mahogany Agreement Reached

MOOREFIELD — The wage contract was renewed for one year between the Thompson Mahogany Company, local veneer cutting and manufacturing plant, and the United Furniture Workers Union, CIO. No wage increase given but group insurance benefits were increased and several minor improvements in working conditions were stipulated in the new contract.

The new agreement will be effective until next July but a wage renegotiation clause may permit discussions on wages next January. The minimum wage under the contract is 85 cents per hour.

The meeting was held at the Hotel McNeill Thursday evening and all day Friday. Sam Fox and Max Weinstock, Baltimore, represented the Furniture Workers and the management was represented by George Arnhold, counsel for the Thompson Mahogany Company, Philadelphia, Robert P. Thompson, Philadelphia, and Martin P. Kelley, superintendent of the local plant. The workers committee was made up of Price Riggleman, president of the local, Ray Poling, Lantz Evans, Albert Delawder, Hugh Barr and Mrs. Fannie Neff.

Both the union officials and representatives of the management expressed satisfaction with the new contract.

Thompson pointed out that wage rates at the Moorefield plant are higher than the average paid in the industry although freight rate differentials made production costs higher in Moorefield. George Arnhold, company counsel, stated that the Union representatives were fair in their requests at the negotiations this meeting, and that he felt the company was being fair with the workers.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and Father, Harry E. Wilson, who departed this life one year ago today, July 20, 1947.

Today, July 20th, recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Who will always be remembered
By the ones who loved him best.

Gone forever are his footsteps,
That we used to hear each day,
They are now just a sad memory
For God has taken him away.

Sadly missed by his Wife and Sons.

Card of Thanks

We take this means of expressing our heartfelt gratitude to all the friends, those who donated the use of their cars, the State Troopers, who were so kind in every way during the illness and following the death of our dear husband and Father, James Albert Hanlin.

The Family.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and Father, Harry E. Wilson, who departed this life one year ago today, July 20, 1947.

Today, July 20th, recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Who will always be remembered
By the ones who loved him best.

Gone forever are his footsteps,
That we used to hear each day,
They are now just a sad memory
For God has taken him away.

Sadly missed by his Wife and Sons.

Card of Thanks

We take this means of expressing our heartfelt gratitude to all the friends, those who donated the use of their cars, the State Troopers, who were so kind in every way during the illness and following the death of our dear husband and Father, James Albert Hanlin.

The Family.

Concert Music To Be Continued On American Network

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 19.—Continuing its Tuesday night 9:30 hour of concert music, ABC for the next four weeks is to come from the Berkshire music festival at Lenox, Mass., nestling in the mountains of the Berkshire.

To start things off in a broadcast way, Dr. Erge Koussevitsky will conduct the Boston symphony's chamber ensemble in an all-Mozart program. Piano soloist is to be Lukas Foss.

Burgess Meredith has agreed to do the lead acting in the Studio One of CBS on Thursday, particular production picked is "Spanish Bayonet," by Stephen Vincent Benet. The story is in the pre-Revolution year of 1774, with the scene laid on a plantation in Florida. Burgess will play the part of Andrew Beard, a rich young New Yorker of those days.

America's Town meeting will be stopped at Oakland, Calif., for ABC at 8:30. Comment is to center around the question "Does Military Preparedness Mean Security?"

In the panel will be Admiral R. K. Turner, retired; Vera M. Deane of the Foreign Policy association and Carey McWilliams, author.

The Mel Torme show, now going on instead of the Dinah Shore show on NBC at 8, includes also John Brown, Barbara Eller, Sidney Miller, Dean Elliiot's orchestra. The program is described as a "comedy musical."

Radio In Review

By JOHN CROSBY

Freedom Of Television

The profound impact of television on national conventions will not be fully calculated until 1952 when the next ones take place, when many, many more television sets will be in private homes and when, in all probability, there will be coast-to-coast network transmission. Even this year, when an estimated 10,000,000 persons saw some phase of the conventions by television, politicians took television very much into account.

John Crosby

Buried in the Democratic platform is a pledge to respect "freedom in the gathering and dissemination of news by press, radio and television." This is the first time television has elbowed its way into that familiar pledge. (Motion pictures and newsreels were added too.) Clark Clifford, close adviser to President Truman, made an illuminating statement in a television interview over N.B.C. Mr. Truman (who, by the way, is quite a television fan) was largely influenced by television in making his comparatively recent decision to talk extemporaneously from notes rather than from a prepared text. The President, said Clifford, felt that a speaker couldn't "project his personality" via television if his head was constantly bent over a script.

This sort of preoccupation with television carries with it some distressing implications. Politicians could easily become so wrapped up in producing pretty pictures for the home audience that they forget that a convention should concern itself with ideas and issues. This sort of videomania was best exemplified at the Democratic convention by the release in the wee hours of the morning of a swarm of doves from a huge floral Liberty Bell. Television cameras all over the hall immediately deserted President Truman, who had just appeared on the rostrum, and chased the birds, torpid from hours of confinement in the fetid air of the hall, as they wheeled drunkenly into electric fans, delegates, newspaper men and House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn.

Bird lovers throughout the hall departed, muttering that it was inhuman as well as ridiculous. I'm willing to lay plenty of eight to five that this sort of stunt staged for the benefit of the cameras will be repeated, amplified and played to death in '52.

On the other side of the ledger is the fact that speakers will probably edit their oratory sharply. Speeches which are long on radio are even longer—for some reason I don't fully understand—on television. Almost certainly, floor leaders will try to prevent a repitition of the fiasco at Philadelphia on the first day of the convention. On that day, television audiences were informed they were being taken to the Democratic National Convention. On the screen flashed a picture of Convention Hall — huge, silent, almost completely deserted. No amount of print, no amount of radio comment could portray with such devastating force the apathy of the Democratic delegates to their own convention.

The Democratic convention as a show lacked, of course, all the suspense of the Republican powwow. To some extent this was mitigated by the increased know-how of the television broadcasters. There were some striking shots. The "Life"-N.B.C. team broadcast the Presidential train in Washington, with the President and his family waving from the rear platform; two hours later the network showed the train pulling into Philadelphia in a driving rainstorm, the President getting off and driving through the rain to Convention Hall. There was a long wait before the President got off the train and during this period the cameras prowled the length of that train peering inquisitively into the windows like a Broadway columnist through a keyhole.

The difference between radio and television was best shown in the walkout of the Mississippi and part of the Alabama delegation after the adoption of the civil rights plank in the Democratic platform. A C.B.S. man with a walkie-talkie grabbed the chairman of the delegation, immediately put on the air an angry denunciation of the plank. Minutes later N.B.C.-"Life" grabbed parts of both delegations, hustled them up to its television studios. There each man gave his reasons for the walkout in one or two sentences, then threw his delegate's badge on a table. The camera switched from angry faces to the rapidly mounting pile of badges.

It was a very effective shot and also, like many things done by television, just a little phony. After the broadcast, each delegate searched carefully through the pile for his badge and pinned it right back on.

Late Rally Fails To Save Market From Worst Setback In Two Years

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—A last-minute rally failed to save the stock market from the most crushing setback in nearly two years today.

The decline was the climax of a three-day running retreat that lopped more than $2,000,000,000 from the market value of all shares listed on the exchange.

Individual stocks plunged $1 to $20 a share. Most were $4 or less lower. Volume reached 2,560,000 shares. The market was the broadest on record.

News concerning the Berlin blockade received almost universal credit for the market's break. Weekend dispatches were gloomy and the argument between Moscow and the Western Powers seemed to be already in the crisis stage.

The most notable feature of the market, though, is that it is made up almost entirely of professional security traders. The public, the little fellow who had his pockets turned inside out in the 1929's, isn't playing.

The late revival in demand reduced extreme losses by one to four points.

Still lower by around two points or more were United States Steel 77⅜, Youngstown Sheet 80, General Motors 59½, Chrysler 60⅛, Firestone Tire 47, Montgomery Ward 55, Kennecott Copper 55¼, Phelps Dodge Copper 53⅛, American Can 81⅝, General Electric 38⅛, Allied Chemical 188, American Woolen 51⅛, International Paper 57½, Santa Fe 108, Southern Pacific 55⅝, Union Pacific 89, Atlantic Coast Line 56, Standard Oil (NJ) 80⅛, Shelly Oil (off 12) 136.

Superior Oil of California broke 20 points to 199.

Curtiss-Wright staged a little rally of its own, as it did last week. The closing price was one-eighth higher at 11¼.

The bond market was battered down on a wide front in a selling move generated apparently by the severe break in stocks. Brokers had no other reason to assign to the setback, which brought numerous declines of one to around four points, mostly in rails.

The fact that only $5,755,000 of bonds changed hands led brokers to conclude it was the absence of supporting bids rather than urgency of selling that caused the drop.

Foxes Get On Power Circuit

BOULDER, Colo. — (AP) — The mamma foxes at Glenn Crosley's fur farm forced revision of a time-table for construction of a power line west of the city. Crosley asked the Public Service Company of Colorado to delay erection of the new line because his female foxes would be whelping puppies. He said the least commotion might excite the expectant foxes and if they became too excited they might kill the puppies. The utility officials agreed to delay work in the area until the foxes pass their emotional period.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Concert Music To Be Continued On American Network

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 19.—Continuing its Tuesday night 9:30 hour of concert music, ABC for the next four weeks is to come from the Berkshire music festival at Lenox, Mass., nestling in the mountains of the Berkshires.

To start things off in a broadcast way, Dr. Erge Koussevitsky will conduct the Boston symphony's chamber ensemble in an all-Mozart program. Piano soloist is to be Lukas Foss.

Burgess Meredith has agreed to do the lead acting in the Studio One of CBS at 10. The particular production picked is "Spanish Bayonet," by Stephen Vincent Benet. The story is in the pre-Revolution year of 1774, with the scene laid on a plantation in Florida. Burgess will play the part of Andrew Beard, a rich young New Yorker of those days.

America's Town meeting will be stopped at Oakland, Calif., for ABC at 8:30. Argument is to center around the question "Does Military Preparedness Mean Security?"

In the panel will be Admiral R. K. Turner, retired; Vera M. Deane of the Foreign Policy association and Carey McWilliams, author.

The Mel Torme show, now going on instead of the Dinah Shore show on NBC at 8, includes also John Brown, Barbara Eller, Sidney Miller, Dean Elliiot's orchestra. The program is described as a "comedy musical."

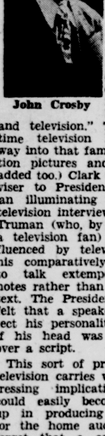
Radio In Review

By JOHN CROSBY

Freedom Of Television

The profound impact of television on national conventions will not be fully calculated until 1952 when the next ones take place, when many, many more television sets will be in private homes and when, in all probability, there will be coast-to-coast network transmission. Even this year, when an estimated 10,000,000 persons saw some phase of the conventions by television, politicians took television very much into account.



John Crosby

Buried in the Democratic platform is a pledge to respect "freedom in the gathering and dissemination of news by press, radio and television." This is the first time television has elbowed its way into that familiar pledge. (Motion pictures and newsreels were added too.) Clark Clifford, close adviser to President Truman, made an illuminating statement in a television interview over N.B.C. Mr. Truman (who, by the way, is quite a television fan) was largely influenced by television in making his comparatively recent decision to talk extemporaneously from notes rather than from a prepared text. The President, said Clifford, felt that a speaker couldn't "project his personality" via television if his head was constantly bent over a script.

This sort of preoccupation with television carries with it some distressing implications. Politicians could easily become so wrapped up in producing pretty pictures for the home audience that they forget that a convention should concern itself with ideas and issues. This sort of videomania was best exemplified at the Democratic convention by the release in the wee hours of the morning of a swarm of doves from a huge floral Liberty Bell. Television cameras all over the hall immediately deserted President Truman, who had just appeared on the rostrum, and chased the birds, torpid from hours of confinement in the fetid air of the hall, as they wheeled drunkenly into electric fans, delegates, newspaper men and House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn.

Bird lovers throughout the hall departed, muttering that it was inhuman as well as ridiculous. I'm willing to lay plenty of eight to five that this sort of stunt staged for the benefit of the cameras will be repeated, amplified and played to death in '52.

On the other side of the ledger is the fact that speakers will probably edit their oratory sharply. Speeches which are long on radio are even longer—for some reason I don't fully understand—on television. Almost certainly, floor leaders will try to prevent a repetition of the fiasco at Philadelphia on the first day of the convention. On that day, television audiences were informed they were being taken to the Democratic National Convention. On the screen flashed a picture of Convention Hall — huge, silent, almost completely deserted. No amount of print, no amount of radio comment could portray with such devastating force the apathy of the Democratic delegates to their own convention.

The Democratic convention as a show lacked, of course, all the suspense of the Republican powwow. To some extent this was mitigated by the increased know-how of the television broadcasters. There were some striking shots. The "Life"-N.B.C. team broadcast the Presidential train in Washington, with the President and his family waving from the rear platform; two hours later the network showed the train pulling into Philadelphia in a driving rainstorm, the President getting off and driving through the rain to Convention Hall. There was a long wait before the President got off the train and during this period the cameras prowled the length of that train peering inquisitively into the windows like a Broadway columnist through a keyhole.

The difference between radio and television was best shown in the walkout of the Mississippi and part of the Alabama delegation after the adoption of the civil rights plank in the Democratic platform. A C.B.S. man with a walkie-talkie grabbed the chairman of the delegation, immediately put on the air an angry denunciation of the plank. Minutes later N.B.C.-"Life" grabbed parts of both delegations, hustled them up to its television studios. There each man gave his reasons for the walkout in one or two sentences, then threw his delegate's badge on a table. The camera switched from angry faces to the rapidly mounting pile of badges. It was a very effective shot and also, like many things done by television, just a little phony. After the broadcast, each delegate searched carefully through the pile for his badge and pinned it right back on.

Late Rally Fails To Save Market From Worst Setback In Two Years

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—A last-minute rally failed to save the stock market from the most crushing setback in nearly two years today.

The decline was the climax of a three-day running retreat that lopped more than $2,000,000,000 from the market value of all shares listed on the exchange.

Individual stocks plunged $1 to $20 a share. Most were $4 or less lower. Volume reached 2,560,000 shares. The market was the broadest on record.

The most noteworthy feature of the market, though, is that it is made up almost entirely of professional security traders. The public, the little fellow who had his pockets turned inside out in the 1929's, isn't playing.

The late revival in demand reduced extreme losses by one to four points.

Still lower by around two points or more were United States Steel 77⅞, Youngstown Sheet 80, General Motors 59½, Chrysler 60¼, Firestone Tire 47, Montgomery Ward 55, Kennecott Copper 55¼, Phelps Dodge Copper 53¼, American Can 81⅝, General Electric 38¼, Allied Chemical 188, American Woolen 51¼, International Paper 57½, Santa Fe 108, Southern Pacific 55⅝, Union Pacific 89, Atlantic Coast Line 56, Standard Oil (NJ) 80¼, Shelly Oil (off 12) 136.

Superior Oil of California broke 20 points to 199.

Curtiss - Wright staged a little rally of its own, as it did last week. The closing price was one-eighth higher at 11¼.

The bond market was battered down on a wide front in a selling move generated apparently by the severe break in stocks. Brokers had no other reason to assign to the setback, which brought numerous declines of one to around four points, mostly fractional.

The fact that only $5,555,000 of bonds changed hands led brokers to conclude it was the absence of supporting bids rather than urgency of selling that caused the drop.

Foxes Get On Power Circuit

BOULDER, Colo. — (AP) — The mamma foxes at Glenn Crosley's fur farm forced revision of a timetable for construction of a power line west of the city. Crosley asked the Public Service Company of Colorado to delay erection of the new line because his female foxes would be whelping puppies. He said the least commotion might excite the expectant foxes and if they became too excited they might kill the puppies. The utility officials agreed to delay work in the area until the foxes pass their emotional period.

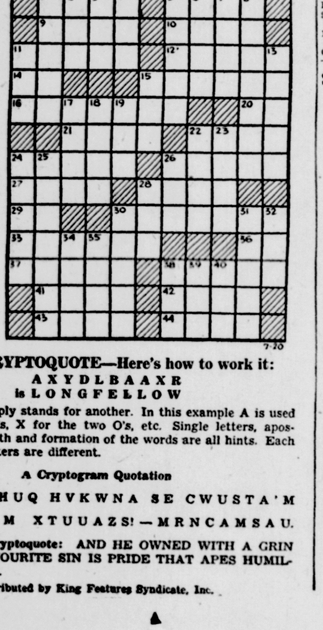
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Meyers Again Wins Communist Office

The Maryland-District of Columbia Communist Party Sunday elected George Meyers, former local labor leader, to his second term as labor secretary of the district.

Meyers' election occurred at the district convention held in Baltimore Saturday and Sunday during which Philip Frankfield, Baltimore, was re-elected chairman.

The proceedings of the meeting, closed to the public, were confirmed by Thomas C. Buchanan, former Washington newspaper reporter.

Freedom Train To Visit Cumberland

Plans for the arrival of the Freedom Train in Cumberland on September 22 were outlined to the Mayor and Council yesterday in a letter from J. Edward Shugrue, national director of the American Heritage Foundation, which is sponsoring the train.

Shugrue suggested July 27 as the date Sidney Kirsten, area director for the foundation, would like to meet with a committee of Cumberland citizens to outline a full program for Advance Week and Rededication Week which will precede the arrival of the train.

Dates of Advance Week will be September 9 to 15 when the object is to focus the attention of all citizens on Rededication Week, September 10 to 22, to be climaxed with the arrival of the train which bears historic documents of the American heritage.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan said the cost to Cumberland would be approximately $2,000. The site the train will occupy has not been determined.

A report of receipts and disbursements was submitted to the council in regular meeting by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson for the quarter ending June 30.

Total receipts amounted to $327,642.65. The cash balance on April 1 was $425,689.55 bringing the grand total to $753,332.20.

Disbursements totaled $462,852.74. Cash balance in the general fund was $97,903.91; in the water operating fund, $151,271.83; in the general improvement bond fund, $36,740.04; 1931 sewer bond fund, $3,897.47; paving bond fund, $34.72; and in the flood fund, $631.49. The total of cash balances was $290,479.46.

Commissioner Edgar Reynolds was authorized to construct a sewer on Greenway Avenue from its intersection with Brookfield Avenue to its intersection with Penhurst street. A sewer is also to be constructed in Penhurst from its intersection with Greenway to lot 14, block 33 on Penhurst.

Allegany Hospital To Be Affiliated With College

Allegany Hospital will be affiliated with the Frostburg State Teachers' College for the first time when its School of Nursing sends 25 students to the college in September, according to Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college.

Memorial Hospital has been associated with the college for two years and will be sending 50 nurses for study again in the fall, but this will be the first class in which Allegany nurses have taken part.

The students will take microbiology, anatomy, physiology and drugs and solutions. Chemistry and psychology, which are already taught at Allegany, will be added to the curriculum for the Memorial students.

The nurses will attend classes three days a week and will receive credit for their courses at the nursing schools.

One hundred freshmen have already been enrolled at the Teachers' College for the coming year, and new applications are still being accepted.

Girls who wish to enter the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing must have their applications filed by August 1 for the September class. Pre-entrance examinations will be held August 14 at 9 a. m.

Applicants must be between 16 and 35 years of age, have a high school education, and show an aptitude for nursing. Anyone interested may contact Sister Mary Bernard, director of the school.

B. & O. Accident Suit To Open In Hagerstown

Hearing of a $25,000 damage suit filed by Robert G. Leasure, 78, 223 Harrison Street, against the B. and O. Railroad Company will open tomorrow in Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown.

Leasure charges that he suffered the loss of his right foot when he was run over by a yard engine at the Baltimore Street crossing November 12. The case was removed to Hagerstown after being docketed here by James Alfred Avirett, attorney for Leasure.

Joseph Zapf, a B. and O. employe for 31 years, was awarded a permanent disability claim against the company yesterday in Washington County Court.

Local Youth Wins Mining Scholarship

A local youth, Ivan L. DeWitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. I. DeWitt, Route 6, Bowling Green, and a graduate of Allegany High School, has been awarded the Maryland Scholarship at the Colorado School of Mines, Golden, Colo.

The award is made on the recommendation by the state superintendent of schools of a student who, in addition to other qualifications, is graduated in the upper 10 per cent of his class. DeWitt will receive tuition for one year, renewable for four years.

Knights To Form Guard Of Honor

A guard of honor will be formed by Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, at special religious services in SS. Philip and James Caholic Church, Meyersdale, Pa., tonight.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the choir of Capuchin College, Washington, which resides at Alverno, Pa., during the summer months. Rev. Albert Bechtold, pastor, will celebrate solemn benediction.

Three Md. Polio Cases

BALTIMORE, July 19 (AP)—Only three cases on infantile paralysis have been reported in Maryland this year, Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, said today.

Claims A "First"

SHANNON AIRPORT, Erie, July 19—Virginia Withington, 30, New Haven, Conn., claimed yesterday she was the first woman ever to navigate a trans-Atlantic commercial flight.

Bids Submitted For City Trucks

Six bids received yesterday by the Mayor and Council for one and one-half and two ton trucks were referred to Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

Bids were submitted by the St. George Motor Company, Steinla Motor Company, Collins Garage, Eller Chevrolet, Inc., Brockway Motor Company, Inc., and Raupach's Garage.

The council voted $40 for a full-page advertisement in the 1948 convention program of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, Frostburg. Space will also be purchased in the souvenir program for the "Miss Maryland" pageant and the program for the statewide convention of the American Legion at Ocean City September 8 through 12.

The Mayor and Council took no further action on a letter from H. R. Whip, manager of the Cumberland Basketball Club, asking that a rodeo be allowed to perform in Cumberland next week.

Whip stated he failed to see why the rodeo would conflict with the races, a decision announced by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, since the races are over and traffic is normal by 7:30 p. m. and the rodeo would not start until 8:15 p. m.

An order was approved confirming James F. Rowan and Kenneth H. Castle as regular members of the Fire Department since they have served their one year probationary period.

An order that Willis H. Cutlip, 115 Offutt Street, be refunded $4.68 for over payment of a water bill at 113 Offutt Street, was approved.

Mrs. Norman F. Geatz, house chairman of the Girl Scout Council in Cumberland, asked the Mayor and Council if the city could furnish funds to paint the inside of the Girl Scout House, 72 Greene Street, and install adequate wiring.

Mrs. Geatz said the Scout Council could not afford the expense of the necessary repairs. She explained the walls could be covered with water paint. The installation of a power line heavy enough to service hot plates would cost about $65.

The request was submitted to Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

The weekly water report indicated a total of 89,500,000 gallons of water consumed this week as compared to the 83,100,000 gallons the same week in 1947.

D. T. Davis' Sloop Wins Weekly Sail

David T. Davis' snipe class sloop, skippered by Robert Muma, sailed through the roughest weather of the current season Sunday to win the weekly racing event on Deep Creek Lake in the fast time of 35 minutes 10 seconds. Mrs. Muma acted as crew.

Commodore Richard C. Holben's snipe class sloop, sailed by the owner with Bob Knipe as crew, finished in second place with elapsed time of 37 minutes, after narrowly averting a knockdown during a severe puff.

Henry K. Duke's Cape Cod sloop "Ranger," sailed by the owner with John F. Schaidt as crew, crossed the finish line in third place with elapsed time of 38 minutes, but reported itself disqualified for touching the last marker. This gave third position to Dick Strum, in the only penguin to finish the course.

Ash To Confer With Charter Group July 26

W. Guy Ash, city manager of Clarksburg, W. Va., will confer with Cumberland's Charter Commission at the Mayor's office, City Hall, on Monday, July 26, at 7:30 p. m., according to Isaac Hirsch, chairman of the local group. Ash was unable to attend an open meeting arranged by the Charter Commission several weeks ago, but has assured Mr. Hirsch that he will be here "rain or shine" on July 26.

Having reached unanimous accord on Home Rule for Cumberland the commission members are assembling information and opinions in an endeavor to devise a charter that will meet with as nearly unanimous approval as it is possible to achieve. Subcommittees will be named soon to make special studies of finance, personnel and civil service and other departments of municipal government.

Airline Renews Bid For Service

In another petition, All American Aviation has again requested the Civil Aeronautics Board for the right to start airline service immediately on routes where there is no conflict with air mail pickup service.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall said he is keeping in close touch with the CAB and is pressing for a quick decision with regard to air service for Cumberland.

The board has delayed acting on All American proposals and on June 28 granted Chesapeake Airways a three-month permit to fly from Washington to the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Wilmington. This leg was part of the route for which temporary permission was granted All American in an earlier decision.

All American asks the board "how it expects All American to be an efficient and economic operator if its management must rest its plans on shifting board decisions."

It is pointed out that relying on the board's tentative authorization of February the line "has proceeded to purchase equipment, employ personnel" and prepare to operate.

Red Air Show Postponed

MOSCOW, July 19 (AP)—The giant Soviet air show scheduled for yesterday was called off one hour before the scheduled time because of bad weather. It will be held next Sunday.

Meyers Again Wins Communist Office

Meyers' election occurred at the district convention held in Baltimore Saturday and Sunday during which Philip Frankfield, Baltimore, was re-elected chairman.

Freedom Train To Visit Cumberland

Plans for the arrival of the Freedom Train in Cumberland on September 22 were outlined to the Mayor and Council yesterday in a letter from J. Edward Shugrue, national director of the American Heritage Foundation, which is sponsoring the train.

Shugrue suggested July 27 as the date Sidney Kirsten, area director for the foundation, would like to meet with a committee of Cumberland citizens to outline a full program for Advance Week and Rededication Week which will precede the arrival of the train.

Dates of Advance Week will be September 9 to 15 when the object is to focus the attention of all citizens on Rededication Week, September 10 to 22, to be climaxed with the arrival of the train which bears historic documents of the American heritage.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan said the cost to Cumberland would be approximately $2,000. The site the train will occupy has not been determined.

A report of receipts and disbursements was submitted to the council in regular meeting by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson for the quarter ending June 30.

Total receipts amounted to $327,642.65. The cash balance on April 1 was $425,689.55 bringing the grand total to $753,332.20.

Disbursements totaled $462,852.74. Cash balance in the general fund was $97,903.91; in the water operating fund, $151,271.83; in the general improvement bond fund, $36,740.04; 1931 sewer bond fund, $3,897.47; paving bond fund, $34.72; and in the flood fund, $631.49. The total of cash balances was $290,479.46.

Commissioner Edgar Reynolds was authorized to construct a sewer on Greenway Avenue from its intersection with Brookfield Avenue to its intersection with Penhurst street. A sewer is also to be constructed in Penhurst from its intersection with Greenway to lot 14, block 33 on Penhurst.

Allegany Hospital To Be Affiliated With College

Allegany Hospital will be affiliated with the Frostburg State Teachers' College for the first time when its School of Nursing sends 25 students to the college in September, according to Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college.

Memorial Hospital has been associated with the college for two years and will be sending 50 nurses for study again in the fall, but this will be the first class in which Allegany nurses have taken part.

The students will take microbiology, anatomy, physiology and drugs and solutions. Chemistry and psychology, which are already taught at Allegany, will be added to the curriculum for the Memorial students.

The nurses will attend classes three days a week and will receive credit for their courses at the nursing schools.

Girls who wish to enter the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing must have their applications filed by August 1 for the September class. Pre-entrance examinations will be held August 14 at 9 a. m.

Applicants must be between 16 and 35 years of age, have a high school education, and show an aptitude for nursing. Anyone interested may contact Sister Mary Bernard, director of the school.

B. & O. Accident Suit To Open In Hagerstown

Hearing of a $25,000 damage suit filed by Robert G. Leasure, 78, 223 Harrison Street, against the B. and O. Railroad Company will open tomorrow in Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown.

Leasure charges that he suffered the loss of his right foot when he was run over by a yard engine at the Baltimore Street crossing November 12. The case was removed to Hagerstown after being docketed here by James Alfred Avirett, attorney for Leasure.

Joseph Zapf, a B. and O. employe for 31 years, was awarded a permanent disability claim against the company yesterday in Washington County Court.

Local Youth Wins Mining Scholarship

A local youth, Ivan L. DeWitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. I. DeWitt, Route 6, Bowling Green, and a graduate of Allegany High School, has been awarded the Maryland Scholarship at the Colorado School of Mines, Golden, Colo.

The award is made on the recommendation by the state superintendent of schools of a student who, in addition to other qualifications, is graduated in the upper 10 per cent of his class. DeWitt will receive tuition for one year, renewable for four years.

Knights To Form Guard Of Honor

A guard of honor will be formed by Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, at special religious services in SS. Philip and James Caholic Church, Meyersdale, Pa., tonight.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the choir of Capuchin College, Washington, which resides at Alverno, Pa., during the summer months. Rev. Albert Bechtold, pastor, will celebrate solemn benediction.

Three Md. Polio Cases

BALTIMORE, July 19 (AP)—Only three cases on infantile paralysis have been reported in Maryland this year, Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, said today.

Claims A "First"

SHANNON AIRPORT, Erie, July 19—Virginia Withington, 30, New Haven, Conn., claimed yesterday she was the first woman ever to navigate a trans-Atlantic commercial flight.

Bids Submitted For City Trucks

Six bids received yesterday by the Mayor and Council for one and one-half and two ton trucks were referred to Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

Bids were submitted by the St. George Motor Company, Steinla Motor Company, Collins Garage, Eller Chevrolet, Inc., Brockway Motor Company, Inc., and Raupach's Garage.

The council voted $40 for a full-page advertisement in the 1948 convention program of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, Frostburg. Space will also be purchased in the souvenir program for the "Miss Maryland" pageant and the program for the statewide convention of the American Legion at Ocean City September 8 through 12.

The Mayor and Council took no further action on a letter from H. R. Whip, manager of the Cumberland Basketball Club, asking that a rodeo be allowed to perform in Cumberland next week.

Whip stated he failed to see why the rodeo would conflict with the races, a decision announced by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, since the races are over and traffic is normal by 7:30 p. m. and the rodeo would not start until 8:15 p. m.

An order was approved confirming James F. Rowan and Kenneth H. Castle as regular members of the Fire Department since they have served their one year probationary period.

Another order confirmed the appointment of John F. Daum and Harold Crawford as regular members of the Police Department.

Edgar Reynolds, commissioner of streets, was authorized to advertise for bids for resurfacing Virginia Avenue from its intersection with Oldtown Road to its intersection with Laing Avenue.

An order that Willis H. Cutlip, 115 Offutt Street, be refunded $4.68 for over payment of a water bill at 113 Offutt Street, was approved.

Mrs. Norman F. Geatz, house chairman of the Girl Scout Council in Cumberland, asked the Mayor and Council if the city could furnish funds to paint the inside of the Girl Scout House, 72 Greene Street, and install adequate wiring.

Mrs. Geatz said the Scout Council could not afford the expense of the necessary repairs. She explained the walls could be covered with water paint. The installation of a power line heavy enough to service hot plates would cost about $65.

The request was submitted to Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

The weekly water report indicated a total of 89,500,000 gallons of water consumed this week as compared to the 83,100,000 gallons the same week in 1947.

D. T. Davis' Sloop Wins Weekly Sail

David T. Davis' snipe class sloop, skippered by Robert Muma, sailed through the roughest weather of the current season Sunday to win the weekly racing event on Deep Creek Lake in the fast time of 35 minutes 10 seconds. Mrs. Muma acted as crew.

Commodore Richard C. Holben's snipe class sloop, sailed by the owner with Bob Knipe as crew, finished in second place with elapsed time of 37 minutes, after narrowly averting a knockdown during a severe puff.

Henry K. Duke's Cape Cod sloop "Ranger," sailed by the owner with John F. Schaidt as crew, crossed the finish line in third place with elapsed time of 38 minutes, but reported itself disqualified for touching the last marker. This gave third position to Dick Strum, in the only penguin to finish the course.

The unusually stiff wind kept most of the small boats, including John Schaidt's "Pica," last week's winner, snugged down at their moorings. The only other penguin to venture out withdrew shortly after the start.

Ash To Confer With Charter Group July 26

W. Guy Ash, city manager of Clarksburg, W. Va., will confer with Cumberland's Charter Commission at the Mayor's office, City Hall, on Monday, July 26, at 7:30 p. m., according to Isaac Hirsch, chairman of the local group. Ash was unable to attend an open meeting arranged by the Charter Commission several weeks ago, but has assured Mr. Hirsch that he will be here "rain or shine" on July 26.

Having reached unanimous accord on Home Rule for Cumberland the commission members are assembling information and opinions in an endeavor to devise a charter that will meet with as nearly unanimous approval as it is possible to achieve. Subcommittees will be named soon to make special studies of finance, personnel and civil service and other departments of municipal government.

Airline Renews Bid For Service

In another petition, All American Aviation has again requested the Civil Aeronautics Board for the right to start airline service immediately on routes where there is no conflict with air mail pickup service.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall said he is keeping in close touch with the CAB and is pressing for a quick decision with regard to air service for Cumberland.

The board has delayed acting on All American proposals and on June 28 granted Chesapeake Airways a three-month permit to fly from Washington to the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Wilmington. This leg was part of the route for which temporary permission was granted All American in an earlier decision.

All American asks the board "how it expects All American to be an efficient and economic operator if its management must rest its plans on shifting board decisions."

It is pointed out that relying on the board's tentative authorization of February the line "has proceeded to purchase equipment, employ personnel" and prepare to operate.

Red Air Show Postponed

MOSCOW, July 19 (AP)—The giant Soviet air show scheduled for yesterday was called off one hour before the scheduled time because of bad weather. It will be held next Sunday.

Federal Highway Aid Is Unfair, Rep. Beall Says

County To Share In Md. Allotment

Maryland's $4,264,000 federal allotment for highways in which Allegany County and its incorporated communities will share was termed "inadequate" last night by Rep. J. Glenn Beall, who said the nationwide system of distribution is "wholly unfair."

Those states with small areas but large populations, of which Maryland is one, Beall declared, are not receiving a just allotment of federal funds for primary, secondary and urban highways.

Maryland's highways are among the most heavily traveled in the country because of the proximity to the nation's capital, according to Beall, yet this state is among that third of the 48 states receiving less than $5,000,000 in federal highway aid.

Opposes Area Basis

Rep. Beall, a member of the subcommittee of the House Roads Committee, said he has for several years been waging a fight in Congress to have federal highway funds alloted on the basis of registered motor vehicle license tags and population rather than on area as is now being done.

The total allotment is broken down into three classes of roads, with $1,631,000 to be spent on primary or national routes; $1,043,000 on secondary or farm-to-market roads and $1,590,000 on urban or community streets.

The idea of federal monies being alloted to county and municipal governments for road improvement and repair in their jurisdiction is wholly satisfactory, Maryland's Sixth District Representative declared, adding that he can readily see why the federal government should not have final say over the road and street construction in counties and cities.

"But the idea that states with large land areas that are thinly populated receiving allotments in excess of Maryland over whose highways 80 per cent of the traffic to Washington passes, is wholly unfair," Beall declared.

"These federal allotments are not coming out of some new form of taxation," Beall stated, "but from the motorists who pay the federal taxes for gasoline, and as long as automobile owners are paying the tax the money should be spent on those highways that are used by the greatest number of motorists," Beall asserted.

Maryland highways lead into two great metropolitan areas—Baltimore and Washington, Beall explained. Baltimore, he added, contributes 70 per cent of all its gasoline taxes to the Maryland State Roads Commission but not one cent of the money needed to maintain the highways used by the traffic going into the capital comes from the District of Columbia, he pointed out.

State Getting "Run-Around"

Maryland, along with other states small in area and thick in population, "is getting the grand old runaround," Beall averred. "I have fought and will continue to fight for a more equal distribution of federal highway funds," he said.

Under the 1948 act, Allegany County and all others will receive a proportionate share of the amount alloted to the state for farm-to-market roads, he explained. This money will be used by the county commissioners to build and improve secondary roads used by the farmer on his way to market and others who must travel in sections where national highways do not pass.

The urban appropriations will be used at the discretion of municipal governments to build and improve streets deemed necessary in the community. Both governing bodies' plans are subject to the approval of the State Roads Commission but not to the federal government, Beall declared.

Cumberland like other cities and incorporated communities will receive its proportionate share of the state fund, but Beall said he could not determine what the local street fund will be at this time.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Poland

A well-known Rock Oak, W. Va., farmer and carpenter, A. Mayberry Poland, 68, died shortly before noon yesterday as the result of gunshot wounds which Hardy County Sheriff A. W. Mathias said were self-inflicted.

Sheriff Mathias reported that he was summoned to Poland's home after several neighbors had broken into the building when they became alarmed at not seeing Poland for some time.

Sheriff Mathias said the house had been thoroughly barricaded, and that when he arrived, Poland was lying beside the bed in his upstairs bedroom. Beside him was a rifle, described as being of "oldtime" type. He had been dead several hours, authorities said.

Poland, who was a bachelor, had been despondent for some time, Mathias said.

Rexroth To Speak

Earle C. Rexroth, one of the administrators of the Maryland Motor Vehicles Law passed by the State Legislature in 1945, will discuss administration of the law as guest speaker at a meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The Weather

The rain that makes the grass grow is scheduled to fall again today but only in the "scattered showers" form, a weatherman who plays a hit-miss game of predicting, said last night. Yesterday's heat which sent the mercury to 84 degrees will continue today and the clouds will make way for the sunshine and sunburn in the morning. It was 69 degrees at 11 p. m. and the rain stick showed that .07 inches of rain fell yesterday.

Conference Set On Traffic Study For Cumberland

Post, Rizer, SRC Will Confer Today

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that he and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer will go to Baltimore today for a conference with a State Roads Commission official relative to an overall traffic survey for Cumberland.

Arrangements have been made with George Lewis, director of the traffic division of the State Roads Commission, for the meeting.

At its May meeting, the local Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission recommended to city officials that the State Roads Commission be contacted with regard to conducting a traffic survey here.

Previous estimates of the cost of such a survey set the cost at $16,000, of which 50 per cent would be borne by the Public Roads Administration and 25 per cent each, or $4,000, by the state and Cumberland.

Robert M. Reindollar, chairman of the SRC, recently sent Mayor Post a copy of a traffic survey made in Hagerstown during the past year by the commission and the Public Roads Administration.

The lengthy report includes statistics on daily traffic flow, obtained through a series of interview stations set up in the city; and recommendations on parking restrictions and development of new traffic routes.

Police Hold Man Wanted In D. C.

City Police are holding for investigation a man who may have alked out of George Washington University Hospital, Washington, Wednesday, after being admitted for a delicate brain operation.

Jack Notkin, the man being sought, is a Pittsburgh resident who has suffered with amnesia for several years since an automobile accident. Attaches at the hospital reported he walked out Wednesday.

He was picked up Sunday at 2:45 p. m. by Officer Walter Crabtree at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yards here, and ordered held for investigation.

When arrested, he gave two names, John Broun and John Harpst, and said he was a Pittsburgh resident. He says he is 36, while the missing man is 38, and is about five feet, three inches tall, while hospital attaches guessed Notkin's height as about five feet, eight inches.

Area Youths Enlist In Army Here

Two area youths enlisted in the Army yesterday at the local Army and Air Force main recruiting station, according to Lt. George J. Gocke, officer in charge.

They are John Gilbert Duckworth, 19, Big Vein Hill, Lonaconing, who joined the Corps of Engineers for three years, and Frank Mercer, 17, Keyser, W. Va., who enlisted for three years in the Armored Force.

Three Area Youths Join Marines Here

Union Security Vote Planned For Local 1874

Poll May Be Held Week Of August 2

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, disclosed last night that tentative arrangements for a National Labor Relations Board conducted union security election have been made for the week of August 2.

Plans for a consent election at the Celanese plant late in June were deferred after the company withdrew its consent and appealed to the National Labor Relations Board in Washington to rule on the legality of such a vote in Maryland.

Late last month the NLRB denied, without prejudice, the Celanese appeal.

Company spokesmen declined to comment on the plans for the union security election of the 8,500 member union.

The Taft-Hartley Law requires such a union security election before a union may negotiate for any union security clause including the union shop, which the union desires, and maintenance of membership, which the union has had at the Amcelle plant for several years.

The same law makes mandatory the holding of such an election if 30 per cent of eligible employes authorize the vote.

Both union and company officials reported last night that they have had no communication from James A. Holden, Federal conciliator, toward a contract negotiating meeting.

Last week talks broke off after some progress, chiefly on the tentative agreement on a check-off of dues, with the understanding that both parties would meet when Holden called a conference.

Tri-State Area Youths Join Navy

Ten area men have enlisted in the Navy at the local recruiting station, according to Chief Torpedoman's Mate Edgar L. Schrader, local recruiter.

The others, all of whom were sent to Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Ill., included Playford L. Ramsey, 18, Cresaptown, who will attend yeoman school after recruit training; Ernest A. Boatman 19, Patterson Creek, who joined as a machinist's mate, fireman recruit; Raymond V. Rodda, 19, Frostburg, as a fireman recruit in the Construction Battalion; James D. Elkias, 523 Louisiana Avenue, as a yeoman, seaman recruit.

Vincent W. Combs, 20, Hyndman, Pa., as an airplane recruit; Charles W. O'Toole, 18, 35 Blackiston Avenue, who served six months in the Marine Corps Reserve, as a machinist's mate, fireman recruit; Charles W. Kane, 17, Cresaptown, as a yeoman, seaman recruit; Arthur M. Reckner, 18, Salisbury, Pa., as a dispensing clerk and William P. Davis, 18, Frostburg.

Marine Reserve Payroll Arrives

Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer of Company D, Fifth Infantry Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve, announced that the quarterly payroll has been received and will be distributed at the regular weekly drill Thursday.

The commander said that this quarter's pay is the largest so far received, as many men have performed extra duty to make up for drills missed during the fiscal year.

It was also announced yesterday that three local nurses, Misses Mary Margaret Ziler, Mary Louise Grassi and Angela Leo, have volunteered their services in giving immunization shots to members of the company.

The results were acknowledged in the report of District Unit Director Col. Brown, when he said recently that the group "is the most organized and the most advanced of any in the district in giving shots."

Woman With 'Mysterious Power' Fails To Find Missing Collier Child

A Pittsburgh, Pa., woman with "mysterious powers" for finding lost persons failed in her efforts to solve the 18-day old mystery of missing Donald Collier, 22-months-old, in the Somerset County, Pa., mountains, Pennsylvania State Police said last night.

The Pittsburgh woman is among numerous other persons who are arriving in Somerset County daily from all parts of the East to aid with their "supernatural powers," according to authorities, who said, "Everybody is given a chance."

One unidentified man, who told police he drove 50 miles because he had a dream in which he saw a man and woman fighting over a child and strangle it, was positive he could furnish the answer to where the baby wandered after he was last seen by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Collier at their summer cabin on July 2.

Police said the "dream-believer" was taken to the cabin where the child was last seen in Laurel Ridge section and "vowed that it was the same scene he saw in the dream."

A woman arrived in Somerset last week with a story that she had dreamed two men beat a child and hid the body under a big rock. For several hours she had volunteer searchers turning over huge bolders, one trooper said, and even when the workers lost faith in her dream she went away mumbling, "Just wait, you'll find the body under a big rock."

Authorities said the nation-wide publicity given the case is beginning to attract numerous cranks to the scene and making unending work for investigators who have not turned anyone away so far without hearing their story.

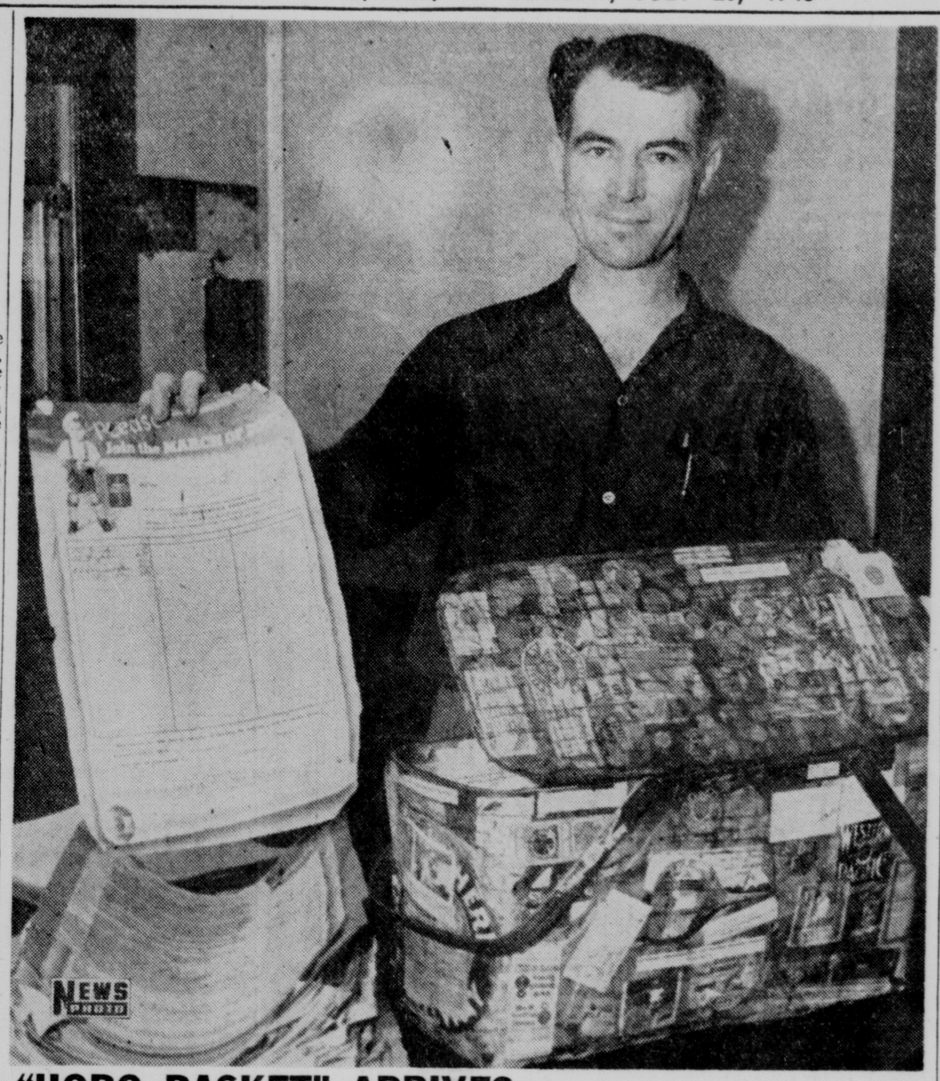
A woman from up-state showed up at the State Police barracks recently after visiting a fortune teller. She told police she was the person "appointed to find the child."

"We sorta hoped she was right," a trooper said, "but the climb up the mountain proved too much for her, and after a short search she lost the appointment."

Police said the actual search which has been conducted by several hundred persons at various times failed to reveal a single clue up to last night.

Small groups of authorities are continuing to search the area while investigating authorities have turned their attention to a blaze termed incendiary, which destroyed a small abandoned barn within three quarters of a mile from where the child was last seen.

Sheriff Karl Hare, Somerset County, said the blaze, which occurred early Sunday morning, "has a definite connection" with the boy's disappearance.



"HOBO BASKET" ARRIVES-- Covered with baggage stamps from most of the nation's major railroads, a "hobo basket" which has traveled nearly 10,000 miles in the past seven months arrived yesterday in the Cumberland division yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The basket is filled with scrolls signed by rail employes along the route who have contributed funds to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. J. W. Whittington, local yardmaster, is shown holding the scroll for Cumberland B. and O. employes. Money donated here will be turned over to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

"Hobo Basket" Reaches Cumberland On Last Leg Of 10,000-Mile Jaunt

B. & O. Men Plan Polio Contributions

A "hobo basket" containing scrolls with the signatures of hundreds of railroad employes all over the nation who have contributed to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis arrived in the Cumberland Division yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yesterday morning.

Last December 22 a group of railway clerks of the Southern Railroad in Birmingham, Ala., started the basket on its long journey, in connection with the annual March of Dimes campaign to raise funds in the battle against polio.

Travels Via Freight

Since that time, in the custody of freight conductors, the basket has traveled from one terminal point to the next on 16 different railroad systems, with the B. and O. being the 17th and last.

It arrived in the Cumberland yards yesterday aboard the caboose on No. 97, a fast freight between Brunswick and Cumberland.

B. and O. personnel at Brunswick contributed $154 during the basket's stay there.

L. E. Madden, local yardmaster, said the wooden container is similar to the large lunch baskets used 25 years ago by railroad men who were out on the road for two or three days at a time.

The basket's next destination is Cincinnati, O., where it will be transferred to the Southern Railroad for the last leg of the journey back to Birmingham.

Madden said arrangements have been made to turn over all contributions by B. and O. men here to Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

The basket will be sent on its way to Cincinnati in the next day or two, Madden said, to complete its journey by freight through a total of 17 states.

Described as "the railroad man's way of contributing to a worthy cause," the basket is literally covered with baggage stamps from the various railroad systems.

Route Is Listed

After leaving Birmingham last December, the basket traveled via the Southern Railroad to Memphis, Tenn.; to Kansas City, Mo., on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad; to Des Moines, Ia., on the Rock Island.

To Milwaukee, Wis., on the Chicago and Northwestern; to Champion, Mich., on the Milwaukee Railroad; to Duluth, Minn., on the South Shore and Atlantic Railroad; to Spokane, Wash., on the Great Northern.

To Wishram, Ore., on the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railroad, and to Bend, Ore., on the Oregon Trunk Railroad; to Bieber, Calif., on the Great Northern; to San Francisco on the Western Pacific Railroad; to Amarillo, Tex., aboard the Santa Fe.

To Dallas, Tex., on the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad; to Shreveport, La., on the St. Louis and Southwestern; to Hattiesburg, Miss., on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad; to Meridian, Miss., via a branch of the Southern Railroad.

To Montgomery, Ala., aboard the Galveston, Mobile and Ohio Railroad; to Macon, Ga., aboard the Central Georgia Railroad; and to Washington, D. C., aboard the Southern Railroad, where the B. and O. took over the job of sending the basket on its way.

Plans for the annual meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce to be held Tuesday, July 27, at 7:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club have been completed by the membership activities committee, Harold W. Smith, manager, said yesterday.

A feature of the meeting will be discussions on Cumberland's parking situation and the possibilities of industrial development here, he said.

The subjects will be thrown open for group discussion after leaders present an analysis of the problem.

Also slated at the meeting are the election of six directors and reports of the president, treasurer and other officers.

The Board of Directors of the Mercantile Bureau will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock to discuss recommendations being made by various committees, according to James R. Kendall, assistant manager.

"Miss Lonaconing" To Be Chosen Tonight

Jean Dixon, who won the title of "Miss Maryland" last year, will crown the winner of the "Miss Lonaconing" contest to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Firemen's Armory in Lonaconing.

Jack Moore, pageant director for the state finals to be held in Cumberland August 2, will introduce Juanita Lookabaugh, who won the "Miss Cumberland" title several weeks ago.

Pershing Holmes, co-chairman of the Lonaconing contest, said 24 merchants of that area have donated $105 in cash prizes, and three gifts for the winner, including hose, a compact and a billfold. The winner will also receive $50, with the remaining amount going to the second and third place contestants.

Ten contestants have entered the event. Mrs. Betty Lou Rankin Morgan, Lonaconing, runner-up in the "Miss Maryland" contest last year, aided in coaching the girls last night at the final rehearsal.

Avirett Suggests Recreation Site On Chase Street

Chairman James Alfred Avirett of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission commented yesterday that a large vacant lot on Chase Street between Beall and Paca Streets would be an "excellent location" for a recreation area.

The site was proposed recently by the C. D. Kenny Company for the location of a $100,000 warehouse and railroad siding.

Conditional permission was granted a month ago by the Mayor and Council for use of the lot, but because of the 90-day cancellation clause, the company said it would seek other locations before making a final decision.

A number of groups, including the planning commission, have objected to the idea of building a railroad siding at the site because of danger to children in the neighborhood.

Pointing out that the lot has over 200 feet of frontage on Paca Street, Avirett said the site could accommodate a recreation building or a large playground.

In view of the proximity of West Side School, the area could be developed into a combined recreation and education center which would add to the attractiveness of the locality and would serve the Paca, Beall, Smallwood, Greene and Rose Hill sections, he added.

The commission scheduled its next meeting for August 9.

Meat Prices Soar To Record High In City

Increase 10 To 15 Per Cent In July

Meat prices have reached the highest point in the history of Cumberland, according to George F. Garlitz, past president of the Independent Retail Food Dealers of Maryland, who said buyer der[illegible] is off between 30 and 40 per cent.

Overall retail prices on meats have increased between 10 and 15 per cent in the past week, according to Garlitz. Pork loin and choice cuts of beef are most representative of the jump, he said, adding they have increased 15 cents a pound in the past 10 days.

A wholesale dealer in the city said cost to the store operators on pork loin has gone up eight cents since July 1, and added that the demand is centered on choice cuts of meat which causes the continued rise in prices.

Buyer Resistance Increasing

Many small dealers who once handled a choice selection of cuts, have been forced to abandon the sale of meats, Garlitz said, explaining that buyer resistance is increasing constantly.

In way of explaining the record increase in meat prices, Garlitz said that during the period when prices were ascending after OPA was discontinued, a beef carcass could be purchased at 48 cents a pound but now the same type of meat wholesales at 62 cents a pound.

Ham and bacon prices along with other smoked varieties of meat are following the general trend, Garlitz declared, and are also being sold to the consumer at record prices.

Dairy products, too, are being pulled up in the high price surge, according to Garlitz, although most canned food items and staple groceries are holding somewhat steady.

The high prices have created a definite resistance to meat, Garlitz said, estimating that total tonnage sales are off between 30 and 40 per cent in the past year.

The resistance breaks about every five days, when shoppers get meat hungry, but resumes within a day or two. Sales however, continue low even during the resistance-weak period.

Profit Reduced

Many of the meat dealers who formerly operated on a 20 to 22 per cent gross profit are now reducing operations to at least a 12½ per cent profit, Garlitz declared.

Even wholesalers and packers, who once bought from a week-to-week basis, are now purchasing meat only on order, he said. Many persons are of the opinion that packers and wholesale dealers are holding the prices up, Garlitz said, but "this is not true."

The past president said that while demand has dropped off the old "supply-demand" economic system is still responsible for high prices.

Bids On First Phase Of Cumberland Flood Work To Be Asked This Month

Bids for the construction of pressure conduits as the first unit of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project will be asked about July 30, according to the Army District Engineers' office.

Copies of the specifications were sent yesterday to Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Allegany) and to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Meanwhile, Rep. Beall disclosed that district engineers have approved all plans for work on the Savage River dam, and that plans are now in the hands of the chief of Army Engineers.

As soon as they receive final approval, specifications will be prepared. Rep. Beall said it is expected that engineers will be ready to ask for bids in a month or six weeks.

Paye Appointed

Albert S. Paye was named project manager and engineering liaison agent at a retainer of $6,000, effective July 15. Only dissenting vote to the appointment was cast by Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

The council approved unanimously an order introduced by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to employ the Baltimore law firm of Niles, Barton, Morrow and Yost to check the legality of several acts of the Maryland legislature and ordinances of the Mayor and Council authorizing the issuance of flood bonds.

Cost of the firm's work will be charged to the contingent fund until the bonds are issued, when the cost will be transferred to the flood bond account.

In the Corps of Engineers announcement regarding the Cumberland-Ridgeley project, it was stated that plans and specifications will be available about July 30 and bids will be due August 31.

Congress has authorized an appropriation of $500,000 for work to be undertaken in the fiscal year which started July 1.

Work Details Released

Work in the first unit will be done on the east bank of Wills Creek and on the North Branch of the Potomac Rivers and will largely concern pressure conduits. According to Rep. Beall it will include the following:

Robbery Suspect Is Arrested Here

William Cassady, Garrett County, one of two brothers sought in two states yesterday in connection with the beating and robbery of a West Virginia man Saturday, was apprehended yesterday by Trooper A. M. Spioch of the Maryland State Police, and is being held in County Jail for West Virginia authorities.

Cpl. O. G. Webley, West Virginia State Police, said Cassady had waived extradition, and that he would be returned to West Virginia this morning.

According to Cpl. Webley, Cassady and his brother, Ray, had been drinking with Charles R. Street, near Mt. Storm, W. Va., Saturday, and had offered to buy his 1931 car from him.

After the brothers paid Street $150 in Gormania, W. Va., they knocked him down, took the money, an additional $50 and his watch and drove off in his car, Webley said.

Cpl. Webley said Cassady will be charged with assault and robbery. A similar charge awaits Cassady's brother when he is apprehended, Webley indicated.

Federal Highway Aid Is Unfair, Rep. Beall Says

County To Share In Md. Allotment

Maryland's $4,264,000 federal allotment for highways in which Allegany County and its incorporated communities will share was termed "inadequate" last night by Rep. J. Glenn Beall, who said the nationwide system of distribution is "wholly unfair."

Those states with small areas but large populations, of which Maryland is one, Beall declared, are not receiving a just allotment of federal funds for primary, secondary and urban highways.

Maryland's highways are among the most heavily traveled in the country because of the proximity to the nation's capital, according to Beall, yet this state is among that third of the 48 states receiving less than $5,000,000 in federal highway aid.

Opposes Area Basis

Rep. Beall, a member of the subcommittee of the House Roads Committee, said he has for several years been waging a fight in Congress to have federal highway funds alloted on the basis of registered motor vehicle license tags and population rather than on area as is now being done.

The total allotment is broken down into three classes of roads, with $1,631,000 to be spent on primary or national routes; $1,043,000 on secondary or farm-to-market roads and $1,590,000 on urban or community streets.

The idea of federal monies being alloted to county and municipal governments for road improvement and repair in their jurisdiction is wholly satisfactory, Maryland's Sixth District Representative declared, adding that he can readily see why the federal government should not have final say over the road and street construction in counties and cities.

"But the idea that states with large land areas that are thinly populated receiving allotments in excess of Maryland over whose highways 80 per cent of the traffic to Washington passes, is wholly unfair," Beall declared.

"These federal allotments are not coming out of some new form of taxation," Beall stated, "but from the motorists who pay the federal taxes for gasoline, and as long as automobile owners are paying the tax the money should be spent on those highways that are used by the greatest number of motorists," Beall asserted.

Maryland highways lead into two great metropolitan areas—Baltimore and Washington, Beall explained. Baltimore, he added, contributes 70 per cent of all its gasoline taxes to the Maryland State Roads Commission but not one cent of the money needed to maintain the highways used by the traffic going into the capital comes from the District of Columbia, he pointed out.

State Getting "Run-Around"

Maryland, along with other states small in area and thick in population, "is getting the grand old runaround," Beall averred. "I have fought and will continue to fight for a more equal distribution of federal highway funds," he said.

Under the 1948 act, Allegany County and all others will receive a proportionate share of the amount alloted to the state for farm-to-market roads, he explained. This money will be used by the county commissioners to build and improve secondary roads used by the farmer on his way to market and others who must travel in sections where national highways do not pass.

The urban appropriations will be used at the discretion of municipal governments to build and improve streets deemed necessary in the community. Both governing bodies' plans are subject to the approval of the State Roads Commission but not to the federal government, Beall declared.

Cumberland like other cities and incorporated communities will receive its proportionate share of the state fund, but Beall said he could not determine what the local street fund will be at this time.

Conference Set On Traffic Study For Cumberland

Post, Rizer, SRC Will Confer Today

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that he and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer will go to Baltimore today for a conference with a State Roads Commission official relative to an overall traffic survey for Cumberland.

Arrangements have been made with George Lewis, director of the traffic division of the State Roads Commission, for the meeting.

At its May meeting, the local Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission recommended to city officials that the State Roads Commission be contacted with regard to conducting a traffic survey here.

Previous estimates of the cost of such a survey set the cost at $16,000, of which 50 per cent would be borne by the Public Roads Administration and 25 per cent each, or $4,000, by the state and Cumberland.

Robert M. Reindollar, chairman of the SRC, recently sent Mayor Post a copy of a traffic survey made in Hagerstown during the past year by the commission and the Public Roads Administration.

The lengthy report includes statistics on daily traffic flow, obtained through a series of interview stations set up in the city; and recommendations on parking restrictions and development of new traffic routes.

Police Hold Man Wanted In D. C.

City Police are holding for investigation a man who may have walked out of George Washington University Hospital, Washington, Wednesday, after being admitted for a delicate brain operation.

Jack Notkin, the man being sought, is a Pittsburgh resident who has suffered with amnesia for several years since an automobile accident. Attaches at the hospital reported he walked out Wednesday.

The man being held here closely resembles a description given by the missing man's mother, Mrs. Esther Bunchau, Pittsburgh.

He was picked up Sunday at 2:45 p. m. by Officer Walter Crabtree at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yards here, and ordered held for investigation.

When arrested, he gave two names, John Broun and John Harpst, and said he was a Pittsburgh resident. He says he is 36, while the missing man is 38, and is about five feet, three inches tall, while hospital attaches guessed Notkin's height as about five feet, eight inches.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Poland

A well-known Rock Oak, W. Va., farmer and carpenter, A. Mayberry Poland, 68, died shortly before noon yesterday as the result of gunshot wounds which Hardy County Sheriff A. W. Mathias said were self-inflicted.

Sheriff Mathias reported that he was summoned to Poland's home after several neighbors had broken into the building when they became alarmed at not seeing Poland for some time.

Sheriff Mathias said the house had been thoroughly barricaded, and that when he arrived, Poland was lying beside the bed in his upstairs bedroom. Beside him was a rifle, described as being of "old-time" type. He had been dead several hours, authorities said.

The bullet, Mathias said, entered the abdomen, passed through Poland's body, and came out through the back near the left shoulder.

Poland, who was a bachelor, had been despondent for some time, Mathias said.

Rexroth To Speak

The Weather

The rain that makes the grass grow is scheduled to fall again today but only in the "scattered showers" form, a weatherman who plays a hit-miss game of predicting, said last night. Yesterday's heat which sent the mercury to 84 degrees will continue today and the clouds will make way for the sunshine and sunburn in the morning. It was 69 degrees at 11 p. m. and the rain stick showed that .07 inches of rain fell yesterday.

Union Security Vote Planned For Local 1874

Poll May Be Held Week Of August 2

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, disclosed last night that tentative arrangements for a National Labor Relations Board conducted union security election have been made for the week of August 2.

Plans for a consent election at the Celanese plant late in June were deferred after the company withdrew its consent and appealed to the National Labor Relations Board in Washington to rule on the legality of such a vote in Maryland.

Late last month the NLRB denied, without prejudice, the Celanese appeal.

Company spokesmen declined to comment on the plans for the union security election of the 8,500 member union.

The Taft-Hartley Law requires such a union security election before a union may negotiate for any union security clause including the union shop, which the union desires, and maintenance of membership, which the union has had at the Amcelle plant for several years.

The same law makes mandatory the holding of such an election if 30 per cent of eligible employes authorize the vote.

Both union and company officials reported last night that they have had no communication from James A. Holden, Federal conciliator, toward a contract negotiating meeting.

Last week talks broke off after some progress, chiefly on the tentative agreement on a check-off of dues, with the understanding that both parties would meet when Holden called a conference.

Marine Reserve Payroll Arrives

Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer of Company D, Fifth Infantry Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve, announced that the quarterly payroll has been received and will be distributed at the regular weekly drill Thursday.

The commander said that this quarter's pay is the largest so far received, as many men have performed extra duty to make up for drills missed during the fiscal year.

It was also announced yesterday that three local nurses, Misses Mary Margaret Ziler, Mary Louise Grassi and Angela Leo, have volunteered their services in giving immunization shots to members of the company.

The results were acknowledged in the report of District Unit Director Col. Brown, when he said recently that the group "is the most organized and the most advanced of any in the district in giving shots."

"HOBO BASKET" ARRIVES-- Covered with baggage stamps from most of the nation's major railroads, a "hobo basket" which has traveled nearly 10,000 miles in the past seven months arrived yesterday in the Cumberland division yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The basket is filled with scrolls signed by rail employes along the route who have contributed funds to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. J. W. Whittington, local yardmaster, is shown holding the scroll for Cumberland B. and O. employes. Money donated here will be turned over to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

"Hobo Basket" Reaches Cumberland On Last Leg Of 10,000-Mile Jaunt

B. & O. Men Plan Polio Contributions

A "hobo basket" containing scrolls with the signatures of hundreds of railroad employes all over the nation who have contributed to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis arrived in the Cumberland Division yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yesterday morning.

The basket is nearing the end of a 10,000-mile tour of 17 of the nation's railroad systems.

Last December 22 a group of railway clerks of the Southern Railroad in Birmingham, Ala., started the basket on its long journey, in connection with the annual March of Dimes campaign to raise funds in the battle against polio.

Travels Via Freight

Since that time, in the custody of freight conductors, the basket has traveled from one terminal point to the next on 16 different railroad systems, with the B. and O. being the 17th and last.

It arrived in the Cumberland yards yesterday aboard the caboose on No. 97, a fast freight between Brunswick and Cumberland.

B. and O. personnel at Brunswick contributed $154 during the basket's stay there.

L. E. Madden, local yardmaster, said the wooden container is similar to the large lunch baskets used 25 years ago by railroad men who were out on the road for two or three days at a time.

The basket's next destination is Cincinnati, O., where it will be transferred to the Southern Railroad for the last leg of the journey back to Birmingham.

Madden said arrangements have been made to turn over all contributions by B. and O. men here to Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

The basket will be sent on its way to Cincinnati in the next day or two, Madden said, to complete its journey by freight through a total of 17 states.

Described as "the railroad man's way of contributing to a worthy cause," the basket is literally covered with baggage stamps from the various railroad systems.

Route Is Listed

After leaving Birmingham last December, the basket traveled via the Southern Railroad to Memphis, Tenn.; to Kansas City, Mo., on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad; to Des Moines, Ia., on the Rock Island.

To Milwaukee, Wis., on the Chicago and Northwestern; to Champion, Mich., on the Milwaukee Railroad; to Duluth, Minn., on the South Shore and Atlantic Railroad; to Spokane, Wash., on the Great Northern.

To Wishram, Ore., on the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railroad, and to Bend, Ore., on the Oregon Trunk Railroad; to Bieber, Calif., on the Great Northern; to San Francisco on the Western Pacific Railroad; to Amarillo, Tex., aboard the Santa Fe.

To Dallas, Tex., on the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad; to Shreveport, La., on the St. Louis and Southwestern; to Hattiesburg, Miss., on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad; to Meridian, Miss., via a branch of the Southern Railroad.

To Montgomery, Ala., aboard the Galveston, Mobile and Ohio Railroad; to Macon, Ga., aboard the Central Georgia Railroad; and to Washington, D. C., aboard the Southern Railroad, where the B. and O. took over the job of sending the basket on its way.

Avirett Suggests Recreation Site On Chase Street

Chairman James Alfred Avirett of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission commented yesterday that a large vacant lot on Chase Street between Beall and Paca Streets would be an "excellent location" for a recreation area.

Conditional permission was granted a month ago by the Mayor and Council for use of the lot, but because of the 90-day cancellation clause, the company said it would seek other locations before making a final decision.

A number of groups, including the planning commission, have objected to the idea of building a railroad siding at the site because of danger to children in the neighborhood.

Pointing out that the lot has over 200 feet of frontage on Paca Street, Avirett said the site could accommodate a recreation building or a large playground.

In view of the proximity of West Side School, the area could be developed into a combined recreation and education center which would add to the attractiveness of the locality and would serve the Paca, Beall, Smallwood, Greene and Rose Hill sections, he added.

No formal action was taken on the suggestion, which was merely introduced as a part of the general discussion at the meeting. Mayor Thomas S. Post expressed his approval of the idea, however.

The commission scheduled its next meeting for August 9.

Meat Prices Soar To Record High In City

Increase 10 To 15 Per Cent In July

Meat prices have reached the highest point in the history of Cumberland, according to George F. Garlitz, past president of the Independent Retail Food Dealers of Maryland, who said buyer der is off between 30 and 40 per cent.

Overall retail prices on meats have increased between 10 and 15 per cent in the past week, according to Garlitz. Pork loin and choice cuts of beef are most representative of the jump, he said, adding they have increased 15 cents a pound in the past 10 days.

A wholesale dealer in the city said cost to the store operators on pork loin has gone up eight cents since July 1, and added that the demand is centered on choice cuts of meat which causes the continued rise in prices.

Buyer Resistance Increasing

Many small dealers who once handled a choice selection of cuts, have been forced to abandon the sale of meats, Garlitz said, explaining that buyer resistance is increasing constantly.

In way of explaining the record increase in meat prices, Garlitz said that during the period when prices were ascending after OPA was discontinued, a beef carcass could be purchased at 48 cents a pound but now the same type of meat wholesales at 62 cents a pound.

Ham and bacon prices along with other smoked varieties of meat are following the general trend, Garlitz declared, and are also being sold to the consumer at record prices.

Dairy products, too, are being pulled up in the high price surge, according to Garlitz, although most canned food items and staple groceries are holding somewhat steady.

The high prices have created a definite resistance to meat, Garlitz said, estimating that total tonnage sales are off between 30 and 40 per cent in the past year.

The resistance breaks about every five days, when shoppers get meat hungry, but resumes within a day or two. Sales however, continue low even during the resistance-weak period.

Profit Reduced

Many of the meat dealers who formerly operated on a 20 to 22 per cent gross profit are now reducing operations to at least a 12½ per cent profit, Garlitz declared.

Even wholesalers and packers, who once bought from a week-to-week basis, are now purchasing meat only on order, he said. Many persons are of the opinion that packers and wholesale dealers are holding the prices up, Garlitz said, but "this is not true."

The past president said that while demand has dropped off the old "supply-demand" economic system is still responsible for high prices.

Cpl. O. G. Webley, West Virginia State Police, said Cassady had waived extradition, and that he would be returned to West Virginia this morning.

According to Cpl. Webley, Cassady and his brother, Ray, had been drinking with Charles R. Street, near Mt. Storm, W. Va., Saturday, and had offered to buy his 1931 car from him.

After the brothers paid Street $150 in Gormania, W. Va., they knocked him down, took the money, an additional $50 and his watch and drove off in his car, Webley said.

Cpl. Webley said Cassady will be charged with assault and robbery. A similar charge awaits Cassady's brother when he is apprehended, Webley indicated.

Woman With 'Mysterious Power' Fails To Find Missing Collier Child

A Pittsburgh, Pa., woman with "mysterious powers" for finding lost persons failed in her efforts to solve the 18-day old mystery of missing Donald Collier, 22-months-old, in the Somerset County, Pa., mountains, Pennsylvania State Police said last night.

The Pittsburgh woman is among numerous other persons who are arriving in Somerset County daily from all parts of the East to aid with their "supernatural powers," according to authorities, who said, "Everybody is given a chance."

One unidentified man, who told police he drove 50 miles because he had a dream in which he saw a man and woman fighting over a child and strangle it, was positive he could furnish the answer to where the baby wandered after he was last seen by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Collier at their summer cabin on July 2.

Police said the "dream-believer" was taken to the cabin where the child was last seen in Laurel Ridge section and "vowed that it was the same scene he saw in the dream."

"The dream must have ended before the child disappeared," police said "for the man couldn't help any further."

A woman arrived in Somerset last week with a story that she had dreamed two men beat a child and hid the body under a big rock. For several hours she had volunteer searchers turning over huge boulders, one trooper said, and even when the workers lost faith in her dream she went away mumbling, "Just wait, you'll find the body under a big rock."

Authorities said the nation-wide publicity given the case is beginning to attract numerous cranks to the scene and making unending work for investigators who have not turned anyone away so far without hearing their story.

A woman from up-state showed up at the State Police barracks recently after visiting a fortune teller. She told police she was the person "appointed to find the child."

"We sorta hoped she was right," a trooper said, "but the climb up the mountain proved too much for her, and after a short search she lost the appointment."

Police said the actual search which has been conducted by several hundred persons at various times failed to reveal a single clue up to last night.

Small groups of authorities are continuing to search the area while investigating authorities have turned their attention to a blaze termed incendiary, which destroyed a small abandoned barn within three quarters of a mile from where the child was last seen.

Sheriff Karl Hare, Somerset County, said the blaze, which occurred early Sunday morning, "has a definite connection" with the boy's disappearance.

Bids On First Phase Of Cumberland Flood Work To Be Asked This Month

Bids for the construction of pressure conduits as the first unit of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project will be asked about July 30, according to the Army District Engineers' office.

Copies of the specifications were sent yesterday to Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Allegany) and to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Meanwhile, Rep. Beall disclosed that district engineers have approved all plans for work on the Savage River dam, and that plans are now in the hands of the chief of Army Engineers.

As soon as they receive final approval, specifications will be prepared. Rep. Beall said it is expected that engineers will be ready to ask for bids in a month or six weeks.

Paye Appointed

Albert S. Paye was named project manager and engineering liaison agent at a retainer of $6,000, effective July 15. Only dissenting vote to the appointment was cast by Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

The council approved unanimously an order introduced by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to employ the Baltimore law firm of Niles, Barton, Morrow and Yost to check the legality of several acts of the Maryland legislature and ordinances of the Mayor and Council authorizing the issuance of flood bonds.

Cost of the firm's work will be charged to the contingent fund until the bonds are issued, when the cost will be transferred to the flood bond account.

In the Corps of Engineers announcement regarding the Cumberland-Ridgeley project, it was stated that plans and specifications will be available about July 30 and bids will be due August 31.

Congress has authorized an appropriation of $500,000 for work to be undertaken in the fiscal year which started July 1.

Work Details Released

Work in the first unit will be done on the east bank of Wills Creek and on the North Branch of the Potomac Rivers and will largely concern pressure conduits. According to Rep. Beall it will include the following:

Box 4 by 3½ feet, 1,040 feet, on Knox Street.
